By teletype dated April 20, 1950, the New York Office advised that [Informant   of known reliability, advised in March 1950 that subject in 1941 requested ANNE M. MUMFORD, Executive Secretary of the John Randolph Haynes and Dora Haynes Foundation, 2324 South Figueroa Street, Los Angeles, for financial assistance while she prepared a book; that subject had then just returned from China where she was a correspondent for the "Manchester Guardian".

The informant stated that MUMFORD relayed AGNES SMEDLEY's request to a Dr. GALEN FISHER, of the Institute of Pacific Relations in San Francisco, and asked if the Institute of Pacific Relations would aid subject. MUMFORD informed FISHER that subject's book would be based on her observation in China "especially along the Yangtze where she spent a long time with the

The Los Angeles Office was requested to identify ANNE M. MUMFORD and the Haynes Foundation.

HAYNES FOUNDATION

At the Los Angeles Public Library, a copy of the Declaration of Trust of the John Randolph Haynes and Dora Haynes Foundation was examined and reflected that this Foundation was originally endowed on September 2, 1926 through a gift of certain stocks and bonds. The individuals making the endowment were JOHN RANDOLPH HAYNES and his wife, DORA HAYNES. The Declaration of Trust stated that the Foundation was to be operated exclusively for charitable purposes and for promoting the well-being of mankind; that it was to study, conduct research, and publish information regarding civic, economic, social, industrial, educational, and living conditions, particularly of the working people.

According to the Declaration of Trust, the Foundation was permitted to organize, assist in organizing, and to maintain educational and other charitable activities, agencies, and institutions.

The first President of the Foundation was JOHN RANDOLPH HAYNES, and at the time the trust was started ANNE M. MUMFORD was one of the trustees.

Also at the Public Library was a pamphlet entitled "The General Purpose and Progress for the Year 1947-48 of the Haynes Foundation". In this booklet, it was stated that the purpose of the Foundation was to carry on the interests of the founders in everything tending to promote civic and economic progress, in assisting to improve the physical and educational standards of our people, and in helping in matters designed to better conditions under which working people live and labor. This pamphlet stated that the trustees of the Foundation had decided that, according to the original plans of the founders, the Foundation would concentrate its efforts in the Los Angeles region and pursuant to such a plan the Foundation has published a number of booklets and articles dealing with civic and economic problems in the Los Angeles area, such as housing problems, problems in local Government, wages in the Los Angeles area, and production costs in the Los Angeles area. According to the booklet, in 1948 the Administrative Staff of the Foundation consisted of the following: Executive Secretary - ANNE M. MUMFORD; Assistant Secretary - SUZANNE REYNOLDS; Publication Secretaries - PHYLLIS DEBENEDETTO, BESSIE GEROLAMO, and DOLORES LAVENE.

The Research Staff consisted of the following: [redacted]
 Consultant on Foreign Government; [redacted] Economist; [redacted] Sociologist; [redacted] Senior Research Assistant.

b7C

The Board of Trustees was composed of the following individuals: President - FRANCES E. LINDLEY; First Vice President - REMSEN D. BIRD; Second Vice President - E. F. SCATTERGOOD; Secretary - ANNE M. MUMFORD; EDWIN A. COTTRELL; REGINALD D. JOHNSON; JOHN HENRY RUSSELL; GORDON S. WATKINS; Mrs. WALTER LINDLEY.

The publication "Who's Who in California" for the years 1928-29 states that JOHN RANDOLPH HAYNES was born at Fairmont Springs, Pennsylvania, on June 13, 1853; that he was a physician and surgeon who began his medical practice in Los Angeles in 1887; that he was extremely active in civic affairs in Los Angeles and was instrumental in drafting the initiative, referendum, and recall provisions which became part of the Los Angeles city charter.

The publication further reflected that HAYNES had been a member of a great number of organizations, civic and social, in the Los Angeles area.

By letter dated July 2, 1942, the Washington Field Office forwarded a photostatic copy of a mimeographed article dated November 17, 1927 at Los Angeles which was marked "Confidential" and which was obtained from [redacted] whose reliability is not known. On page 5 of this article under the heading "American Civil Liberties Union" (hereinafter referred to as ACLU), it was stated that an Executive Committee meeting of the ACLU was held on Monday, November 7 (1927) and that at this meeting it was planned to hold another meeting of the committee, probably at the home of Mrs. (KATE CRANE) GARTZ either on November 21 or 28; that among those who will be invited to this meeting are Dr. JOHN R. HAYNES, [redacted] and other wealthy radicals. (U)

b7C

The informant stated that at the November 7 meeting a report was made that the John R. Haynes Foundation, while not going directly for ACLU, will be made for the support of things that the ACLU stands for. It was also reported at this meeting that Dr. HAYNES is probably worth several millions of dollars and that his entire estate will go into the Haynes Foundation. (U)

ANNE M. MUMFORD, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY, HAYNES FOUNDATION

Information was received from the Retail Merchants Credit Association and the Registrar of Voters, Los Angeles County, by SE [ ] that Miss ANNE M. MUMFORD was born in Michigan, is about 48 years old, and resides at 423 South Commonwealth Avenue, Los Angeles; that she has been employed as Executive Secretary for the Haynes Foundation, 2324 South Figueroa Street, since 1926; that her salary in 1942 was approximately $466 per month; that prior to her position as Executive Secretary to the Haynes Foundation she was secretary for Dr. HAYNES. In 1942 she registered as a member of one of the major political parties.

b2 In the first part of 1944, [Informant ] of known reliability, made available a list of the committee members of the Committee of Inter-racial Progress, which committee had been authorized by the Los Angeles County Supervisors. The function of the committee was to analyze problems in the field of race relations and to present them to appropriate agencies for handling. Miss ANNE MUMFORD, 2324 South Figueroa Street, Los Angeles, was listed as a member of this committee. (U) b2 Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised in December 1944 that an individual from the Haynes Foundation Library contacted [ ] who was employed as a switchboard operator and clerk at the Communist Party Headquarters at Los Angeles, relative to some material missing from the files of the Haynes Foundation Library and apparently assuming that the missing material was at the Communist Party Headquarters. This person was informed by [ ] that the material would be returned. (U) b2 The "Evening Herald Express", a Los Angeles daily publication, in its issue of January 12, 1945 contained an article captioned "Yugoslav Relief Aid" which stated in substance that an organization had recently been formed under the title of "Los Angeles American Committee for Yugoslav Relief". The article stated that the Executive Committee was formed of sixteen individuals who met at the Biltmore Hotel on January 12, 1945 and that ANNE MUMFORD was a member of this committee. The article also stated that Dr. REMSEN D. BIRD (listed above as First Vice President of the Board of Trustees of the Haynes Foundation in 1947-48) was also a member of this committee. The article continued that this committee would seek sponsors for a campaign to provide money, food, clothing, and medicine to be sent to the suffering people of Yugoslavia.

Transmitted herewith are five copies of the report of SA James T. O'Brien dated 4/28/50 at NY in this case.

The attention of the Bureau is directed to the fact that in the Administrative Section of this report there has been set forth information relative to RICHARD LAUTERBACH and the "National Guardian", official publication of the Progressive Party, ascertained to be subscribers to telephone numbers called by SMEDLEY. Information concerning [redacted], a subject in the phone calls MOCASE, also appears in this section of the report. In the event it may be deemed desirable to disseminate this section of the report by placing it in the details, these items should be given consideration. U

43 In ascertaining subscribers to numbers called from the [redacted] residence, where SMEDLEY was staying, it appeared that the number [redacted] was called on December 28, 1948. This is the firm of GREENBAUM, WOLFF and ERNST, Attorneys, of which MORRIS L. ERNST, noted attorney, is a member. This information does not appear in the enclosed report. U

It will be noted that data relating to the subscribers' numbers called from [redacted] residence, on whom derogatory information has been obtained, is the last part of the details of this report. This is to facilitate deleting this material from the details, in the event the Bureau decides that the connection between SMEDLEY and these persons, as shown in the report, appears too indefinite. LOUIS ~~F~~ BUDENZ, Assistant Professor, Fordham University, New York City, and formerly managing editor of the "Daily Worker", East Coast Communist newspaper, and a Communist Party functionary until October, 1945, was interviewed by SA William J. McCarthy, Jr. on April 21, 24, 1950, and by SA's [redacted] and William J. McCarthy, Jr. on April 27, 1950. u

Mr. BUDENZ advised that he first met AGNES SMEDLEY in either 1921 or 1922. He cannot presently place the date any more accurately than this. He stated the meeting took place in the office of the AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION where BUDENZ was employed as the publicity director. The office was located on West 13th Street, New York City, and was right next door to the Communist publication "Masses". u

When BUDENZ met AGNES SMEDLEY, ROGER ~~B~~ BALDWIN, who was then and still is leader of the AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION, was present. No one else was present. u

When BUDENZ was introduced to AGNES SMEDLEY, she stated "You look like a Government man to me." BUDENZ stated ROGER BALDWIN advised Miss SMEDLEY that BUDENZ was not a Government man, but had been working with the group in the AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION on strikes in St. Louis and other places and was a reliable person. u

BUDENZ cannot recall anything further about this particular meeting. He does recall the above meeting and a portion of the conversation reported above because it disturbed him to be called a Government man, as he was when first introduced to SMEDLEY. u

BUDENZ stated that it is his best recollection that he talked with BOB ~~D~~ DUNNE, who was then and who still is, according to BUDENZ, a Communist Party member, and he asked DUNNE about SMEDLEY. DUNNE told him that SMEDLEY was engaged in "spying" for the Soviet Union. BUDENZ stated no one else was present when he had his conversation with BOB DUNNE. He cannot place the date of this conversation other than to say that it was sometime around the time that he met AGNES SMEDLEY. u

It is his recollection that he met AGNES SMEDLEY again, possibly a few months after the first meeting, on 13th Street in front of the publication "Masses". BUDENZ cannot recall whether anyone else was present or not, but thinks that possibly the girl who was the business manager of the "Masses" may have been with SMEDLEY at the time. She was, u

according to BUDENZ, a great admirer of SMEDLEY. BUDENZ thinks that possibly her first name was ~~FREDA~~. He stated she was married, in her early 20's, dark complected, and had a Joan-of-Arc type bobbed hair. He added that ~~MAX~~ EASTMAN was the editor of "Masses" at the time. u

BUDENZ stated at this second meeting with AGNES SMEDLEY, BUDENZ told her that he hoped that she had given up the idea of his being a Government man. She stated at this time: "I am doing secret work for India and the Soviet Union, and I like to know with whom I am dealing." BUDENZ stated that this is the only part of this conversation or the only thing about this meeting that he can recall. u

BUDENZ stated that from 1922 until the late 1930's, he heard about AGNES SMEDLEY now and then, but he cannot recall anything pertinent concerning her. u

He added that sometime between 1935 and 1940, an incident did occur which he recalls. He stated that he was the labor editor of the "Daily Worker" at the time and he was assigned to work one Sunday, and some piece of business came up in connection with AGNES SMEDLEY. He cannot recall just what it was, possibly she was returning to the U. S. or possibly one of her books was coming out, or it may still have been something else in connection with her. However, HARRY GANNES, who was a Communist, according to BUDENZ and who was the former editor of the "Daily Worker" at the time, had a conversation with BUDENZ and no one else was present. u

GANNES asked BUDENZ if he knew AGNES SMEDLEY, and BUDENZ told GANNES about meeting AGNES during the early 1920's. GANNES then stated AGNES SMEDLEY was a Communist and was also "one of our most valued agents in China". GANNES added that at times she was irresponsible, but this irresponsibility sometimes helped her. BUDENZ stated that he understood this statement of HARRY GANNES to mean that AGNES SMEDLEY was an agent of the Communist Party, the Comintern or the Soviet Union. He did not know which nor did he inquire of GANNES. u

BUDENZ stated that he believes that HARRY GANNES mentioned AGNES SMEDLEY to him on another occasion, but he cannot recall anything specific u

~~SECRET~~

about this. u

BUDENZ stated he never heard AGNES SMEDLEY mentioned in a political committee meeting and he never saw her at a closed Communist Party meeting. u

BUDENZ stated that it was his belief that AGNES SMEDLEY had very little connection with the Communist Party, USA. He based this on the fact that she spent most of her life in China. BUDENZ stated he vaguely recalled a private reception which was given by officials of the Communist Party, USA in New York sometime between 1940 and 1945 for AGNES SMEDLEY. He added that this is very vague in his mind and it might be that the reception was for some other woman. u

BUDENZ stated that the "Daily Worker" reviewed SMEDLEY's books and generally the reviews were favorable. He added, however, that the Communist Party treated AGNES SMEDLEY as an "independent" rather than as an open Communist. BUDENZ stated this was the "Daily Worker" policy in regard to AGNES SMEDLEY. He stated that this policy had been made known to him by someone in authority, possibly JACK STACHEL, but he could not say who, nor when, nor under what circumstances. u

BUDENZ stated that treating AGNES SMEDLEY as an "independent" meant that any items concerning her which were to appear in the "Daily Worker" should be written to make it appear that she was not a Communist, but rather was an independent whose policies and whose ideas frequently paralleled those of the Communist Party. u

BUDENZ stated that the following individuals might know AGNES SMEDLEY and be able to furnish information about her:

~~FREDA~~ UTLEY, who spent a great deal of time in China;
~~BENJAMIN~~ GITLOW, one of the leaders of the Communist Party during the 1920's;
~~MAX~~ EASTMAN, editor of the "Masses" during the 1920's;
~~BEN~~ MANDELL, active in Communist Party circles during the 1920's

BUDENZ stated that he cannot presently recall anything further concerning AGNES SMEDLEY. He added, however, that during his reviews of old editions of the "Daily Worker", something might possibly refresh his recollection concerning AGNES SMEDLEY, and if that were the case, he would immediately advise this office.

ELIZABETH T. BENTLEY, self-admitted former Soviet Agent, was interviewed on April 24, 1950, by SAs [redacted]. She recalled that one JOSEPH W. ECKHART, whom she met in New York in 1936, had described AGNES SMEDLEY as a Soviet Intelligence Agent in China. $U

She stated that during the period from March 1937 to January 1938 she had been contacted frequently by ECKHART, who was supposedly conducting negotiations to obtain a position in an aircraft factory for BENTLEY. She stated that it was her impression that he was studying her with a view toward determining her competence for intelligence assignments. ECKHART informed her at the time that his main business in the United States was that of purchasing aircraft to be smuggled to Spain via Mexico for use in the Spanish Civil War. From this, she advised, she had deduced that ECKHART was a Comintern Agent rather than a member of the Soviet Intelligence and had believed that he was an Agent of some Communist Party in Europe, probably Lithuanian. $U

ECKHART informed her that he had worked as a Soviet Agent in China from 1924 to 1927 and had returned there in the early 1930's, although she did not know the exact date. She recalled that he had described SMEDLEY as "one of ours" which term was used to describe a non-Russian member of Soviet Intelligence. She stated emphatically that the term was never used in connection with mere members of the Communist Party. She was unable to specify the exact period when ECKHART was associated with SMEDLEY, or the exact location in China, although she stated that she had received the impression that the two were not merely social acquaintances but that they had done intelligence work together. She recalled also that ECKHART had been critical of SMEDLEY'S abilities as an espionage agent and that he considered her indiscreet. $U

She was unable to furnish any more specific information concerning ECKHART'S statements about SMEDLEY, and advised that she had been informed, probably by JACOB GOLOS, that ECKHART had returned to Russia and had died in the 1938 purge there. $U

She stated that in 1941, in a conversation with GOLOS, she had mentioned to him her contacts with ECKHART, whom GOLOS described as a member of Soviet Military Intelligence. She related also that she had mentioned ECKHART'S accounts of his work in China and of his mention of AGNES SMEDLEY to GOLOS and that he had replied, "I know that gal. We all know her." GOLOS also stated at that time that SMEDLEY was "one of ours". BENTLEY stated positively that GOLOS had used that expression in referring to her. $U

She was unable to recall the exact statements made by GOLOS but advised that it was her impression that GOLOS had known SMEDLEY in Moscow, although it might have been in the United States, and that he knew her quite well. She also stated that it was her impression from her conversation with GOLOS that SMEDLEY had once been a very important member of the Soviet Intelligence setup but that she was at that time (1941) either a "has-been" or at least of waning importance. $ U

She could not recall the explanation given by GOLOS for this, but stated that it was definitely her recollection that he had indicated this to her. She stated that to the best of her recollection all of this information concerning SMEDLEY had been received from GOLOS in one conversation and that he had not mentioned her at any other time. U

It is noted that JACOB GOLOS was Miss BENTLEY's espionage principal during a portion of the period in which she was connected with the Soviet Intelligence System. $ U

Miss BENTLEY also recalled that in 1944 she had been chatting with EARL BROWDER at his home at Monroe, New York and that he had been reminiscing about his experiences in China in the 1920's. At that time she mentioned SMEDLEY's name to him and BROWDER also made the statement that SMEDLEY was "one of ours". She again indicated that BROWDER had used the same expression as GOLOS and ECKHART and that the phrase definitely indicated intelligence work. $ U

She was unable to advise whether BROWDER was personally acquainted with SMEDLEY but stated that she believed that he probably had known her in China. She stated that to the best of her recollection BROWDER had never spoken of SMEDLEY at any other time. U

[ ] was interviewed by SAS [ ] and WILLIAM S. TAVEL at his summer residence in Stamford, Connecticut. He advised that he first met AGNES SMEDLEY in the United States in 1935. In 1937, according to [ ] he and his wife took a trip to China for his health. While in Peking, he met OWEN LATTIMORE and T. ALBISON. They, together with a guide named [ ], made a five-week trip to Yen-an, China, where they remained three days interviewing MAO TSE TUNG and other Chinese Communist leaders. [ ] said that upon his arrival in Yen-an, AGNES SMEDLEY, EDGAR SNOW and his wife were already there. U

[ ] further stated that Miss SMEDLEY was expelled from Yen-an by the Chinese Communists because she was a "busybody". He stated, however, that she later became correspondent with the Chinese Communists New Fourth Army. He stated that in his opinion, AGNES SMEDLEY is only interested in helping the poor and downtrodden people. He claims that she is an adherent of the Chinese Communists in China, but not a Communist Party member and is not even favorable to the Communist Party, USA. In fact, [ ] stated that he has heard Miss SMEDLEY criticize the American Communists. However, he was unable to offer any examples of this criticism. U

b7C

[ ] also stated that he does not believe that AGNES SMEDLEY is a Soviet Agent. [ ] also advised that he remembers that at the time CHIANG KAI-SHEK was kidnapped in 1936, Miss SMEDLEY broadcast from a Chinese radio station her opinion of the kidnapping. He does not remember, however, what she said or what her opinion of this kidnapping was. However, he does remember that she was "publicly disowned" by EARL BROWDER and the Communist Party in the United States for this broadcast. b2 Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised b7D in March, 1950 that in January, 1942 the subject, while residing at RR2, Box 57, b7C Ojai, California, directed a letter to the headquarters of the Institute of Pacific Relations in New York City, requesting that organization to use its influence to get CHEN HAN-SENG and his wife out of Hongkong by having them placed on a prisoner exchange list. According to the informant, [ ] of the IPR advised the subject that he did not believe it possible that Mr. and Mrs. CHEN HAN-SENG could be placed on an exchange list at that time, but he assured the subject that HAN-SENG was known to the IPR and that if at all possible, the IPR would aid him and his family. u

The Institute of Pacific Relations has been cited by the California Committee on Un-American Activities, report 1948, page 168, as a Communist Party front organization. u

Mr. LOUIS BUDENZ, former Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker," an East Coast Communist newspaper, advised on March 27, 1950 that OWEN LATTIMORE had knowingly aided Communists in placing articles in the publication
 "Pacific Affairs," the official organ of the IPR. u

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised that the IPR was dominated by pro-Soviets, and that the organization had given the American public a false impression of the Far East situation by slanting its policy to favor the USSR. u

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised in March, 1950 that when he was in Moscow sometime prior to 1937, he had several contacts with General I. BERZIN, who was then head of Soviet Military Intelligence On one occasion, BERZIN advised informant that the IPR was an organization being used by Soviet Military Intelligence in China. (u)

According to the personnel files of the Office of War Information, and the foreign service and security files of the United States State Department, WILLIAM L. HOLLAND was Research Director and Editor of the IPR from June, 1933 to August, 1944. He began work at the OWI as a consultant, on August 12, 1944, and terminated his services on February 28, 1946, having served in Chungking, China from March 6, 1945 to November 4, 1945. A memorandum in HOLLAND's personnel file, dated December 12, 1945, noted that the Security Screening Commission recommended that HOLLAND's proposed transfer from the Interim International Information Service to the Auxiliary Foreign Service of the Department of State be disapproved as he was a security risk "because of radical and Communist affiliations." These files listed HOLLAND's address as being 345 East 68th Street, New York City. u

NY 100-68282

An article in the April 7, 1950 edition of the "New York Herald Tribune" listed WILLIAM L. HOLLAND as being Secretary General of the IPR at that time. This article also noted that HOLLAND had denied having any Communist affiliations. U b7C On April 17, 1950 WILLIAM L. HOLLAND identified himself at the offices of the IPR, 1 East 54th Street, New York City, as Secretary General of that organization to Special Agents Chester A. Reilly, [redacted] and [redacted]. U

In March, 1950, Confidential Informant [ ] advised that in 1943, [ ] of IPR, informed him that CHEN HAN-SENG was then in danger in China of being taken away by some underground "right wing group" because of CHEN'S "liberal views and progressive attitude". [ ] stated that according to his sources of information in China, one "liberal" writer had already been arrested; that CHEN might well be next, and that the IPR should act quickly if they wanted to get CHEN out of China. The informant was told by [ ] that he had been advised that the best solution would be to have three or four leading universities invite CHEN HAN-SENG to come to the United States as a temporary research professor or associate, rather than have CHEN invited to come to the United States by the IPR. u

Confidential Informant [ ] of unknown reliability, has stated that OWEN IATTIMORE advised him, in March, 1949, that the Carnegie Foundation had suddenly displayed a coldness toward IATTIMORE and indicated it did not wish to finance anymore of his projects. At the same time officials of the State Department displayed a reluctance to discuss matters of mutual interest with IATTIMORE. Informant noted that IATTIMORE had employed at Johns Hopkins University for a considerable length of time, "a Chinese economist who was without a doubt, a member of the Communist Party, inasmuch as he adhered strictly to the political line laid down by the 'Daily Worker'." IATTIMORE advised the informant that it was likely that this Chinese was a Communist and he had dispensed with his services a month or so earlier. u

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised on April 4, 1950 that CHEN HAN-SENG was known to him as a member of the Communist Party over twenty years ago. U

With respect to OWEN LATTIMORE, it is noted that the 1948-1949 edition of "Who's Who in America" states that OWEN LATTIMORE was born in Washington, D. C. on July 29, 1900. He attended graduate school at Harvard in 1929; was engaged in business in Shanghai, China in 1920, and in newspaper work in Tientsin in 1921. From 1922 to 1926 he was in business with the Arnhold and Company, Ltd. in Tientsin and Peiping. Since 1926 he has been engaged in traveling and in writing. He conducted research in Manchuria under the Social Science Research Council from 1929 to 1930; in Peiping under the Harvard-Yenching Institute from 1930 to 1931, and under the J. S. Guggenheim Memorial Foundation from 1931 to 1933. He conducted field work in Mongolia, and research in Peiping under the IPR from 1934 to 1935. From 1934 to 1941 he was Editor of "Pacific Affairs" (a quarterly published by the IPR), and is presently Director of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations, Johns Hopkins University. From 1941 to 1942 he was Political Adviser to CHIANG KAI-SHEK and from 1942 to 1944 he was Deputy Director of Pacific Operations for the Office of War Information. The subject needed financial assistance to enable her to write a book which was to be based on her observations in China, "especially along the Yangtze, where she spent a long time with the Nationalist Armies, as well as the Red Armies." U

MUMFORD relayed the subject's request to Dr. GALEN FISHER of the Institute of Pacific Relations, at 1795 California Street, San Francisco, California, in the belief that the IPR would be able to furnish financial assistance to the subject. U

The informant advised that Dr. FISHER discussed this question with [redacted] who has been previously mentioned, and [redacted] suggested that FISHER should request financial assistance for the subject from EDWARD C. With respect to Dr. GALEN FISHER, it is noted that "Who's Who In America" in 1941 reflected that GALEN MERRIAM FISHER, a Social Research Worker, was born on April 17, 1873 in Oakland, California. He obtained a degree of Bachelor of Literature from the University of California in 1896, an MA degree at Harvard in 1905, and studied at Columbia University from 1913 to 1914, and from 1920 to 1922. Three or four days after his arrival in New York, he went to a large Quaker Church in downtown New York. [ ] had been praying

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent Robert W. Coholan on April 26, 1950 at the "New York Times" morgue:

The March 19, 1918 issue of the "New York Times" reflects an article captioned, "Held American Girl As An Indian Plotter". The following pertinent portions of this article are set forth:

"Important evidence bearing on a plot to cause uprisings in India against British rule has come into possession of the government as a result of the arrest yesterday of Miss AGNES SMEDLEY, an American girl, also known as AGNES BRUNDIN, and SALLENDRA NATH GHOSE, a Hindu who is prominent in the activities of an organization which calls itself the 'India Nationalist Party', with headquarters in Tajere Castle, Calcutta. Not only does the data which the government has obtained, as a result of the arrest of these two persons, involve plots in India, but they also disclose the fact that LEON TROTSKY, the deposed Bolshevist Foreign Minister to Russia, was recently appealed to for aid in stirring up trouble in India and was asked to use his influence against the U. S. in arresting and bringing to trial Hindus and others who plotted in the U. S. against British sovereignty.

"The complaints on which the woman and the Hindu were arrested recite the activities of the prisoners as members of the Indian Nationalist Party and state that in addition to the United States they also sought to carry on their work in Brazil, Panama and other South and Central American countries. GHOSE is already under indictment in California, along with others, for conspiring in that State to bring about a revolution in India.

"GHOSE and Miss SMEDLEY denied the charges filed against them by the government, but the government considers the case one of the most important that has developed in months in connection with the worldwide German plot to cause trouble in India and weaken British effectiveness in France.

"When arraigned before U. S. Commissioner HITCHCOCK, GHOSE was held in $25,000 bail and Miss SMEDLEY $10,000. In default they were locked in the Tombs.

~~SECRET~~

NY 100-68282

"The complaint states that they represented themselves as 'A special commission representing the India Nationalist Party, working for the independence of India, and for the establishment of a democratic federated republic of 315 million of the Indian people' and that, as such representatives, they sought to have relations with the United States, Brazil, Chile and other countries and that, in order to 'effect the object of the conspiracy' GHOSE, on January 12th last, addressed to the Brazilian Embassy in Washington, D.C. 'a certain communication against the peace of the United States'. The communication sent to the Brazilian Embassy is said to be identical with the one sent to TROTSKY.

"According to the government, GHOSE has been in Mexico, where he was known under the names ~~'SANCHEZ'~~ and ~~'METRA'~~. In San Francisco he was associated with DR. CHANDRA ~~CHAKRABERTY~~, who was on trial in that city; while one of his friends in New York is a German known as ~~SEKUNNA~~, who was arrested several months ago as one of the Indian plotters.

"When Commissioner SHIELDS suggested to Miss SMEDLEY that she might aid her country by exposing the conspiracy, she repudiated the suggestion."

The March 20, 1918 issue of the "New York Times" reflects an article captioned, "Find Hindu Plot Letter To Pacifist In Woman's Papers". The article stated that a letter of introduction to LOUIS ~~LOCHNER~~, Pacifist, signed by ~~VARANATH DAS~~, a Hindu under indictment in San Francisco upon charges of conspiracy to stir up a revolt in India, was found by Federal Agents among the papers seized in the apartment of AGNES SMEDLEY.

LOCHNER was informed in this letter that the writer met him in Stockholm, Sweden when LOCHNER was there as a member of the Ford Peace Mission. The man in whose interest the letter was sent was GHOSE, who was arrested as one of the individuals involved in the Hindu conspiracy.

Other documents showed there was great friendship between SMEDLEY and GHOSE both of whom, the article stated, were in the Tombs in default of bail.

The March 28, 1918 issue of the "New York Times" reflects that a Federal Grand Jury filed an indictment on March 27, 1918 charging Miss AGNES SMEDLEY, active radical worker, with violation of the Espionage Act. SMEDLEY was arrested with GHOSE, who recently arrived in New York from Mexico.

~~SECRET~~

NY 100-68282

The article stated that GHOSE was being held in New York for extradition to San Francisco, where he was charged with having plotted to ship arms to India for an uprising to be launched there with the help of German agents. Miss SMEDLEY was accused of having aided him to circulate a book entitled, "The Isolation of Japan In World Politics", through which the plotters hoped to cause friction between the Yellow Empire and this nation.

Chief Assistant U. S. Attorney JOHN C. KNOX, who was handling the case for the government, exhibited a chapter of this book. The book, ostensibly written by a Japanese diplomat, but actually by one of the plotters, reflected Japan was building a Navy bigger than the combined Navies of Great Britain and the U.S. KNOX said the purpose of this book was to attempt to arouse Americans to a Yellow peril and to distract them from the German menace.

The June 12, 1918 issue of the "New York Times" reflected an article captioned, "Agnes Smedley Indicted" under San Francisco dateline June 11, 1918. The article stated that indictments charging the following individuals were returned by a Federal Grand Jury against S. NATH GHOSE, TARAK NATH DAS and KULIN B. BOSE, Hindus; and WILLIAM A. WOTHERSTON, a retired San Francisco lawyer, and his wife, whose name was not given, as well as AGNES SMEDLEY, all of whom are Americans. A Russian identified as Miss BLUMAZALNIK was also indicted. The indictments charged them with attempting to defraud President WILSON through representations that they were an accredited mission from the Nationalist Party of India.

The article stated that GHOSE and DAS "were defendants in the trial here recently of a group of Hindus and others on the charge of plotting a revolution. GHOSE and SMEDLEY were arrested in New York City and are still there".

The November 16, 1918 issue of the "New York Times" reflects that "Federal Judge A. N. HAND yesterday granted a stay to SALLENDRA NATH GHOSE, a Hindu student at New York City, and AGNES SMEDLEY, who are under indictment in San Francisco for representing themselves as members of a commission of the Indian Nationalist Party without being so registered with the Secretary of State. Judge HAND also reduced the bail of each".

The March 15, 1929 issue of the "New York Times" contained a brief biographical sketch of AGNES SMEDLEY in connection with the publication of her book ~~"Daughter Of The Earth"~~. The article states that at the age of 14 she was a schoolteacher in Colorado. Later she went to California, where she made her contacts with the Freedom for India Movement.

During World War I she came to New York, where she devoted her time to securing the release of Hindus who had been imprisoned for their suspicious actions. Her activities in their behalf involved her in suspicion and she was arrested and kept in the Tombs for three months, charged with jeopardizing the neutrality of the United States.

The article stated that the late PERCY STICKNEY ~~GRANT~~ became interested in her cause, raised $10,000 bail, and had her released. When she was brought to trial a year later the case was dismissed for lack of evidence. The article further stated that she was interested in birth control and founded the first birth control clinic in Berlin, Germany.

The July 30, 1932 issue of the "New York Times", under a Shanghai dateline of July 29, 1932, states that HAROLD R. ~~ISAACS~~, an American citizen, was warned by the U. S. Consul in Shanghai that the U. S. may withdraw its extra-territorial rights and allow him to be tried in a Chinese Court. ISAACS, then editor of the "China Forum", had violently attacked CHIANG KAI-SHEK, calling him, among other things, "a butcher". The article further stated that ~~ISAACS~~ was an associate of AGNES SMEDLEY, a correspondent for American newspapers.

The September 29, 1933 issue of the "New York Times" reflects that AGNES SMEDLEY'S new book, "Chinese Destinies" (Vanguard, $3.00) was published that day.

The September 30, 1933 issue of the "New York Herald Tribune" contained a review of the above book by LEWIS ~~GANNETT~~. GANNETT stated, "It is not a pretty picture of China that Agnes Smedley paints in 'Chinese Destinies'. Her heart is with the young revolutionists of China and she tells the story of the Communist Movement in China as it has never been told before". GANNETT'S review was very favorable towards AGNES SMEDLEY.

The April 24, 1935 issue of the "New York Times" carried a review of subject's book, "Daughter Of The Earth", by JOHN CHAMBERLAIN. CHAMBERLAIN stated that "Daughter Of The Earth" is AGNES SMEDLEY'S autobiography and tells of her life in the West and her constant struggle for survival against her environment. CHAMBERLAIN said he agreed with LEWIS GANNETT, of the "New York Herald Tribune", that this book "is one of the greatest American autobiographies".

The January 8, 1937 issue of the "New York Times", under a Sian, China dateline, reflects that AGNES SMEDLEY was conducting radio propaganda to unite large disaffected military units in Shensi and Kansu provinces under the banner of the Communist Armies.

The January 10, 1937 issue of the "New York Times" carried a Nanking, China dateline and reflected that the Nanking authorities were indignant over the pre-Communist broadcasts made almost daily from Sian by AGNES SMEDLEY. The article stated that her talks were considered inflammatory by the authorities and that she played a prominent part in subversive activities.

The May 8, 1937 issue of the "New York Herald Tribune" reflects a letter written by the subject to the editor in which she stated that she had been informed that articles had appeared in the American press accusing her of being a Communist. She stated that these allegations were false and that she had never had any connection with any Communist Party anywhere.

The October 4, 1937 issue of the "New York Herald Tribune", under a Shanghai dateline, states, "Miss Agnes Smedley, former Colorado schoolteacher and radical writer, who has accompanied the Chinese 8th Route Army in Shansi Province as a war correspondent, suffered a spinal injury while with that Army."

The January 13, 1938 issue of the "New York Times", under a Hankow dateline, carried an article by F. TILLMAN MURDIN in which he described SMEDLEY as a veteran radical and author who has been with the Chinese Reds since December, 1936. He stated that during this time she sprang into prominence by her propaganda broadcasts in behalf of the Chinese Reds.

The February 5, 1938 issue of the New York Times carried an article by F. TILMAN DURDIN under a Hankow dateline. The article stated that AGNES SMEDLEY had raised $75,000 for the China Communists by her radio talks and public speeches.

The March 28, 1938 issue of the New York Times under a Hankow dateline stated that the American Colony in Hankow had contributed money to purchase a special back support for General LIN PIAO, Divisional Commander of the Eighth Route Army, who was recently wounded. The article further stated that AGNES SMEDLEY, representing the American League for Peace and Democracy, had announced the formation of a China Committee of the China Aid Council.

The February 9, 1939 issue of the New York Times, under a Shanghai dateline, stated that nine publishers and writers had been threatened with death by the "Society of Honorable and Righteous True Chinese" alleged to be a terrorist organization of Shanghai citizens. The nine individuals threatened were:

J. B. ~~POWELL~~, Publisher, China Weekly Review.
 RANDALD ~~GOULD~~, Editor of the Shanghai Evening Post and correspondent for Christian Science Monitor.
 AGNES SMEDLEY, radical writer now with the Fourth Chinese Army.
 M.C. ~~FORD~~, IND correspondent.
 EDGAR SNOW, author of "Red Star Over China."
 H.G. ~~TIMPERLY~~, former correspondent for the Manchester Guardian.
 A. ~~VESPA~~, author of a volume of Japanese atrocities in China.
 JOSEPH SANDERS ~~BATES~~, Publisher of two Chinese papers.
 CARROLL ~~ALCOTT~~, American radio announcer and feature writer for the Shanghai China Press.

The April 18, 1940 issue of the New York Times under a Chungking dateline, stated subject had arrived in Chungking on April 16, 1940 after spending eighteen months with Chinese Guerrilla Units.

The September 8, 1943 issue of the New York Post, a New York daily newspaper, carried an article by CHIP ~~BOUTELL~~, Post staff writer. The article described the background of AGNES SMEDLEY, stating that she came from a poor family and had to leave home at an early age due to her family's poverty. ~~BOUTELL~~ stated subject was a waitress, stenographer, tobacco stripper, and a book agent and had associated with Indian Revolutionaries in New York City. He further stated that subject served with the Indian Revolutionary Movement in ~~Berlin~~ for eight years and it was there that she met VIREN DRANATH CHATTOPADHYAYA, Indian terrorist leader. The article alleges that she was CHATTOPADHYAYA's paramour and that the last time she saw him was in Moscow in 1933.

BOUTELL, who had evidently interviewed subject in New York City, stated that SMEDLEY was primarily interested in China and was a staunch advocate of the Chinese Reds.

The September 18, 1943 issue of the New York Times reflects that subject's book, "Battle Hymn of China" was reviewed by JOHN CHAMBERLAIN. CHAMBERLAIN described the book as a saga of Guerrilla warfare as practiced by the Chinese Communist Armies and gave the book a favorable review.

The October 27, 1943 issue of the New York Herald Tribune reflects that AGNES SMEDLEY was one of the speakers at a luncheon sponsored jointly by the American Booksellers Association and the Herald Tribune and held at the Hotel Astor, New York City, on October 26, 1943. The article stated SMEDLEY described the needs and ultimate aims of China. SMEDLEY stated "out of Asia will emerge a great new civilization and it may depend on us what it will be. They want freedom from all racial and color prejudice. They want freedom from the white men and the ambitions of the yellow men. After the war there are going to be no very rich or very poor in China. We are all going to be equal. There will be work for everybody including a free education."

The December 10, 1944 issue of the New York PM, a New York daily newspaper, published a letter written by subject to HENRY R. LUCE, publisher of Time, Life and Fortune magazines. This letter was printed in PM because subject had refused to submit to "Life" photos of Chinese life for a forthcoming article by that magazine. SMEDLEY refused to submit these photos because she said "Life" had previously distorted stories concerning life in Red China and that LUCE's publications were partly responsible for this distortion. Her letter states that the Kuomintang Government has been able to create a false impression on the China situation by having American reactionaries publish false reports. She criticized the Nationalists for being quislings and lavished praise on the Chinese Reds who she stated was the dominating party in China. She further stated that this letter was being published in PM because LUCE had refused to publish it in one of his publications.

The January 28, 1945 issue of the New York Times, under a Poughkeepsie dateline, reflected that subject spoke at the Vassar College Political Association Conference on China. It will be noted that this edition was "killed" by the editor and was not published.

Subject is quoted as saying, "not only the Communists but the great masses of Democratic men and women know that the only basis for unity and peace is a coalition government now. Such a Government alone would be qualified to call a national assembly, adopt a constitution and introduce representative government. Neither the Communists nor the Democrats would or could trust the Kuomintang with its long record of tyranny, deception, and oppression of the common people.

"A Government is needed which would abolish the Kuomintang Party dictatorship, institute a Bill of Rights and end the three systems of secret police. Only a coalition government could organize a united high military command.

"For the first time in the war the United States is beginning to play a progressive Democratic role in Asia. Through years of bitter struggle the Chinese democrats and Communists have won the respect of all Americans in China, including all our correspondents; General STILLWELL; our new Ambassador General PATRICK HURLEY, and, it seems, DONALD NELSON."

The March 7, 1946 issue of the New York Times reflects an article captioned "Group of Writers File Appeal in Death of OWI Employee." The article stated that a group of Americans, including writers and journalists announced that they had sent a letter to CHIANG KAI-SHEK concerning the death of YANG CHAO, OWI employee, who was arrested by the Nationalists and died in prison. The signers were critical of the treatment received by CHAO. The following individuals signed this letter:

MAXWELL S. STEWART
ELIZABETH JAMES
MAROLINE SLADE
ALFRED KAZIN
ERIO SEVEREID
RICHARD WATTS, Jr. ✓
H. R. ISAACS
AGNES SMEDLEY
THEODORE WHITE.

The February 11, 1949 issue of the New York Times contained an article by WALTER H. WAGGONER, datelined Washington, D.C. The article stated that the United States Army made public a 32,000 word report on a Soviet Spy Ring in the Far East. Doctor RICHARD SORGE was listed as head of this spy ring and some of the members included OZAKI HOZUMI, GUENTHER STEIN, and AGNES SMEDLEY. According to the report SMEDLEY "has been one of the most energetic workers for the Soviet cause in China for the past twenty years. She had worked closely with SORGE from late 1930 until he left China and she had been a comintern Agent."

The February 11, 1949 issue of the New York Times stated that AGNES SMEDLEY denied being a spy or an agent for any country. According to the article, subject stated that in the course of her work as a correspondent for the Frankfurter Zeitung, the Manchester Guardian, and other papers she had met Dr. SORGE and HOZUMI OZAKI. She stated that she never had lived in Japan and knew nothing of their activities until the report of their deaths appeared in the American press. She blamed the release of the spy report on General MacARTHUR because of the defeats of the Chinese Nationalists.

The February 22, 1949 issue of the New York Times reflects, under a Tokyo dateline, that Major General CHARLES WILLOUGHBY, Chief United States Intelligence Officer in the Far East, accepted full responsibility for the SORGE report. He stated that he would waive immunity and would welcome a libel suit by subject.

The same issue carried a reply by subject in which she stated that she would not sue WILLOUGHBY for libel as General MacARTHUR was responsible for the release of the report and she demanded that General MacARTHUR waive his immunity so she could sue him.

The March 28, 1949 issue of the New York Times displayed a photograph of the subject along with A. A. ~~FADEYEV~~, Professor FREDERICH B. ~~SCHUMAN~~, and Dr. HARLOW ~~SHAPLEY~~. The article stated that these individuals were speakers at the World Peace Conference held at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel on that date and sponsored by the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions.

BAIDWIN wrote an article entitled "The ~~Need for Militancy~~", for a book named "The Socialism of Our Times," which book was published by the ~~Vanguard Press~~, presumably for the League for Industrial Democracy (June 1929). On page 77 BAIDWIN refers to himself as a pacifist. He states that he believes in revolution "not necessarily the forcible seizure of power in armed conflict but the process of class movements determined to expropriate the capitalist class and to take control of all social property". He indicates that he is opposed to revolutionary violence and then states, "I would rather see violent revolution than none at all though I do not personally support it because I believe other means far better. Even the terrible cause of bloody revolution is a cheaper price to humanity than the continued exploitation and wreck of human life under the settled violence of the present system."

On pages 80-81 he writes: "Despite my favorable attitude to Communist activities which is justified, I think, by the facts, I am not a Communist, as is well known. I could not join the Communist movement both for theoretical and practical reasons. Philosophically I am an anarchist though I do not work at it."

"The Compass," a New York daily newspaper, of October 27, 1949, states that ROGER N. BAIDWIN, Executive Director of the ~~American Civil Liberties Union~~, would have the group on January 1, 1950 work in the field of "international civil rights", largely at the United Nations. The article stated that BAIDWIN has been director of the League since its formation in 1920.

This informant advised that the Federated Press and Allied Labor News Service, Inc., conditionally merged for one year effective November 24, 1946 and that Allied Labor News, Inc., followed Communist Party policy in international matters.

A review of the "Daily Worker" and the Sunday "Worker", East Coast Communist newspapers, shows that the services of the Federated Press were utilized as of 1948.

LOUIS BUDENZ, self-admitted former Communist and former Managing Editor of the "Daily Worker", who is now an assistant professor at Fordham University, New York City, advised that the Federated Press issues a daily news release, which is subscribed to by many newspapers, particularly a portion of the labor press. Mr. BUDENZ stated that the "Daily Worker" subscribes to the Federated Press and that the editors of the Federated Press are designated by the Communist Party.

Mr. BUDENZ also stated that the Federated Press is now and has been during most of its existence, controlled by the Communist Party. He recalled that CARL HAESSLER is Managing Editor of the Federated Press and was of the opinion that HAESSLER, although not a Communist Party member, followed the Party discipline. Mr. BUDENZ pointed out that HAESSLER'S sister was married to WILLIAM WEINSTONE, a leading Communist.

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised that WILLIAM WEINSTONE was Educational Director of the New York State Communist Party as of June, 1948.

The "New York World Telegram", issue of November 8, 1947, under the headline, "AFL Calls News Service Red; Bids Union Bar It", reported that the American Federation of Labor on November 8, 1947, urged its unions publications not to use dispatches from the Federated Press on the grounds that this news organization follows the Communist Party line.

within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

The December 20, 1947 issue of the "New York Times", a New York daily newspaper, carried an article entitled, "Doctor Says China Neglects The Poor", in which Dr. CATHERINE LEALTAD, who had worked in the international peace hospitals in Communist led China, stated that the Chinese people under Communist domination probably had better food, clothing and shelter than they do in the Nationalist areas. She also stated that she

YU-HSIANG. The meeting was held at the Milbank Chapel Teacher's College, Columbia University, New York City. Dr. CATHERINE D. LEALTAD was one of the speakers on this occasion. According to the Informant, the speakers praised FENG for his support of the Chinese Communists and his opposition to CHIANG KAI-SHEK. Dr. LEALTAD stated that the conditions in North China were excellent in comparison to the part of China under control of the Nationalists.

The March, 1949, issue of the "Far East Spotlight", published

Mr. DAVID P. BERENBERG, 1745 East 7th Street, Brooklyn, New York, advised that he has been a life-long member of the NORMAN THOMAS Socialist Party and has been associated with several of the official publications of this Party. He advised, however, that he had never heard of the Anti-Imperialist League nor had he ever resided at West 65th Street in New York City.

Mr. BERENBERG stated that "The Workers' World" had been an official publication of the left-wing of the Socialist Party in about 1920, which Party later became the Communist Party, USA. He stated, however, that by 1936 the Communist Party had already adopted its present name and its official publication was the "Daily Worker".

He further stated that in all the years of his activity in the Socialist Party, he had never heard of "The Workers' World", since sometime in early 1920.

Mr. BERENBERG stated that he was familiar with the name of AGNES SMEDLEY through her writings and through newspaper publicity and stated that he might have met her in 1920 at the Rand School of Social Science with which he was at that time connected. However, his memory at this point was hazy and he was quite definite in stating that he had not seen SMEDLEY since and had no knowledge of her background or activities.

Mr. BERENBERG also stated that he had no idea as to the possible identity of any D. BERENBURG who in 1937 was reportedly connected with the Anti-Imperialistic League.

Confidential Informants [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] of known reliability, who are familiar with Communist activities in the New York area, were contacted on April 24 and 25 and 26, 1950. None of these informants could supply any information regarding the Anti-Imperialistic League, D. BERENBURG or the "Workers' World".

The indices of the New York Office are negative as to D. BERENBURG with the exception of that information which has been set forth in referenced report and which is apparently identical with the DAVID P. BERENBERG who has been interviewed.

The only information concerning "The Workers' World" appearing in the files of the New York Office has been set out above.

Mrs. STEVENS advised that she was in Paris, France during the month of September 1939 and at that time met a Major PANELLO, who explained to her that he and his associates were organizing a new Garibaldian Legion, which was to be composed of Italians residing in France. Their object was to form a flying corps of 100,000 Italians to proceed to Finland and aid them in their fight against Russia.

After arriving in the United States, Mrs. STEVENS advised, she met General GUISEPPE GARIBALDI; mentioned to him that she had met Major PANELLO in Paris, and explained to him the work PANELLO was doing in organizing the Garibaldian Legion for the aid of Finland. She advised General GARIBALDI that PANELLO was desirous of obtaining General GARIBALDI to lead this legion. GARIBALDI advised that he was willing to proceed to Paris to assume command of the legion, but had no means of getting there, as he was without funds.

Mrs. STEVENS was instrumental in obtaining contributions for GARIBALDI'S passage to Europe. General GARIBALDI sailed from New York City on February 3, 1940 on the Conte de Savoia for Naples, Italy, as he planned to visit Rome and then proceed to Paris and assume command of the legion.

"Time" magazine for April 15, 1940 carried an article about General GARIBALDI which set forth information that GARIBALDI, then in Rome, had made peace with MUSSOLINI.

b7C

Mrs. STEVENS advised Special Agents [ ] that she greatly upset as a result of her activities in behalf of General GARIBALDI and that she was determined to repay every cent of the money she had collected in his behalf.

GIMBEL BROTHERS is a well known department store in New York City.

O. JOHN ROGGE
400 East 52nd Street
New York City
Plaza 3-3043
2/12/48

O. JOHN ROGGE was former Assistant Attorney General under U. S. Attorney General TOM CLARK and was discharged by the Attorney General of the U. S. in 1947.

In an article in the "COMPASS," issue of January 20, 1940, is stated that O. JOHN ROGGE, former Assistant Attorney General of the U. S., is now engaged in the private practice of law in New York City and specializes in cases involving civil liberties.

The "DAILY WORKER," an East Coast Communist daily newspaper, March 6, 1950, carried an article on Page 2, Column 1, which states that ROGGE was flying to Moscow with fourteen others of the World Peace Congress Mission and would present a peace program to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R.

The 1949 report of the California Committee on Un-American Activities, Page 500, reflected that O. JOHN ROGGE was a spenser of the Scientific and Cultural Conferences for World Peace and has been affiliated with from one to ten Communist front organizations.

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised that in his opinion the Cultural and Scientific Congress for World Peace, held in New York City, May 25-27, 1949, was a follow-up on the World Congress of Intellectuals, held in Wroclaw, Poland in August, 1948 and that these conferences were part of a world-wide Communist inspired "peace" propaganda campaign.

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised that ROGGE addressed the Ohio State Senate Judiciary Committee at Columbus, Ohio on May 25, 1949, regarding the BARTUNEK-SEIBERG Bill, then being considered by the committee. The bill, which did not pass during the current session of the Legislature, called for loyalty oaths from public employees in the State of Ohio and teachers connected with the public schools.

b7D

O. JOHN ROGGE, as representative of the Progressive Party of America, criticized the Loyalty Act and the bill before the committee. O. JOHN ROGGE is the author of a book entitled "Our Vanishing Civil Liberties." This book was serialized in the "COMPASS" and criticized the profits of Big Business and states that nearly one-half of the nation is ill-housed, ill-clothed and ill-fed. This book also criticized the indictment of the twelve Communist Party leaders.

Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, advised that the editorial and reportorial staff of the "DAILY COMPASS," a New York daily newspaper, which totals approximately thirty persons, is comprised in the majority by Communists and Communist sympathizers. He reported that persons on the editorial staff and re-write desk review the news of the day as reported by various news syndicates and re-write the news to give it the "pre-Soviet slant."

DETAILS: THOMAS ARTHUR BISSON, 97 Kingston Road, Berkeley, California, a visiting lecturer in the Department of Political Science, University of California, Berkeley, California, was interviewed by SA WAYNE K. WELCH and the writer and advised as follows:  BISSON stated that he had never been closely associated with AGNES SMEDLEY but that he had known of her and had met her casually over a period of years during the time she resided in China and later in New York. He stated that the writings, lectures, and statements of SMEDLEY have indicated that from the beginning of the conflict between the Chinese Nationalists and the Chinese Communists, she had always been strongly in favor of the Communist movement.  He stated that, before SMEDLEY became interested in Chinese Communist affairs, she had resided in India and that she was strongly opposed to British colonial policy in that country. When she came to China, her sentiments in this regard were extended to include opposition to the manner in which the Chinese Nationalist Government was handling Chinese internal affairs. He stated that SMEDLEY, like many writers and correspondents, was convinced that the Chinese Communist movement held the answer to the internal problems which existed in China.

BISSON was unable to say that SMEDLEY was pro-Soviet in her beliefs and was of the opinion that she would not have hesitated to criticize the Soviet Government if she did not agree with its policies, especially with regard to the Chinese situation. He stated that he had never had any indication that SMEDLEY had aided the Chinese Communists except through her favorable reports concerning their activities as reflected by her writings.

BISSON further described SMEDLEY as an emotional individual whose opinions and conclusions were not always based on careful study and analysis. He stated that she is the type of individual who believes wholeheartedly in a principle and who shapes her thinking and actions to suit her interpretation of that principle.

BISSON made voluntary reference to the newspaper publicity implicating SMEDLEY in the RICHARD SORGE espionage net. He said that he had no factual evidence to support his opinion, but it was his belief that the possibility of the subject's operation as a Soviet agent was extremely remote. He was unable to expand on this theory and stated that SMEDLEY had never impressed him as the type of person who could or would engage in espionage.

BISSON stated that he had never heard of a Chinese associate or acquaintance of SMEDLEY named

Agnes Smedley, Writer, Dies; Cleared in Spy Case Last Year

Newspaperwoman,
Born in Missouri,
Served in China

By the Associated Press

OXFORD, England, May 8.—Miss Agnes Smedley, 56, American writer widely known for her reports on China, died here Saturday, it was announced today.

Miss Smedley was accused last year in a United States Army report of being a Soviet spy, but the charge later was withdrawn.

The British Press Association said she died in an Oxford nursing home.

The Missouri-born newspaperwoman was named as a Soviet spy by the United States Army in a report on a wartime Soviet spy ring in Japan. Later the Army said it lacked proof and should never have made such a charge against Miss Smedley.

Miss Smedley, who called the charge a "despicable lie," said through her attorney that she was grateful for the clearing of her name and reputation.

Born in Northern Missouri, Miss Smedley spent 23 years in foreign countries, 12 of them covering news in China.

From 1937-40 she served as a war correspondent in China and later did work for the Chinese Red Cross. She was on the Japanese Secret Service death list during the war.

Miss Smedley, who was educated at the University of California, New York University and the University of Berlin, was the author of many books.

Miss Smedley Always Fought For Causes She Believed In

Frail but always a fighter for what she believed were good causes, Miss Smedley saw the inside of jails as well as parts of China seldom visited by white persons.

Her novel, "Daughter of Earth," was considered highly autobiographical. Its heroine was born of poor tenant farmers, lived in extreme poverty in a coal town, worked her way from California to New York, tangled with the police for radical activities and went through an unfortunate marriage.

Miss Smedley also was born in poverty. With very little schooling she became a country school-teacher at 14, worked her way through normal school in California and went to New York.

There she became interested in Indian freedom and worked to obtain the release of some Hindus arrested on suspicion in World War I. She was arrested herself and spent three months in jail through inability to raise $10,000 bail. Later the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

There after she became interested in birth control and after the war went to Berlin to organize the first birth control clinic.

At the start of the Chinese Communist revolution in 1929 she went to China as correspondent for German and Italian newspapers. She lived in the interior of China as one of the people; learned the language and even adopted a Chinese refugee boy.

Meanwhile, she continued to write. After "Daughter of Earth" came "Chinese Destinies," "China's Red Army Marches," and "China Fights Back."

Denied She Was Spy.

After 12 years of this life she left China shortly before Pearl Harbor. She was living in Palsade, N. J., and working on a book on a Communist army commander in China when the Army reported and then retracted its accusations against her.

At the time of the Army report she said of herself:

"I am not and never have been a Soviet spy or an agent for any country."

Of the Chinese Communists she said:

"They have made landowners of the peasants by dividing the big estates among them. Their leaders say it will be 50 years before China even is ready for socialism."

Reference is made to 100-24628-439 a memo from Mr. Hennrich to

Mr. Belmont dated April 8, 1950, entitled "Owen Lattimore Espionage - R".
This memo reflects approval for interview of [REDACTED] based upon the following:

When [REDACTED] was interviewed re Lattimore, he suggested we interview [REDACTED] cleared Lattimore for Lattimore's trip to Japan on the Reparations Missions to the Far East in October, 1946.
He expressed the belief that Bennett would be pro-Lattimore.

This memo states bufiles reveal no main file on Bennett but contain approximately 85 see references to his name. It is further stated the NY office advised Bennett was a close friend of Mary Jane Keeney and other subjects in the Gregory case.

As reflected in serial 886 of the Lattimore WFO interview <sup>file</sup> [REDACTED] at his office in Washington, D. C. on April 14, 1950, in accordance with the approval of the recommendation contained in referenced memo based upon the fact that [REDACTED] cleared Lattimore for a position on the Reparation Commission to Japan.

Upon interview, [REDACTED] said Lattimore preceded him in joining the Reparation Commission and therefore [REDACTED] had not cleared Lattimore in any way for this position but would have done so upon request. [REDACTED] accepted Lattimore as a reliable authority on Far Eastern matters and has not been aware of any disloyalty by Lattimore to the United States.

Confidential Informant [redacted] advised he sailed from New York City for Europe in the fall of 1929 or 1930 in a group as Trade Union delegate of YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE from Seattle for study in Russia. Attended University of Moscow for two years, and traveled in Russia during summer vacations. Informant met woman known to him as AGNES SMEDLEY through one WILLIANN BURROUGHS (ph), an American Negro woman working in the "Profintern" in Moscow. Informant states SMEDLEY was connected with the Comintern, actual connection not recalled. Informant stated he never thought of this AGNES SMEDLEY as identical with the author of works concerning China, but that she may be identical. Informant states his memory of exact dates may not be accurate. Willing to furnish information on confidential basis only. Will testify only if he can see that testifying is in his own best interests. Informant states one [redacted] (ph), a New York [redacted] whom he first met in International Labor Defense Office in NYC, was later in Moscow lecturing at a school there on "Public Speaking", and wore a "GPU uniform" and was attached to the Red Air Force. Informant states that GIL GREEN, JACK STACHEL and JOHN WILLIAMSON were all in Moscow at time informant was there. Informant denies membership in CP and states was only a member of Young Workers League for a short time. (R)

b7D

Confidential Informant [redacted] who is believed to be reliable, advised that he sailed for Europe from New York City in August of 1929 or 1930, in a group as a Trade Union delegate of the YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE from Seattle, Washington, for study in Russia. He stated that he first went to Rotterdam, Holland, at which time he split with the group and took some side trips of a few days, eventually joining the group again in Berlin, Germany. He stated the group remained in Berlin for a few days, and during this time leaders of the group, identities not now recalled, attempted to secure the informant's passport from him. Informant stated that he refused to relinquish his passport. (P) u

The group then went to Moscow, Russia, by train, arriving there approximately the middle of September of 1929 or 1930. Informant attended the University of Moscow, Moscow, Russia, from then until June of 1930 or 1931, studying social science, history, and history of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Bolsheviks), as well as Marxist-Leninist theory, and the theory of dialectical materialism. (P) u

In approximately June of 1930 or 1931 informant traveled from Moscow through White Russia, the Ukraine, Crimea and Central Asia, visiting major Russian cities such as Kiev and Odessa. He stated that unrestricted travel in Russia was possible at that time, and that he still retained his American passport. That fall, which would be the fall of 1930 or 1931, informant returned to the University of Moscow, remaining until approximately May of 1931 or 1932, at which time he further engaged in travel in Russia, including trips into the Ural Mountain district to Sverdlosk and to Eastern Asia, almost to Siberia. (P) u

He returned to Moscow during July or August of 1931 or 1932. He advised he left Moscow soon after the early fall of 1931 or 1932, traveling through Poland to Berlin, and after approximately two months of travel in Germany, during which time he was detained at one time by the Security Police during rioting in Berlin, and restricted to a certain area of Berlin for his own protection, he went to Bremen or Hamburg, Germany, where he took passage on the "SS ROTTERDAM" to New York City, from where he returned to Seattle, Washington. (P) u

Informant stated that after his return he severed his association with members of the Communist Party. Informant stated that he was never a member of the Party, but was actually a member of the YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE for a very short period prior to his going to Russia. (P) u

Informant stated that during his stay in Moscow he became well acquainted with an American Negro woman by the name of WILIAMNA BURROUGHS (phonetic), who was approximately fifty years of age at the time, and was working at the INTERNATIONAL TRADE UNION CENTER in Moscow, known as the "Profintern". Mrs. BURROUGHS' husband was in New York City while she was in Moscow. He advised that the "Profintern" at that time was attempting to compete with the INTERNATIONAL TRADE UNION ORGANIZATION, which had headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. Informant stated that, according to his information, WILLIAMA BURROUGHS died in Germany approximately in 1937, after having been arrested by the Hitler regime. (S) u

Informant stated that through this woman he met another woman approximately thirty years of age known to him as AGNES SMEDLEY, who was connected with the Comintern in Moscow. Informant stated that he is not positive that this individual is the same AGNES SMEDLEY, who is the author concerning China, and had never actually thought of the two people as being the same. He stated, however, that they could very well be identical. (S) u

Informant stated that in his experience in Russia there was a definite group of persons who formed the leadership of the Communist Party there, made up of individuals who were completely unscrupulous and who practiced deceit in order to further the cause of Communism. He stated that he definitely recalls that AGNES SMEDLEY was among this group. Informant at this time advised he is unable to recall the identity of many of these individuals, but stated that GIL GREEN, JOHN WILLIAMSON, JACK STACHEL and one [redacted], whom informant believed was identical with the [redacted] recently convicted in the San Francisco perjury case with [redacted], were all in Moscow at the time informant was there. (S) u b7C

Informant also related that a New York [redacted] by the name of [redacted] (phonetic) whom he first met in the INTERNATIONAL LABOR DEFENSE OFFICE in New York City, was later in Moscow lecturing at a school there on "Public Speaking" and during these lectures wore a "GPU uniform" and was attached to the Red Air Force. (S) u b7C

Informant further stated he recalled that at one time when he was confined to his quarters by illness in a large dormitory where many students of the various schools and institutes in Moscow resided, he overheard individuals plotting a Communist revolution in Spain, and states that the events which transpired in Spain a few years later were in complete accordance with the plans which he overheard. Informant was unable at this time to advise the identities and names of the individuals involved in this conspiracy. (S) u

Informant in this report, [redacted] Seattle, Washington, telephone [redacted] is presently engaged as co-operator of the Co-op Center, a bottle club, patronized by Negroes in Seattle, Washington, which is located at 418-A 2nd Ave., Seattle, telephone Elliot 9119. [redacted] was a witness in hearings held by the Aeronautical Machinists Union, Local 751, held in Seattle, Washington, in November and December of 1940, for the purpose of trying various members charged with being Communists by [redacted] at that time Editor of the "AERO-MECHANIC" a newspaper of that union. [redacted] is presently associated with [redacted] in the Co-op Center. Their testimony was responsible for the ousting of Communists from the Aeronautical-Mechanics Union in Seattle. [redacted] has, since that time, received considerable abuse from Communists in the Seattle area, and has indicated that he does not desire to have any publicity whatsoever in connection with Communism. (P) u b7C

It is noted that when [redacted] was first approached he was extremely "cozy" and for some time did not even admit having ever known anything about Communism. Also during the interview [redacted] stated that he would furnish information on a confidential basis only, and would never testify in any proceedings unless he felt that it would be in his own best interest. [redacted] pointed out he was a friend of [redacted] and other individuals who have testified, and stated that he did not desire the kind of trouble that [redacted] has had since he testified before the WASHINGTON STATE UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE in Seattle, after which he was charged with perjury. (P) u b7C

As a matter of information, [redacted] was asked what would happen if he were subpoenaed to testify in any proceeding, at which time he answered that he would probably have a complete lapse of memory. (P) u b7C

Purpose

To propose that the New York Office interview Robert Williams Dunn, was, regarding Agnes Smedley, it being noted that Dunn has been an active Communist for approximately twenty-five years.

Background

Louis Budenz was interviewed by the New York Office on April 21, 1950, with reference to his testimony before the Tydings Committee the previous day that Smedley was known to him by her own admission as a Soviet spy. He advised the New York Office his statements before the Committee in this regard were based on conversations he had with Smedley during the early 20's. His first conversation with her was at a meeting in New York of the American Civil Liberties Union. After meeting Budenz, Smedley stated, "You look like a Government man to me." Budenz stated that Roger Baldwin, of the ACLU, advised Smedley that Budenz was not a Government man but had worked with the group in the ACLU on strikes in St. Louis and other places. After this meeting with Smedley, Budenz asked Robert Williams Dunn, whom he described as a CP member and active in the labor field, about Agnes Smedley. Dunn advised Budenz she was engaged in "spying" for the Soviet Union. Budenz continued that shortly after this meeting between himself and Dunn, he met Smedley again and commented that he hoped she had given up the idea that he, Budenz, was a Government man. Thereupon she said, "I am doing secret work for India and the Soviet Union and I like to know with whom I am dealing."

Budenz advised that all of these conversations took place within a few months during the early 20's and he was unable to add any further information concerning any recent espionage activities by Smedley. /61-6580-196/

See Serial 242
See Serial 196
In April 21, 1950 teletype from New York and in their teletype of April 25, 1950 (both of which are attached), it is stated Budenz identified Dunn as currently an active Communist employed as Director of Labor Research Inc., in New York City (which has been cited by the Attorney General under EO 9835 as a Communist organization). Dunn is the subject of a Security Matter - C investigation, closed by New York report of April 13, 1950, Bureau file 65-3849. Dunn was born June 1, 1895, Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, and received an A.B. Degree from Yale in 1919.

In their teletype of April 25th, New York states investigation reflects Dunn has been a CP member for approximately twenty-five years; from January 1948 to March 1949 was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson School of Social Science; and as of March 12, 1948, was Treasurer of the Civil Rights Congress. (These two organizations have been cited by the Attorney General under EO 9835 as Communist organizations.)

Also in their teletype of April 25th, New York stated Dunn would not be interviewed in view of his Communist activities unless advised to the contrary by the Bureau. Status - pending.

Recommendation

That we interview Dunn regarding Smedley for the following reasons:

- (1) It is logical to do so because of what he reportedly told Budenz about Smedley.
- (2) Although he can be expected to be hostile, Dunn may have for some reason, which we cannot now anticipate, furnish some information of value. Even a denial may become significant later on.
- (3) If he should be interviewed in this regard by another agency; for example, HCUA or the Tydings Committee, and information

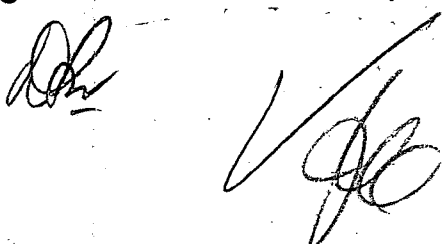

Memo to Mr. Belmont
Re--AGNES SMEDLEY, was of value is obtained, and was asked whether he had furnished same to the FBI, and answered, "No, they never asked me," certainly such a situation would leave a question in the minds of the public as to what we are doing. In such an event it may be said the Bureau would certainly appear to be running "a good second" in this seemingly endless desire on the part of persons outside the intelligence field to disclose information.

- (4) It should be clearly understood that in this proposed interview Dunn will not be questioned concerning his past and present affiliation with the Communist Party but only about what he knows of Smedley.
- (5) It is felt that the type of intelligence information we desire concerning Smedley must be obtained from her "bedfellows"; that is, persons who have associated with her and know her professed philosophy which she has taught and followed. Only then will it be possible to obtain a "break" in such an intelligence investigation.

In accordance with the above, there is attached for your approval a teletype to New York, authorizing an interview with Dunn.

Purpose:

To authorize the Research Desk of the Internal Security Section to analyze the books, pamphlets and publications written by the subject so that the Bureau will have a thorough knowledge of whether her writings and teachings have followed Communist philosophy in conformity with the "Communist line" in particular situations.

Background of Agnes Smedley:

Agnes Smedley, an American citizen and well known Pro-Soviet writer and lecturer, was publicly charged in the ill advised press release issued by the Department of the Army on February 10, 1949, with having been implicated in the Richard Sorge espionage network which operated in the Far East in 1930 - 1941. The subject has traveled extensively and is the author of many books, pamphlets and publications which have appeared throughout the world. The Bureau has conducted an extensive investigation of subject's activities. At the present time, subject is in England and according to the April 10, 1950 issue of the New York Journal American, Smedley, upon her return from England, will be subpoenaed before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Books Written by the Subject:

The following are some of the books written by the subject:

- * Daughter of Earth - 1920, 1929
- * Chinese Red Army Marches - 1934
- * Chinese Destinies - 1933
- * Daughter of Earth (Reissued with forward by Malcolm Cowley) 1935
- * Red Flood of China - 1934
- * China Fights Back - 1938
- * Battle Hymn of China - 1943

Recommendation:

It is recommended that you authorize the Research Desk to analyze Smedley's publications and prepare a brief digest of the same for the Espionage Section.

PURPOSEBACKGROUND ON AGNES SMEDLEY

Agnes Smedley, an American citizen and well known pro-Soviet writer and lecturer, was publicly charged in the ill-advised press release issued by the Department of the Army on February 10, 1949, with having been implicated in the Richard Sorge Soviet espionage network which operated in the Far East in 1930-41. The subject of an extensive investigation, Smedley left the United States on November 15, 1949, en route to England, stating that she expected to remain there about 5 months for the purpose of completing a book. The April 10, 1950, issue of the New York Journal American carried an article by David Sentener in which he wrote that Smedley was expected to return from abroad within the next few weeks and would be subpoenaed before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

BACKGROUND ON PROPOSED INTERVIEW

[redacted] Long Island, New York, was interviewed on April 10, 1950, by agents of the New York Office. He was questioned concerning Smedley. He stated he had no personal knowledge of the subject but he would attempt to locate someone who could furnish information. Later he advised the New York Office that [redacted]

[redacted] had information on Smedley and would be willing to give it to anyone [redacted] recommended. [redacted] for the past two years has been employed as an agent in the Nationalist Government of China. He has been paid [redacted] per year by the Chinese Nationalists for his lobbyist activities in Washington, D. C. Recently he resigned the above position in order that he could attack Secretary of State Dean Acheson and the American policy in the Far East.

STATE DEPARTMENT'S OPINION RE

b1

On April 27, 1950, Supervisor R. W. Lawrence was requested to obtain clearance from the State Department. He contacted [redacted] who b7C advised him as follows:

1. The State Department had no objection to such an interview.

b1

(C)

3. The State Department believes it undesirable to ask a member of the yellow race about a member of the white race.

4. If the purpose of the interview is to determine whether the subject was in Hankow in 1938 this data could be obtained from the Consul General who was then in Hankow.

RECOMMENDATION

The Washington Field Division be authorized to [redacted] b1 and that the attached teletype be approved. The reasons for the above recommendations are as follows: (C)

1. The State Department has no objection.

~~TOP SECRET~~

[REDACTED] c

Further, [REDACTED] would more (c) readily have information in his possession since Smedley is known to have the Chinese Nationalists in the early 30's. b1

[REDACTED] b1

[REDACTED] (c)

4. The purpose of the interview is to obtain information concerning Smedley and not to determine whether she was at Hankow since we already have that information.

5. It should be understood that the State Department has no objection b1 in interviewing [REDACTED] but merely furnished their comments as set out above (c) not as objections but for Bureau guidance and consideration.

b1
b7C 6. Since [REDACTED] indicated to [REDACTED] he has some information (c) on subject and would be willing to furnish the same and since the Bureau has no definite derogatory information on [REDACTED] there appears to be no logical (c) reason why he should not be interviewed.

7. It has been difficult to obtain definite information on Smedley's Communist and possible espionage activities. It is possible that [REDACTED] c has such information and can direct the agent to persons with similar information b1 and, therefore, we should take this opportunity to interview him.

(Bureau file 61-6580)

There is transmitted herewith the report of SA JAMES T. O'BRIEN dated May 4, 1950 in the above-captioned matter.

It will be noted that a comprehensive listing has been made therein of magazine articles and books published by the subject. In accordance with previous Bureau instructions, no attempt is being made to purchase and forward any copies of SMEDLEY'S books to the Bureau.

With reference to the numerous magazine articles by SMEDLEY which are listed in referenced report, the New York Public Library has advised that the rates for photostating of such of this material as may be contained in the library runs from fifty cents to one dollar per page depending upon the size of the page. It will be seen, therefore, that to obtain photostatic copies of all of this material would entail considerable expense.

In the absence of specific Bureau instructions, therefore, the New York Office will make no attempt to photostat and forward any of this material.

He is also currently listed as a lecturer on English literature in the School of General Education of New York University. [redacted] advised that he had first become familiar with the works of AGNES SMEDLEY about 1930, when he read her book entitled, "China Roars", which deals with the Chinese Communist Army at a time before it split away from the Chinese Nationalist Army. He said that he also read SMEDLEY'S first book, which is her own life story, which reflects that she was born in Oklahoma and reared in Colorado mining camps, where her radicalism started because of union troubles with her employers, and that she then went to Berlin, Germany, and married a Hindu at Berlin University, who was extremely interested in the nationalist movement in India. He said that he was intimately associated with AGNES SMEDLEY for about three weeks about 1946, while both were residing at Yaddo Foundation near Saratoga Springs, New York. He advised that Yaddo Foundation is a home for writers, and it was reported that during the 1930's Communists went there to write their books. He said, however, that when he and SMEDLEY were there in 1946, about six writers were residing there and all were anti-Communists except SMEDLEY.

association with her, had formed the opinion that she may have been a member of the Chinese Communist Party. He did not feel that she is a member of the Communist Party, USA, because he feels that her personality would not permit her to submit to the rigid discipline of the Communist Party. In support of the latter opinion he said that SMEDLEY had told him that she was bitterly attacked by the Communist Party in the United States through Communist pamphlets or leaflets published in Los Angeles, which charged that she embezzled relief funds in China. This attack referred to funds which had been sent to MADAM SUN YAT SEN, an acquaintance of SMEDLEY'S, who had intrusted the funds to her. SMEDLEY told [ ] that this charge was groundless and that it was a typical Communist smear campaign which is frequently directed against persons who are out of favor with the Communist Party. SMEDLEY was at a loss to explain why the Communist Party in the United States was displeased with her, according to [ ]

[ ] was of the opinion that the above attack may have been caused by some slight deviation from the Party line in some of SMEDLEY'S writings. [ ] advised that SMEDLEY was completely obsessed with the problems of China and could think of nothing else during his association with her.

b7C
b7D
[ ] gathered the impression that SMEDLEY was completely enamored with CHU-TEH and saw everything through the latter's eyes. [ ] described SMEDLEY as being a "spontaneous revolutionary who suffered from a manic depressive personality". [ ] said that SMEDLEY had disagreed with him on the issues involved in the prosecution of World War II, but was unable to recall specific points in this regard. [ ] said that he, himself, had written in opposition to the Soviet point of view during the HITLER-STALIN pact in 1939 and 1940, and had backed the British war effort, but had discontinued his opposition to the Soviets when they entered the war.

b7C
b7D
[ ] advised that SMEDLEY was constantly quarreling with the other writers at Yaddo and recalled that she had rebuked him bitterly for playing some religious music on a phonograph. He also recalled that SMEDLEY had become very angry with him during a discussion of the Russian author TOLSTOY, when [ ] had defended the complaint of TOLSTOY'S widow, arising out of his will which left all of his estate for the furtherance of peace and left his family penniless. SMEDLEY felt that TOLSTOY was entirely justified in this matter.

The following information pertaining to the published writings of AGNES SMEDLEY was obtained from the Public Library, 42nd Street and Fifth Avenue, New York City:

The magazine "China Today", published by the COMMERCIAL PRESS, LTD., Hongkong Branch, Hongkong, China for the period July, 1939 to March, 1941 was reviewed and no record of any writing by AGNES SMEDLEY was found. No other copies of "China Today" published in Hongkong, China were available at the Public Library.

The magazine "China Today", a monthly published by the American Friends of the Chinese People, 168 West 23rd Street, New York City, was available at the New York Public Library for the period January, 1934 to March, 1942. A review of this publication showed that the issue for March, 1935 contained a letter by AGNES SMEDLEY complaining of living conditions and privations in China, particularly Shanghai, and stating that an attempt might be made on her life.

Other articles by AGNES SMEDLEY that appeared in this magazine were: "China Betrayed", in the May, 1935 issue, and "China's Rulers Ride The Tiger", in the May, 1936 issue. The collection of "China Today" at the New York Public Library was incomplete and did not include issues for September, 1934; July, 1937; January, February and December, 1940, and June and November, 1941.

The publication "New Masses" for the period January, 1929 to January, 1948 was reviewed and the following articles by AGNES SMEDLEY appeared therein:

"Revolutionary Theatre In China"
 "A Chinese Red Army"
 "Thru Darkness In China"
 "Shan-Fei Communist"
 "Days In The Chinese Red Army"
 "A Red Village Is Occupied"

The October 30, 1934 issue of "New Masses" listed a special article by AGNES SMEDLEY entitled, "Books Ready At Workers Bookshop".

The January 29, 1935 issue of "New Masses" listed an article entitled, "Agnes Smedley In Danger" on page 20.

The publication "New Masses" changed its name to "Masses and Mainstream" in March, 1948. This publication was reviewed from March, 1948 to April, 1950 and did not contain any material by AGNES SMEDLEY. It was noted that there was no publication from January 13, 1948, when "New Masses" ceased publication as a weekly, until March, 1948, when the new publication, "Masses and Mainstream" appeared as a monthly.

The magazine "Amerasia", last published as a monthly at 225 Fifth Avenue, New York City, was reviewed from March, 1937 to July, 1947 and no record was found of any writing by AGNES SMEDLEY. It was noted that "Amerasia" was not published from April through September, 1946. The collection of the magazine "Amerasia" at the New York Public Library did not contain any issues other than those listed above.

The publication "Far East Spotlight" was reviewed for the period August, 1945 to March, 1950. It was found that this magazine was first published in August, 1945 as "Committee For Democratic Policy Toward China--Information Bulletin". In October, 1945 the title was changed to "Committee For Democratic Far Eastern Policy--Information Bulletin", and the title remained the same until January 1947, when it was changed to "Spotlight On The Far East". This name was changed to "Far East Spotlight" with the issue of June, 1948. There were no publications during August and November, 1948.

The June, 1948 issue of "Far East Spotlight", page 15, contains an article by AGNES SMEDLEY entitled, "Far East Reading--General Stilwell Speaks" and the March, 1949 issue contains an article by AGNES SMEDLEY entitled, "The Tokyo Martyrs", page 3.

The Authors Index in "Pacific Affairs", a quarterly published at Richmond, Virginia by the Institute of Pacific Relations was checked for the years 1929, 1930 and 1931 and did not contain any reference to writings by AGNES SMEDLEY.

Confidential Informant  of known reliability, has furnished copies of the magazine "China Today" containing articles by, or concerning, AGNES SMEDLEY which are described below:

The issue of February, 1935 contains an editorial entitled "Agnes Smedley's Life In Danger". The editorial notes that "provocative attacks in the Shanghai press" had been directed against SMEDLEY and it quotes a letter from SMEDLEY as follows: "Thus utterly vicious and unscrupulous lies circulated by the Japanese and taken up by the official Chinese press are most dangerous to my life. I regard them as but an ideological preparation for an attack upon my life."

The editorial stated that the Friends Of The Chinese People had already sent a telegram of protest to the Chinese Ministry at Washington, D.C. and recommended that similar protests be sent to the Chinese government by interested individuals and organizations.

The May, 1935 issue of "China Today" contains an article entitled "China Betrayed" by AGNES SMEDLEY. The article is to the effect that "From 1927 down to the present day, not only the Chinese counter-revolution, but the whole imperialist world, has been fighting the Chinese Red Army and the Chinese Soviets". It charges that the Nanking government, under the leadership of CHIANG KAI-SHEK, has refused to fight the Japanese; used its weapons against "Chinese workers and peasants only"; made secret agreements with the Japanese government, and established an opium monopoly to obtain revenue. The article mentions that American missionaries in China are "one of the great vested capitalist interests in China, just like the traffic in guns, opium or booze". The article continues, "What have these pious hypocrites and peddlers of intellectual poison gas been doing all these years? I can tell you--they are to be found on their knees much of the time praying for the success of Chiang Kai-shek, the butcher of the Chinese people".

The May, 1936 issue of "China Today" carries an article entitled "China's Rulers Ride The Tiger" by AGNES SMEDLEY. This article consists of a report of a series of conversations which SMEDLEY states took place in China with "officials, militarists, distinguished professors and newspaper editors". The article makes the point that persons of this type, who are "the ruling classes" of China, had adopted a defeatist attitude toward the Japanese invasion of China, whereas conversations with student groups in China reflected that the students and the lower economic groups were filled with patriotism and a belief that China could repel the Japanese invaders.

The June, 1948 issue of "Far East Spotlight" contained an article entitled, "General Stilwell Speaks", by AGNES SMEDLEY. This is a review of the book entitled "The Stilwell Papers" by JOSEPH W. STILWELL, edited and arranged by THEODORE H. WHITE. It was published by WILLIAM SLOANE ASSOCIATES of New York and was also printed in a special edition for the Book Find Club. SMEDLEY states that this book "not only corroborates everything other Americans have written about Chiang Kai-shek's dictatorship, but it is the most damning condemnation ever penned about any Chinese ruler". The article briefly sums up the enmity which grew between STILWELL and CHIANG during the former's service in China.

The March, 1949 issue of "Far East Spotlight" contains an article entitled "The Tokyo Martyrs". This article refers to a release by the Army of information contained in the files of the Japanese government to the effect that RICHARD SORGE and HOZUMI OZAKI implicated SMEDLEY in a Russian spy ring operating in China from 1929 to 1932. SORGE and OZAKI were executed by the Japanese government in 1942 after conviction of espionage in Japan on behalf of Soviet Russia. With reference to these two men SMEDLEY states, "To the best of my knowledge these men were not spies and traitors, but martyrs for the allied cause. MacARTHUR'S own report says that it was due to their efforts that the Soviet Union was able to throw back the Nazi enemy and prevent Russia from being transformed into a German base".

The article also mentions the fact that OZAKI'S letters to his wife, written while he was in prison in Japan, were later published and SMEDLEY states that her name appears frequently in these letters. "There has been no secrecy about my knowing OZAKI. He was a noted writer and a correspondent in China for many years, and it was as such that I knew him. He was bitterly opposed to Japanese imperialism. He gave his life in the fight against its criminal war for his own people and all peoples."

The article also makes the following point: "General WILLOUGHBY exclaims with horror that SORGE 'plundered' the files of the Nazi Embassy in Tokyo. Why didn't he do it and stop the attack on Pearl Harbor? It was his job. What were our intelligence officers doing in Japan in those years? If I know them, they were probably going to cocktail parties."

In concluding the article SMEDLEY quotes news dispatches dated February 15 and 19, 1949 at Washington, D.C. quoting Army officials as stating that the Army report implicating SMEDLEY in a Russian spy ring was a "public relations faux pas" and that there was no proof to back up this charge against SMEDLEY.

Photostatic copies of the above described articles from "China Today" and "Far East Spotlight" are being forwarded to the Bureau as enclosures with this report. Copies are also being retained in the files of the New York Office.

The March, 1944 issue of "Pacific Affairs", a quarterly published by the Institute of Pacific Relations, contains an article by OWEN LATTIMORE entitled "A Soviet Analysis of Chinese Civilization". This is a review article in which LATTIMORE comments on a series of works done by Soviet scholars. In discussing "The History of China in the Era of Imperialism" by G. V. EFIMOV, LATTIMORE states that "The Soviet interpretation of the Sian kidnapping of the Generalissimo in December, 1936 - the last act preceding united resistance - is unequivocal and interesting. CHANG HSUEH-LIANG, whose order not to resist the Japanese in the Northeastern Provinces in 1931 is noted with disapproval, is made responsible. The kidnapping is called 'clearly provocative' and 'profitable only to the enemies of China'. In other words, the Communists did not approve of the kidnapping but did approve of the negotiations leading to the release of the Generalissimo, in which their representative, CHOU EN-LAI, took an important part. This should be noted because writers like AGNES SMEDLEY, who was in Sian at the time of the kidnapping, and JAMES BERTRAM who arrived soon after, were sympathetic to the Communists but also strongly sympathetic, especially emotionally, to the Northeastern troops who did the kidnapping".

The October 12, 1937 issue of "New Masses" contains an article entitled "China's Communists Told Me" by PHILIP J. JAFFE. The article relates to a trip made by JAFFE to Yen-an, China in the Summer of 1937 where he interviewed MAO TSE-TUNG, the head of the Chinese Communist Party, and General CHU-TEH, one of the Chinese Red Army Commanders.

Speaking of his arrival at Yen-an on June 21, 1937, JAFFE writes: "We were greeted at the gate by AGNES SMEDLEY, the distinguished American writer and an old friend of the Chinese people. While in Yen-an, our party, which included T. A. BISSON of the Foreign Policy Association, and OWEN LATTIMORE, editor of "Pacific Affairs", stayed at the Foreign Office".

With reference to JAFFE, BISSON and LATTIMORE, mentioned above, LOUIS BUDENZ, until 1945 editor of the "Daily Worker", an East Coast Communist newspaper, has stated that all of these persons were Communists and under the discipline of the Communist Party of the USA.

On April 28, 1950, Confidential Informant [ ] of known reliability, stated that she did not know AGNES SMEDLEY other than casually through meetings at various parties. She could not recall any specific time that she met SMEDLEY. However, she stated that her best recollection was that the occasions were social functions and not political. She recalled that at one time, after SMEDLEY had returned from China, she (SMEDLEY) was in general disrepute with the Communist Party, that SMEDLEY made a lecture trip through the United States which trip was without approval of the party leadership. [ ] explained that her memory was very vague as to SMEDLEY and frequently confused her with ANNA LOUISE STRONG. Mr. LOUIS BUDENZ has stated that ROBERT WILLIAMS DUNN stated to him about 1920 or 1920 that the subject was engaged in "spying" for the Soviet Union. BUDENZ described DUNN as "a life long Communist" and noted that he was still a member of the Communist Party. DUNN, at the present time, is Director of the Labor Research Association, 80 East 11th Street, New York City, an organization that has been designated by the Attorney General as being within the purview of Executive Order #9835.

b7C [redacted] DUNN was interviewed by Special Agents [redacted] on May 2, 1950. He stated that he may have met the subject around 1918 to 1920, at which time she was active in a "Free India Movement" designed to free India from the rule of the British Empire. However, he does not specifically remember meeting the subject and in any event, has not had any continuous contact with her. He claimed he had no knowledge concerning the subject's activities except to note that she is "an expert on the Far East" and one who has worked for the "freedom of the Chinese people".

DUNN stated that he had never heard it intimated that the subject had conducted any espionage activities on behalf of the USSR. It was noted that on various occasions during this interview, DUNN spoke disparagingly of Mr. LOUIS BUDENZ, and stated that he had "no use for fellows like that." Although Mr. DUNN stated that he did not know the subject personally, had not read any of her writings, and was not aware of the details of the charge of espionage made against her, he felt that an investigation of the subject would clear her.

b7C Mr. MAX EASTMAN, well-known author, editor and poet, was interviewed at his residence, 8 West 13th Street, New York City, by Special Agent [redacted] on May 2, 1950.

It was noted that EASTMAN at one time was a staunch defender and personal friend of LEON TROTSKY and translated many of TROTSKY'S works into English. In 1919 EASTMAN, as editor of the paper "The Masses", was prosecuted by the Department of Justice for seditious conspiracy, with negative results. For many years now EASTMAN has been an openly severe critic of the STALIN regime and of the Communist Party, USA. Mr. EASTMAN stated that he had no personal knowledge of the subject or her activities. He noted that it was quite possible he may have met the subject in the 1920's when he and the subject both associated with a "revolutionary group", but he does not specifically remember ever meeting her. He does not remember ever having received any information at any time to the effect that the subject was engaged in espionage activity. He noted, however, that when he read of the charges of espionage against her, (as they appeared in the newspapers), he was not surprised as he always had a general impression unsupported by actual evidence that the subject was a notorious Communist.

He noted that he had read some of the subject's writings from time to time but did not feel qualified to analyze her writings, except to note that what he has read has served to give him the general impression that the subject supported the Communist Party line.

Protest Japan's Invasion Of China Three years ago on January 28th, the Nineteenth Route Army and the people of Shanghai won the admiration of the whole world by its valiant resistance to Japanese imperialist invasion. The Nanking government not only refused aid to the Nineteenth Route Army but actually suppressed the anti-Japanese mass activities of the Chinese people. This treachery finally brought about the collapse of the Shanghai defense and made it possible for Japan to continue its aggressive policy in China. In the Chahar campaign against the Japanese in 1933, the Nanking government again played the role of Japanese tools and forced General Chi Hung-chang to disband the anti-Japanese troops under his command. Ever since then, the Japanese imperialists have been planning to invade and annex Chahar province. Some time ago they even published a map of Manchoukuo in which Chahar was included as a part of it. It is extremely significant that this design of Japanese imperialism is being carried out less than two months after Chiang Kai-shek's trip to North China and the execution by Chiang's order of the outstanding anti-Japanese Chinese generals, Chi Hung-chang and Jen Yin-chi. By his various activities as summarized in Huang Lowe's article, Chiang Kai-shek has prepared the invasion of North China by Japan. Through the instrumentality of Chiang Kai-shek, Japan expected to disorganize the anti-Japanese movement in north China by physical extermination of its most effective leaders. Japan has succeeded in murdering some of the leaders, but she has not and cannot disorganize the anti-Japanese movement,—a movement that has already become deeply rooted in the masses of the Chinese people. However, Chiang Kai-shek's execution of Generals Chi and Jen and the arrest of over 200 professors and students in the city of Peiping in the first two weeks of December, have given the Japanese imperialists enough courage to launch the long contemplated attack on Chahar province, and prepare the ground for the invasion of North China. In view of the fact that Chahar is a part of what was formerly called Inner Mongolia and occupies an important strategic position in a war against the Mongolian Peoples' Republic and the Soviet Union, this move of Japanese imperialism constitutes a step in the direction of such a war. The gravity of the situation makes it a matter of immediate necessity to launch a campaign in the United States, mobilizing the American people behind the heroic struggle of the Chinese people, and to protest against the executions of Generals Chi and Jen and other fighters against Japanese imperialism, and to organize the American people for a powerful mass movement against Japanese invasion of North China, and against its preparations for a war against the Soviet Union.

Stop U. S. Munition Shipments To Japan In the meantime, it is imperative that American friends of the Chinese People should not overlook the part that reactionary forces in the United States are playing in furthering the designs of Japanese imperialism, as well as that of American imperialism in the Far East. Despite contradictions between Japanese and American imperialism, powerful elements in the United States are actively assisting Japan in her aggression in China and in her war preparations against the Soviet Union. Just take the case of the shipping of American scrap iron to Japan. The New York Times (Dec. 13th) reports that nine Pacific Coast ships have just been purchased by Japan for scrapping:

"Scrap steel exports for the first 10 months of the year were 1,422,627 tons. . . . Most of this scrap has gone to Japan. . . . A steady stream of scrap steel, iron, tin plate, and other metals, important in industry, including the manufacture of munitions, is pouring through the port [Baltimore] to the foundries of the Far East, chiefly Japan and China."

Besides helping to arm Japan, American imperialism, as revealed repeatedly in China Today, is also arming Chiang Kai-shek, an important exponent of Japanese policy in China, for the purpose of suppressing the workers and peasants revolutionary movement for China's liberation from imperialist domination. Therefore, in protesting against Japanese aggression in North China and Chiang Kai-shek's murder of General Chi and others in the anti-Japanese movement, American friends of the Chinese people must first and foremost expose the sinister meaning of the policy of American imperialism, register their protest, and force American imperialists to stop their assistance to Japan and Chiang Kai-shek. A monster meeting for this purpose has been called in New York for February 22nd. American friends of the Chinese people throughout the United States are urged to initiate similar activities and to build a powerful mass campaign of protest.

Agnes Smedley's Life In Danger Provocative attacks in the Shanghai press directed against Agnes Smedley, who has recently returned to China, have become so serious that they reveal a concerted drive on the part of those who hold the real power behind the newspapers to put an end to her literary activities in China. On December 12th, as if by previous agreement, the Japanese organ, Shanghai Nichi-Nichi, simultaneously with the Chungshua Jih Pao, Shanghai daily organ of Wang Ching-wei, and the Chen Pao, Shanghai daily organ of Chiang Kai-shek, launched an attack against Miss Smedley, shamelessly accusing her of being an international spy. The slanders are of such a nature that they can only be interpreted as a direct incitement to her assassination. An attack on Agnes Smedley's latest book in the China Weekly Review (Dec. 15, 1934) reveals the same purpose—that is to bring her outspoken position on the Chinese revolution to the attention of the Chinese authorities. In a recent letter, Agnes Smedley writes as follows:

"Thus utterly vicious and unscrupulous lies circulated by the Japanese, and taken up by the official Chinese press, are most dangerous to my life. I regard them as but an ideological preparation for an attack upon my life. If I could sue for libel in any decent court, I could prove the lies. But if I sue the Japanese paper, the trial would come up in Japan; and I would not have a ghost of a chance in a Japanese court. In China, the courts are little tools of the leading politicians or militarists, and a libel case there is utterly useless. My only hope is to expose the lies publicly. If you can help me in doing this I would be glad.

"Of course, the reason for the press campaign against me and for the discussions about the possibility of shooting me is the publication of my two latest books in America Chinese Destinies and China's Red Army Marches. Both books expose the situation in China. In a way it is a compliment that my books are taken so seriously that the Kuomintang Fascists consider I am a danger to them. They are particularly furious because my books appeared abroad, chiefly in America, where they try to pose as a modern nationalist government instead of what they are—the dirty running dogs of the foreign imperialist powers, and the butchers of the Chinese people."

The Friends of the Chinese People have already sent a telegram of protest to Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister at Washington, holding the Nanking government responsible for Agnes Smedley's safety. Similar protests should be sent to Alfred Sze, or preferably to Chiang Kai-shek at Nanking, by all individuals and organizations interested in warding off the pressing danger to an internationally known friend of China.

CHINA BETRAYED

By AGNES SMEDLEY

Editor's Note:—The following brilliant exposé of the Nanking regime was sent here in time to reach the American Writers' Congress. "China Today" publishes it in the hope that every American writer, intellectual, and worker will take a deeper interest in the situation in China which is playing such a vital part in world affairs.

Since the counter-revolutionary betrayal of the Chinese revolution by Chiang Kai-shek in April 1927, a ceaseless war has been waged on the revolutionary Chinese masses. Fully a million Chinese workers, peasants, and revolutionary intellectuals have fallen in the revolutionary struggle. The losses have been colossal. But the struggle has called forth new millions of fighters and the sacrifices, though tragic, have not been in vain. On the bodies of China's heroic revolutionary dead the Chinese Soviets were reared and the Chinese Red Army founded.

From 1927 down to the present day, not only the Chinese counter-revolution, but the whole imperialist world, has been fighting the Chinese Red Army and the Chinese Soviets. The Nanking Government, born of the White Terror, is not a Chinese Government at all, but a counter-revolutionary government of Chinese white guards and foreign imperialists. Its whole general staff is made up of German Fascists and Monarchists; its chief pilots today are Italian Fascists—they have crowded out the Americans; its arms and ammunition and its airplanes are furnished by the foreign imperialist powers, including the Americans; even in its political and economic activities, foreign imperialists from the League of Nations are the masters. The Nanking Government, like "Manchoukuo," is a puppet government of foreign imperialism. Without foreign cruisers, airplanes, arms, and ammunition, it could not last a week. True, there is a fierce rivalry between these imperialists for supreme control of this creation of their diseased desires. On one thing and one thing only are they united—the necessity of destroying the Chinese Red Army, the Chinese Soviets, and the guiding organ of these organizations—the Chinese Communist Party.

If you were in Shanghai or any other Chinese city, you could see these facts stalk the streets. There is not a week but that the foreign and Chinese police unite in hunting down men and women. There are constant raids, arrests, and killings. And the most barbarous methods of torture are applied to political prisoners. There are no trials of any kind—there is only torture, slow strangulation, or beheadings and shootings. Those who escape these atrocities spend a lifetime in chains in dark, damp feudal prisons. Nor are these facts confined to any particular place in China. They are universal. Recently five Chinese Communists were killed by slow strangulation in Shanghai. Before they died they made a statement exposing the torture and other brutalities to which prisoners in the Shanghai Municipal Prison (under foreign control) are subjected. Just before the last breath was strangled from them, they all cried: "Down with imperialism!" These facts were reported in the press.

Any man or woman who is a critic of the Nanking Government or its dictators, any man or woman who is an enemy of imperialism, any one who is anti-Japanese, is branded as a "criminal Communist." In Peiping and Tientsin, as well as in Shanghai, the Japanese secret service has spun a web of espionage against Chinese Communists and other revolutionary forces. The Japanese spy out the victims and instruct their Chinese puppets to arrest them. Most of the arrests in north China were by orders of the Japanese—there were hundreds of these in the past year. The ten students from Tsinghua University near Peiping, and the eleven students from the same university arrested a short time ago, were all arrested by order of the Japanese. Recently in Peiping, Japanese gendarmes even went to the home of a Chinese student in Peiping National University, arrested him and then sealed his room with the stamp of the Japanese Government.

Chiang Kai-shek's "New Life Movement" asks this famine stricken peasant of Anhwei to button his coat.

Despite its killings, the Nanking Government and the foreigners have been unable to stem the tide of revolt. They have killed and killed and killed from 1927 down to today, yet the Chinese Red Army grew, the Chinese revolutionary movement became purified, disciplined, hardened and experienced—and the Nanking Government has become the most hated government that has ever disgraced Chinese history. This hatred took on widespread proportions even amongst wavering bourgeois intellectuals after the Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1931 and the Japanese invasion of Shanghai in early 1932. While Nanking armies retreated without fighting before the armies of an invading power, this Government continued to wage war on the revolutionary Chinese people. Chang Kai-shek found no airplanes, no artillery, no arms, or ammunition to support the 19th Route Army that defended Shanghai from the Japanese. These weapons were reserved for use against the Chinese workers and peasants only. Likewise, the heroic Manchurians

Volunteers fought, and continue in fight today, single-handed, without sufficient clothing, food, or adequate arms. Money collected for them, and money sent by Chinese abroad for them and for the 19th Route Army, lodged in the pockets of the Nanking generals, politicians, and gangsters.

Under guidance of foreign imperialism, the Nanking Government and its rival, the Canton Government, remained enemies of the Soviet Union which, of all governments, regarded the Chinese race as equals, with the full right to independence. When Nanking finally resumed relations with the U.S.S.R. two years ago, it was merely an effort on Nanking's part to provoke the U.S.S.R. into a war with Japan. The Nanking Government actually believed that the Soviet Union could be induced to drive the Japanese from Manchuria and turn that territory back into the pockets of Kuomintang generals, politicians, and bandits. It actually believed that it could continue waging war on the Chinese workers and peasants and that at the same time the workers of the Soviet Union would fight its battles for it. When the workers of the Soviet Union refused to aid such a counter-revolutionary government that would not lift a finger to defend the integrity of China, they were called "Red imperialists" and, even though relations have been restored, the hireling press of the Nanking Government constantly carry dirty and provocative attacks on the Soviet Union.

Following the invasion of Manchuria and Shanghai, so open was Nanking's betrayal to Japanese imperialism, that it was forced to abandon even the demagogic pretences of "nationalism." Right after the Shanghai invasion, Chiang Kai-shek, realizing that he had lost even the slim support he had formerly had, began the organization of the notorious Blue Shirts, or Fascists. He built up a secret gang of murderers to hold himself in power. The Blue Shirts have set up a system of bribery and corruption, or still more refined methods of torture of captive revolutionaries, and of assassination and of terroristic bombings of newspapers, moving picture studios, or other organizations which try to tell facts to the people. Many newspaper men, writers, professors and scientists have been murdered. One of the first victims was Mr. Yang Chen, vice president of the National Research Council of China and also general secretary of the China League for Civil Rights. Mr. Yang was a scientist, a bourgeois liberal, and a Kuomintang member who had become bitterly disillusioned by the traitorous policy of Nanking toward Japanese imperialism. He was associated with Mrs. Sun Yat sen, chairman of the China League for Civil Rights. This League demanded free speech, press, organization, assembly, the right of trial, defence for political prisoners, and the abolition of the system of torture. Mr. Yang was typical of many intellectuals. On June 18, 1933, Blue Shirts murdered him in the French Concession in Shanghai. The French police captured two of the murderers, and one of them, before dying, gave a statement telling who had ordered the murder. The foreign press and the French police openly said they could do nothing against the murderers because, to do so, would bring them into conflict with the highest dictators in Nanking. Shortly after Mr. Yang's murder, a list of over fifty men scheduled for murder fell into the hands of two Shanghai American newspapers, and were published. The murder list bore the personal chop, or seal, of Chiang Kai-shek. The exposure of the list saved the lives of many men, but still the secret terror continued not merely in the form of public murders, but of secret kidnappings. One of the latest victims of the Blue Shirts was Sze Liang tsan, owner and editor of the Shun Pao, the largest and oldest daily paper in China. Mr. Sze was murdered on November 14th last year. In January of last year a correspondent of his newspaper in Tientsin was murdered for reporting the secret dealings of Japanese and Nanking officials. Two other newspaper men in Tientsin were similarly murdered in the same month. In these cases we saw clearly the blood alliance between Fascism and national treason.

As the Nanking Government surrendered more and more to the Japanese, the hatred of the people rose, and the terror of the Blue Shirts increased. Hundreds of men and women engaged in some form of national revolutionary or anti-Japanese activities have been kidnapped, arrested, imprisoned, many tortured to death or shot in prison without any form of trial. Those victims include peasants, workers, professors, students, writers, journalists. In the first part of March of this year, Mrs. Liao Chung kai, an old Chinese lady whose husband was murdered in Canton during the revolutionary period by political enemies, voiced her contempt and hatred of Chiang Kai-shek by composing a poem, attaching it to a petticoat and sending it by express package to him. This poem, roughly translated, reads:

You proclaim yourself to be a brave man,
But gladly endured humiliations from the dwarf enemies.
Without firing a single shot you presented them our mountains and rivers.
Millions are thereby disgraced;
We women desire to perish on the battlefields,
So here's my petticoat to exchange for your uniform.

This poem was sent to the Chinese press, but not one dared publish it. I personally would protest at sending a petticoat to Chiang Kai-shek because many women are fighting in the ranks of the Chinese Red Army and thousands of others are in prison or have been killed because of their activities in the revolutionary movement. We do not wish our costumes disgraced. Nevertheless, Mrs. Liao Chung kai expressed her disgust and hatred in her own way, and it was good.

In a desperate attempt to keep the Chinese people in ignorance, a rigid censorship of the press was imposed by the Blue Shirts; the Blue Shirts now control the Kuomintang, or nationalist party ruling Nanking. Suppressing all facts on the one hand, the Blue Shirts have also organized their own papers and magazines in the main cities. The authentic Chinese press has been reduced to emptiness and impotence. It is confined now to reporting the social tea and mah jong parties of politicians, generals, gangsters and their women, printing the lying reports of these "rational elements, who agitate for "friendship and cooperation" with Japanese imperialism.

A whole series of secret agreements have been signed by the Japanese and Nanking governments by which Manchuria and north China have been turned over to the Japanese. Not one of these agreements was allowed to be mentioned in the Chinese press until after they became effective, and then only in a perverted, distorted form, lest a full exposure of the facts result in a national wave of ungovernable hostility. Many agreements have never been published at all, and the secret clauses in the notorious Tangku Truce that surrendered Tientsin, Peiping, and all territory to the north, to the Japanese, have never been disclosed. In July 1934, the Nanking government reduced the tariff duties on Japanese textiles—an act which ruined many Chinese textile factories. In return for this act, I am authoritatively informed, the Japanese government gave Chiang Kai-shek a sum of 25 million Yen to help in the last war on the Chinese Soviet and the Red Army in Kiangsi.

Similarly, loans from other foreign governments, and from powerful firms in China, have been kept secret because they were granted for the same reason. The use of the American "wheat and cotton loan" for the purchase of airplanes, arms, and ammunition for use against the Red Army, was suppressed in the Chinese press, and during the Washington munitions investigation, the Chinese press was forced to suppress all reference to testimony about the bribery of a number of high Nanking military men by the Du Pont munitions industry. Just now a powerful British firm, Arnhold & Co., of Shanghai, is making arrangements to grant to Chiang Kai-shek a large loan, ranging into the millions of dollars, for war on the Red Armies in Szechwan. This company expects to get in return complete control of the antimony mines in Szechwan Province. Antimony means material for war. If the Red Army is victorious in Szechwan, imperialist influence will be eradicated entirely from the province, so the loan to Chiang is an attempt to prevent this.

At the end of January of this year, Chiang Kai-shek and Wang Ching wei, military and political dictators of the Nanking Government, carried on the now world famous secret negotiations with the Japanese minister to China and with a Japanese military official. They came to a definite agreement, the nature of which the Chinese people are not permitted to know. The real agreement was made with Chiang Kai-shek, for Wang Ching wei is nothing but the toilet paper which Chiang uses to wipe himself with.

A few of the liberal and radical magazines in north China recently banned by Chiang Kai-shek.

I learn that but three Chinese know what this agreement is which affects the lives of the entire Chinese people. These people are Chiang Kai-shek, Mrs. Chiang, and General Chiang's personal secretary, General Yang Yung-tai.

As is usual, the details of the secret agreement are leaking out slowly and are being loudly denied by both sides. The agreement provides for a Japanese loan to the Nanking government, for economic and military help against the Communist movement and the Chinese Red Army, and for the development of railways, mines, and the cotton industry. The agreement also provides that the 300 German military advisers in Nanking, who constitute Chiang's general staff, shall be replaced by Japanese. The agreement further provides for a military alliance for war on the Soviet Union.

It is now leaking out that a part of the agreement is for a 200 million Yen loan to the Nanking government, one half of this to supply the sinews of war against the Red Army, the other half for the development of industries needed by Japan in case of war on the Soviet Union. These industries include railways in north China, mines, and the growth of short staple, or "gun cotton" for the manufacture of munitions. Already the Japanese are supplying Chiang Kai-shek with ships for transporting Chinese troops up the Yangtze into Szechwan for war on the Red Army. Though Chiang is said not to be able to pay his troops, still he has just offered a one hundred thousand dollar reward to anyone who will kill or capture either Chu Teh or Mao Tse-tung, the two indomitable Red Army leaders.

Foreign imperialism, realizing that a Japanese protectorate over China is becoming a swift reality, has now offered a two million pound loan very similar to the notorious Reorganization Loan of twenty-five million pounds granted Yuan Shih-kai in 1912-13 against the second revolution, and with which Yuan built up the war-lord system. The security for this new loan will mean the pawning of the last revenue item of China which has up to now been free from foreign control. The loan represents the desperate attempt of foreign imperialism to crush the revolutionary movement in China, preparatory to the complete dismemberment of the country. These foreign imperialists are having little family quarrels about it, but it is said that the Nanking Government wishes this loan and, in addition, the Japanese 200 million Yen.

It has been told me by men with the most authentic sources of information that Chiang Kai-shek justifies his surrender to Japanese imperialism in the following terms:

"Japan is going to wage war on the Soviet Union whether we help or not," he is reported to have said. "We can either help and get something out of it, or we can stay out of it and get nothing. If we should try to side with the Soviet Union, this would lead to the Bolshevization of China. We would have to cease war on the Red Army and do propaganda among our own troops in favor of the Soviet Union. We cannot risk this, for then we ourselves would lose everything. Furthermore, should we attempt it, the Japanese would occupy all north China, take our railways and mines, and occupy Shanghai and other ports, as well as blockade our coasts. But if we help the Japanese, we can get something out of it. We can allow them to occupy and use our railways and mines and harbors in this war. In case we have difficulty with our own troops and people, we can say our war is to regain control of Outer Mongolia. We can, in the meantime, build up a sentiment friendly to Japan. Then, after the war, the Japanese would return our territory to us and perhaps allow us to have Chinese officials in Manchuria."

With such traitorous reasoning, Chiang Kai-shek is reported to have made a definite military alliance with the Japanese for war on the Soviet Union. Of course, both sides deny everything and tell us that there is no agreement at all. Nevertheless, the agreement is slowly going into effect. Nanking has just passed and published a law which suppresses the anti-Japanese movement and the boycott of Japanese goods. The Japanese are opening exhibitions of their goods in China. Japanese and Chinese business men and bankers are shuffling back and forth between the two countries on trips which they assure us are merely to inquire about each other's health. General Dohara, the most notorious provocateur and intriguer of the Japanese General Staff, has been received like a state guest in all Chinese cities. We are told that he is merely renewing old friendships. As these events take place, the terror against the anti-Japanese and national revolutionary movement has become intensified. In Shanghai, Tientsin, and Peking, Japanese have representatives on the board of press censorship along with Chinese generals, politicians, and gangsters. General Huang Fu, notorious pro-Japanese politician and agent, has been made Minister of the Interior so as to facilitate Japanese control of the country. The terror is carrying off hundreds of students, professors, and workers in every Chinese city.

In an attempt to divert the attention of the Chinese people from these facts, and from Chiang Kai-shek's war on the Red Army, General Chiang and Mrs. Chiang and their henchmen have started a thing called the "New Life Movement." The principles of this movement are most vicious. They are revivals of feudal Confucianism against which every progressive element in China has waged a ruthless warfare since 1916. The destruction of Confucian morality is and always has been the first prerequisite to any kind of intellectual, cultural, or other progress. The so-called New Life Movement, like similar Fascist movements in Italy and Germany, preaches subservience of servant to master, wife to husband, child to parents, soldier to general. In addition, the "New Life Movement" has a number of superficial and insulting provisions. It tells the Chinese people to keep clean, to wash their teeth, button up their coats, not to smoke in public, to be polite to their superiors, and it forbids women to cut or curl their hair or wear dresses shorter than the regulation length.

Every person of common sense knows that dirt and disease are products of poverty, and not of the perversity of human nature. It is cynical and vicious to tell a man to use a tooth brush and button up his coat when he has not money to buy a brush or a coat. In fact, the vast masses of the Chinese people have no food to still their hunger, and each week there are peasant uprisings caused by hunger, in various parts of the country.

Nanking officials, foreign newspaper men, and missionaries, are spreading propaganda abroad in praise of this "New Life Movement." They are also writing that Chiang Kai-shek is eradicating opium. Their "proof" is the occasional shooting of opium dealers and smokers. But the occasional shooting of opium dealers and addicts means nothing except punishment meted out to competitors with the Opium Monopoly, introduced by the Nanking government. Men and women are being shot, not because they smoke or deal in opium, but because they have no license. A license to run an opium shop costs around $10,000. The result is considerable boot-legging.

Let me take a typical case exposing this opium traffic and this hypocritical propaganda about the eradication of opium. During this month the press has reported daily about a tax conflict between the Inner Mongolian authorities at Pailingmiao, in Inner Mongolia, and the Chinese authorities. The Inner Mongolian authorities demand that a tax of $2 per picul (1 picul is 133 1/3 lbs.) be paid on certain "goods" that have been transported by camel caravan from western Chinese provinces up through Inner Mongolia, for re-shipment by military motor lorries down into Shansi and other Chinese provinces. The conflict is very severe and threatens to end in armed struggles. The Chinese have sent 18 truck loads of soldiers to Pailingmiao to demand the "goods."

The issue is reported to be over taxes. But the "goods" mentioned are opium. There are now about 700 piculs of opium in Pailingmiao brought from Kansu Province for transport into Shansi and other provinces. The Chinese authorities demand that this opium shall not be taxed, but may go through free. The case is now before Nanking for settlement. The only question is of taxing—not of the eradication of opium.

Among the chief propagandists for Chiang Kai-shek's "New Life Movement" are the missionaries, particularly American missionaries. They are also very active in an attempt to control articles in the American press about China. Chiang Kai-shek and Mrs. Chiang have sent American missionaries on lecture tours of American and other countries, paying all their expenses and presenting them with "gifts" besides. When missionaries and other reactionaries speak of "Moscow gold," don't forget to recall this little item. At this point, I am reminded of a story recently told me by a Chinese bourgeois intellectual.

Some time ago, he told me, Chiang Kai-shek sent Dr. David Yu, general secretary of the Chinese National Council of the Y.M.C.A. to America to do propaganda for him. While engaged in telling the American Secretary of State what a grand man Chiang Kai-shek was, Dr. Yu was stricken dumb and was carried out, suffering from a paralytic stroke. To me, this Chinese friend remarked: "Since then I've believed in God. Even God couldn't stand such lies."

You must never forget that the missionary business is one of the great vested capitalist interests in China, just like the traffic in guns, opium, or booze. Professor Reimer's book, Foreign Investments in China, estimates that down to 1930, American Protestant missionary investments in China totaled 41 million United States dollars and more, British missionary investments two million pounds, French $21,770,000, Belgian $9,000,000, and Japanese, 25 million Yen (of which 63% are in Manchuria). These figures exclude Catholic missionary investments, as well as missionary investments of German, Scandinavian, and other countries. Nor does it deal with the powerful and reactionary Y.M.C.A. It is very important to know that in Shensi, Shansi, and Suiyuan Provinces in north China, the Catholic missionaries own millions of acres of land, and that much of this land came into their hands during famines when starving peasants sold everything they had for a bowl of rice.

In the same manner, land throughout China is concentrated in the hands of generals, politicians, and merchants, during famines.

In view of these facts, it is clear why missionaries work so hard to support Chiang Kai-shek and the rotten feudal and capitalist system he represents. Wherever the Nanking armies go, occupying Soviet territory (if they do and can), the missionaries bravely bring up the rear, consolidating the occupied areas for the counter-revolution, talking God, Chiang Kai-shek and pie in the sky when we die. In Kiangsi, Chiang has given them control of great areas and they are the agents for the "New Life Movement." The American missionary college, Yenching, near Peiping, sent a gang of men down to Kiangsi to help the missionaries. When Sherwood Eddy was in China recently, he went over the country whooping it up for God and Chiang Kai-shek, and recruiting students and Y.M.C.A. men for work against the Soviets in Kiangsi. Rev. Shepherd, sent to America by Chiang a short time ago did the same thing.

In the light of these facts, you can easily realize that the missionaries are actively engaged in counter-revolutionary activities against the Chinese Soviets and the Red Army. In fact, against every kind of national revolutionary activity. Along with the other representatives of foreign business interests, they are responsible for the arrest, imprisonment, and slaughter of Chinese workers, peasants and intellectuals. In Shanghai, under foreign control, they hold great interests. In fact 22% of the investments in China are in this city. This means that they have a powerful voice in determining the policy in Shanghai. This in turn means that they share the responsibility for the slaughter of thousands of revolutionaries in Shanghai since 1927. In all these years, and today when men and women are hunted to death by the score, not a missionary voice is raised in protest. The prisons are jammed with politicals, but not a peep comes from the missionaries against it. Never once have they protested against the barbarous torture of prisoners in the Shanghai Municipal Prison or in Chinese territory.

What have these pious hypocrites and peddlers of intellectual poison gas been doing all these years? I can tell you—they are to be found on their knees much of the time praying for the success of Chiang Kai-shek, the butcher of the Chinese people. While they do this, while they aid the white terror in act and by silence, they still try to bring the American people to their feet, in protest when missionaries are killed in some interior village in China. Yet the number of missionaries killed is infinitesimal in comparison with the number of Chinese killed in Shanghai alone. The Red Army holds some missionary prisoners, but their number is nothing compared with the number of Chinese prisoners held by the foreigners in Shanghai for struggling for a free China.

It is not and never has been the policy of the Chinese Red Army to kill missionaries, although I know that no other army on earth would treat so gently active combatants against it. Still, every time a rotten missionary is killed by Nanking bandit troops or by gangsters, the whole foreign press and Nanking henchmen began saddling the responsibility on the Red Army. The missionaries and the foreigners cannot have it both ways. They cannot capture and torture and kill Chinese revolutionaries and still demand immunity for themselves when captured. The time be distributed so that every peasant will obtain sufficient land to earn his living. But since the landowners have already been reestablished (by some mischance undoubtedly) in their former property rights, such redistribution of land can not be effected at once. The program therefore seeks to initiate an evolutionary process, through the automatic processes of which the peasants shall secure the land they need. First, a reform of tenancy is to be instituted, involving limitation of rents, right of tenant to claim compensation for improvements effected at his own cost, and rent reductions in hard times. Second, a graduated tax is to be assessed against the rental income of farms over a specified size. This tax progresses from 3 per cent on the first excess 50 mu (one mu = 1/6 of an acre) up to a maximum of 80 per cent, increasing by 3 per cent on each additional 50 mu. These two measures, it is expected, will force the landowners to sell their lands at cheap prices to the local cooperative society, which is given the exclusive right to purchase all private lands. As it acquires the village fields, the cooperative society would keep the ownership rights but let out the lands to its peasant members, who would gradually embrace the whole community. At the same time, the cooperative society would provide its members with such credit as might be needed (including seeds and fertilizers), furnish farming implements, and cattle, keep up irrigation and drainage, and engage in the cooperative sale of agricultural produce.

Unfortunately, the materialization of this idyllic cooperative village is rendered impossible by technical flaws in the scheme itself, as well as by the class interests of those entrusted with its execution. The primary technical difficulty is obvious. There is no reason to expect that the proposed economic measures would reduce land prices and thus enable the cooperative society to expropriate the landowners. On the contrary, the existence of the cooperative society as an exclusive privileged buyer, particularly one that buys not on the basis of business calculations but on principle as an agent of government policy, would strengthen the market and enhance the value of land. Thus, the attempt to pursue the program laid down would speedily result in the bankruptcy of the cooperative society or of the government itself, if it were attempted on a nation-wide scale. In the second place, it is wholly incredible that the landowners who are members of the "Committees of Rural Reconstruction"—the executive agencies of the scheme—would carry through a program that would result in their own demise. And since the landowning class constitutes one of the main props of the Nanking regime, it would be equally unreasonable to expect the Kuomintang officials to enforce a policy that would lead to the expropriation of the landowners.

But it is not necessary to demonstrate in theory alone the hypocritical character of Chiang Kai-shek's program for "socializing the land." Events in Kiangsi province today are proving what the scheme actually amounts to in practice. The general program for expropriating the landowner through a progressive tax on rental income has been completely abandoned. This fact has even been reported by the foreign correspondents who recently toured Kiangsi under the official guidance of the Kuomintang authorities. The correspondent previously quoted has this to say about the land socialization feature of Chiang Kai-shek's program.

"But a plan at one time adopted by the Government, though it appears now to have been dropped for the time being, would root out large land-holding by graduated taxation rendering it not advantageous to own more than a small tract of cultivated land. More may be heard of this (!), and meanwhile there is a more or less single-tax scheme for doing away with head, crop and other taxes and deriving all revenue from the land." (Christian Science Monitor, March 6, 1935).

Behind the qualified phrases of this statement, the essential fact that the proposal to socialize land ownership has been quietly allowed to lapse is plainly evident.

For the original program there has been substituted a much more modest attempt to organize cooperative credit societies. The resources which the Nanking regime has placed at the disposal of these societies in Kiangsi province are extremely slender. For the one thousand cooperative credit societies reportedly functioning in Kiangsi, the total annual loan to each society amounts to from $200 to $350. (Christian Science Monitor, March 11, 1935). Furthermore, the prospective members of these societies must undergo a period of probation, in the course of which their political "reliability," as well as their financial rectitude, is rigorously tested. Under such circumstances, the cooperative societies actually function as an economic and political bulwark of the newly established status quo. Meanwhile, the larger landowners and the mass of the peasantry are unaffected, but are permitted to resume their normal relationship of exploiter and exploited.

The semi-feudal capitalist "order" which has thus been restored in Kiangsi province, however, is haunted by the spectre of the revolutionary regime which preceded it. Hundreds of thousands of Kiangsi peasants know what it is to have functioned as the controlling agents of their own self-established political and economic institutions, and are capable of estimating accurately the "benefits" that a return to Kuomintang rule has conferred upon them. For this reason, division upon division of Chiang Kai-shek's troops are still billeted in Kiangsi province, making it a conquered enclave in which the conquerors must be ever on the alert against a new upheaval. On this account many of the Kiangsi towns and villages are guarded fortresses, with their inhabitants carefully registered and with ingress and egress hemmed about with prohibitions and restrictions. For the Kiangsi peasantry have, in truth, become inflammable material which at the slightest opportunity may be counted upon to burst into flame and consume the semi-feudal capitalist economy which the Kuomintang has reestablished.

CHINA BETRAYED

will come when the Chinese revolutionary leaders may ask for an exchange of prisoners. Even then it will go hard for the missionaries, for one thousand of them are not worth the little finger of one Chinese revolutionary.

In closing, I will say that we here in China wish all of you to do everything within your power to make the facts of the situation here known to the American people. Let it be known that to support Nanking or its dictators, or Canton, or any other militarist counter-revolutionary government in China, is equivalent to supporting Japanese imperialism, Fascism, and war on the Soviet Union. Let it be known how the Japanese and other imperialists are dismembering China, with the active support and help of the Nanking and Canton governments. To give these bandits a cent of money is to aid Japanese imperialism, on the one hand, and to furnish the means for the continued war on the revolutionary Chinese people. We urge you to expose every miserable attempt of missionaries, Y.M.C.A. workers, Japanese agents, foreign correspondents, or others, to support the present rotten regime in Nanking. Every blow you can give to the forces of reaction will mean a blow given for the emancipation of the Chinese people and Chinese nation, a blow against the growth of Fascism and war in the Far East. Also, try to see that facts about the Chinese situation reach England and European countries and that your European friends and colleagues take similar action. Do not forget that American capitalist interests are actively operating in China against the Chinese revolution. We must fight them step by step, along with all other counter-revolutionary forces. Never forget that the Nanking government is a puppet government of foreign imperialism, and that it does not exist by the will of the Chinese people, but solely by grace of the white terror in which the Chinese counter-revolution and foreign imperialism unite.

GEN. STILWELL SPEAKS

By AGNES SMEDLEY

THE STILWELL PAPERS. By Joseph W. Stilwell. Edited and Arranged by Theodore H. White. William Sloane Associates, New York. 357 pp. $4. (Also printed in special edition for the Book Find Club, New York, $1.65.)

Until his death in December, General Joseph W. Stilwell was forbidden by our War Department to state one word about his conflicts with Chiang Kai-shek which led to his recall to the United States in October, 1944. During this time his enemies had a Roman Holiday. Nor was this enough—even in death they have continued to defame his name.

Mrs. Stilwell finally decided that her husband's war-time diaries, letters and other writings, should speak for themselves. The result is a book which not only corroborates everything other Americans have written about Chiang Kai-shek's dictatorship, but it is the most damning condemnation ever penned about any Chinese ruler.

Theodore White, the veteran correspondent, prefaced the book with a passage which is its best possible summary—a passage from Shakespeare in which Hotspur reports to Henry IV:

Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell

When I was dry with rage and extreme toil,
Breathless and faint, leaning upon my sword,
Came there a certain lord, neat,
trimly dressed,
Fresh as a bridegroom . . .
. . . he smiled and talked;
And as the soldiers bore dead bodies
by,
He called them untaught knaves,
unmannerly,
To bring a slovenly unhandsome
corse,
Betwixt the wind and his nobility.

After the first few weeks of his command in China, Stilwell's friendliness began to crack into angry impatience and finally into blistering invective against the intrigue, sabotage, corruption and personal ambitions of the Chiang Kai-shek regime. This regime he henceforth calls by its right name: "a gang of thugs with the one idea

THE TOKYO MARTYRS

By AGNES SMEDLEY

General MacArthur has published accusations regarding a "Soviet spy ring" in Japan, in which he involves me. They were timed to coincide with his military conference with Army Secretary Royall and the building of a new civil war base in South China. They coincided with General Claire Chenault's book advocating new U. S. intervention in China and Senator McCarran's shouts for $1.5 billion more for Chiang Kai-shek.

Murdered by Japanese

The report tells us that the principals in the "spy" case, Richard Sorge and Hozumi Ozaki, are dead. They are dead indeed, murdered by the Japanese militarists. To the best of my knowledge, these men were not spies and traitors but martyrs for the Allied cause. MacArthur's own report says that it was due to their efforts that the Soviet Union was able to throw back the Nazi enemy and prevent Russia from being transformed into a German base. If it had not been for that, American and British armies could never have landed in Normandy. We would have lost the war.

By contrast with Sorge and Ozaki, I am alive and, according to the report, "still at large." If these men were "guilty" of anything and I with them, it has taken Gen. MacArthur a long time to decide. His military intelligence chief, Gen. Willoughby, said the report was prepared a year ago. Much earlier than that, Hozumi Ozaki's prison letters to his wife were published in Japan, where nothing can be printed without the consent of MacArthur's censors. They became a best selling book. My name appears frequently in those letters.

There has been no secrecy about my knowing Ozaki. He was a noted writer and a correspondent in China for many years, and it was as such that I knew him. He was bitterly opposed to Japanese imperialism. He gave his life in the fight against its criminal war, for his own people and all peoples.

Smears Before Checking

Now Gen. MacArthur and Gen. Willoughby defame the dead. Their sources are a mixture of Japanese secret police reports and hearsay. They do not blush to speak in the direct words of Tojo. They have not bothered even to check with the State Department before smearing one of its officers who is also dead and cannot reply.

Among the living, they make no mention of many foreign correspondents with powerful connections who visited Japan during that time and worked with Ozaki and Sorge. They have singled me out for attack instead. Their report says that, for 20 years, my writings have "hoaxed" the U. S. State Department, all American correspondents who came to the Far East and the whole American people regarding the facts of life in China and that that is why I must now be "exposed." They make out all these Americans to be such poor dumbbells that they cannot judge for themselves. I do not know of any greater insult to the American State Department, the American press and the American people.

Gen. Willoughby says he has much more on me than has been made public. Of course he has much more on me. If he hasn't, he can go right back to the Japanese secret police, who had me on their death list for many years, and they will be glad to help.

Where Was G2?

If Gen. Willoughby and the U. S. military intelligence to which he belongs had worked as well in pre-war Japan as the martyrs he now defames, there might have been no World War II. Gen. Willoughby exclaims with horror that Sorge "plundered" the files of the Nazi Embassy in Tokyo. Why didn't he do it and stop the attack on Pearl Harbor? It was his job. What were our intelligence officers doing in Japan in those years? If I know them, they were probably going to cocktail parties.

The Japanese and the Chinese people call Sorge and Ozaki "the Tokyo martyrs." MacArthur now calls them spies and traitors for working against Tojo. Why doesn't MacArthur consult his Japanese police files and report on the Americans who worked with Tojo? Those real spies and traitors were everywhere before the war. Their activity helped make Pearl Harbor possible. I met them in this country and in China. Our authorities know who they are but do not molest them, or tell the American people. Today they are still well-paid "respectable" citizens.

Generals MacArthur and Willoughby are using hit-and-run tactics.

Gen. MacArthur's mother was a Virginia lady, and I hear he prides himself on being a Virginia gentleman. I say he is a Virginia ham actor. He sits there like a star-spangled god, hiding behind the legal immunity which he enjoys as a high U. S. official and heaves rocks at the reputations of private citizens. His purpose is to cover up the failure of our policies in the Far East, which like his behaviour are a disgrace to America.

In conclusion, and with only this comment, I quote from two news items which subsequently appeared, one in the New York Times and one distributed by Associated Press.

The New York Times report, Feb. 16, said:

Washington, Feb. 15: The Army admitted today that the report on the Sorge spy ring in Japan, formally issued by its public information division last Thursday, did not represent Army policy. Some Army officials, who were not present when the long report was made public, went on also to say they believed a "public relations faux pas" had been committed for which only the Army could take responsibility.

The Associated Press item (Feb. 19) said:

Washington, Feb. 19: The U.S. Army, under criticism for issuing its recent report of wartime Soviet espionage in Japan, admitted today that it had blundered. Col. George S. Eyster, Deputy Chief of the Army's public information division, said among other things that the division had no proof at hand to back up the charge in the report that Agnes Smedley . . . was a Russian spy.

The irresponsible smear has done its front-page damage; the so-called retractions are late, weak and in the back of the newspapers. The retraction, in such cases, rarely catches up with the lie.

of perpetuating themselves and their machine," while Chiang Kai-shek is referred to as "The Peanut" or as an "insect," a "stink in the nostrils," a "rattlesnake," whose sole aim was to hoard American Lend Lease supplies for civil war while refusing to use them against the Japanese.

Though expressing blistering contempt for Chiang and the corrupt and spineless sycophants who trembled and told him the fairy tales he wished to hear, Stilwell nevertheless loved and admired the Chinese people and soldiers. While rich Chinese sent their "precious brats" to the United States during the war, he wrote, conscripted farm boys "go out and get killed—without care, training, or leadership. And we are maneuvered into the position of having to support this rotten regime and glorify its figure-head—Peanut."

As this book moves forward the reader watches Stilwell grow from the direct, unpolitical soldier of democratic instincts into a man who realized that the Chinese problem could be solved only by the total democratization of the country, ruled by the Chinese people instead of by the corrupt dictatorship which the American Government continues to prop up with guns and money-bags.

In most ways, the book is a heart-breaking day-by-day account of a military man whose one aim was to defeat the Japanese—a goal which he failed to reach save on the restricted Burma battlefield where Chinese soldiers justified his faith in them.

Stilwell's conflict with Chiang Kai-shek was one of posture, he wrote. Stilwell tried to stand on his feet instead of on his knees.

student action

Present U.S. acts in Asia were condemned by delegates at the Southeast Asia Youth Conference held in Calcutta, February 19-28, the first full account of which has just reached America.

Delegates from China, India, Pakistan, Burma, Ceylon, Malaya, Indonesia, Viet Nam, Siam and the Philippines, many of whom had overcome grave dangers to get to the conference, sought ways to strengthen their common struggle for national independence and real democracy. Observers from Korea, Mongolia, Soviet Republics of Central Asia, Australia, New Zealand, Iran, Iraq, Egypt, South Africa, and guests from Great Britain, France, Holland, United States, Scandinavia, the Balkan countries and Latin America, contributed to the discussions. We give extracts from some delegates' speeches below:

Viet Nam: "The double game of America is clear. She speaks words of sympathy to the colonies but in practice she openly gives material aid to the oppressors of our people. We know full well that under the pretext of giving financial aid America is trying to dominate the political life of our countries."

China: "American imperialists press for the colonization of China, and intensify our national crisis, maintaining our reactionaries in power."

Siam: "The national government of Chiang Kai-shek and the imperialist government of the United States were at the back of the coup d'état in our country last November."

CHINA'S RULERS RIDE THE TIGER

By AGNES SMEDLEY

A foreigner who had occupied an important post in China for many years, when he discussed the political situation in China, pompously said: "I'll tell you something. General Chiang Kai-shek has two alternatives: either to fight or not to fight!" Such considerations continually arose in all conversations which I recently had in north China with officials, militarists, distinguished professors and newspaper editors. Many of these conversations would have been comic had they not been terrifyingly tragic.

A Chinese professor of philosophy, he had studied at a mission university in Peiping and was now an adherent of Chiang Kai-shek, asked me in a challenging manner, thrusting out his chin: "Why doesn't America fight and throw out the Japanese?"

"Why don't you do it yourselves?" I answered.

"Oh, you mean that America wants war?" he quickly replied.

Since no satisfactory answer to his convincingly logical argument occurred to me, I asked him what he intended to do if the Japanese should occupy his native city. He was prepared for that, he said, still more aggressively; he had packed all his belongings and would go straight to Nanking. He would leave at once if the Japanese came a step nearer.

But if the Japanese should occupy Nanking

"Then I should go to Szechwan!" His voice became emphatic. And I realized that it would not be easy for the Japanese to stop him. Nor would he be alone in his flight. I met many who, like him, were ready to flee. The ruling classes of China have produced a whole company of illustrious fugitives: some run from the Japanese, others from the Chinese. But fortunately for China, militarists and professors and intellectuals are quickly abandoning this defeatist attitude.

The province of Szechwan, which we were discussing, is one of the provinces lying in the war area. I was interested in what this professor of English would do when the Japanese also took over this region. He did not relish my question. I mentioned rather delicately that Tibet was only a short distance further in the interior and, in addition, was high in altitude, and that still further away there was Mt. Everest as a refuge where the climate was too cool for the Japanese. But I forgot to ask the gentleman how he would cross the broad belt of Soviet China.

This conversation took place among a group of men and women who belonged to the ruling classes of China. One of the gentlemen present was an adviser and close acquaintance of General Yen Hsi-shan, dictator of China and Szechuan Provinces. I turned to him and asked what he would do if the Japanese were to seize his city.

"They will never do that," he replied smiling. "The Japanese people are not supporting their militarists. They will soon turn against them."

"Meanwhile the Japanese take possession of your cities and continue to advance further and further," I replied.

"We are too weak to stop the Japanese," he said. "We must first carry out our Ten Year Plan which we have started to do in Shaanxi in order to strengthen our economic position."

"But do you think the Japanese will wait that long?"

"The problem of Japan is purely diplomatic and must be left to the diplomats in Nanking. Today in China we have on the one hand a question of foreign policy, on the other a question of economics."

"But, again, let us assume that Japan seizes the whole of China. Would you let China become a subject nation?"

"There must be justice somewhere in the world! Force is not everything. Japanese brutality is an insult to the culture of the whole world."

I listened quietly to the shallow phrases. He continued: "I hope that Japan will see the unreasonableness of its attitude and stop its invasion. And, even though it may rule over us a short time, this can't last forever."

I wanted to ask him if he was going to learn Japanese, as so many like him, so that he soon would be able to find a position under his new Japanese masters. But I only asked him: "I heard that the Japanese have promised General Yen Hsi-shan the post of head of the government of an 'Autonomous State of North China',—the five northern provinces. Is it true?"

"There is a grain of truth in this rumor. General Yen directed the Japanese to apply first to Nanking. If Nanking is willing, he will accept."

"Do the Japanese demand a military alliance against the Soviet Union?"

"They demand that China support Japan in a war against the Soviet Union by furnishing coal, steel, iron, cotton, and wheat. General Yen has merely led them on and has not as yet replied to their overtures."

Among those present was an unusual man. He challenged me: "We have in China a Red Army. They call it the Communist bandit army. Do you think they are bandits?"

"No!" I exclaimed. "They are not bandits. But all of you know that. You know that they are revolutionary workers and peasants, that there are many intellectuals among them. You know, too, that it is a question of bandits they would long ago have been wiped out."

A painful silence followed. I looked at the man who had asked me the question. His face was angular and bony. He was, perhaps, an engineer. Anyone can ask this question, but only a foreigner, enjoying rights of extraterritoriality, dares to risk answering it truthfully. I possessed these rights and could be outspoken. I wondered who the man might be. The net of the illegal Communist Party covers all China and penetrates all ranks. Who knows? . . . I interrupted my thoughts and turned to another. I asked him what he thought of the Japanese invasion. He answered: "Japan may conquer China's body but never will it conquer our hearts!"

The man who had asked my opinion about the Red Army now said, slowly and emphatically: "The Japanese do not want our hearts; they don't give that for them! They want our bodies, our land, our industries, our natural resources. They want to use us for their war against the rest of China and against the Soviet Union."

Someone added anxiously: "Why don't the English do anything? They like to fight!"

A woman, the wife of an official, interrupted him ironically: "The Americans and English are too proud; they will do nothing."

I said that the Ethiopians had not waited nor relied on anyone, but had taken up arms to defend their country.

But those present were prepared for this. Their answers showed the same point of view which I had previously encountered in Shanghai: "The Ethiopians are savages. When a savage is attacked he defends himself. The Ethiopians are illiterate, they have no culture, that is why they fight. But we Chinese possess an ancient culture."

"The man who looked like an engineer came to my aid. 'That is propaganda for Italian fascism,' he said angrily. 'The Ethiopians are an old people, with their own culture. Their civilization is perhaps of as high an order as ours. They have slaves, it is true, but so have we, more than the Ethiopians. Their feudal king is more courageous than our so-called Republican government.'"

At this point the professor of English, who had demanded to know why America did not drive the Japanese from China, asked why the Soviet Union did nothing.

"Why doesn't your army of two million men march against the Japanese instead of against their own people?" I asked. "The Japanese demand that you destroy the Red Armies. Don't you think the only reason the Japanese demand their destruction is because they fear them as enemies? Why, otherwise, are they afraid of the Red Armies?"

An officer who had recently returned from the headquarters of the political staff of an army fighting against the Red Army, now broke into the conversation. "That is only natural," he said. "Russia cannot fight against Japan unless it has a Red China on its side. It is purely a question of a war between Russia and Japan. That is why Japan demands that our army join the Japanese to fight against the Reds. A short time ago I read the offer of the Reds for a united front against Japan. I am convinced that they do not sincerely mean it. In our political work at the front we explain this to the peasants. We show them that the Reds only want to use them as cannon-fodder for the Japanese guns."

During this extremely contradictory discourse I glanced in the direction of the man who appeared to be an engineer. His face had a curious expression. He seemed to be smiling, but not exactly. I had been told that Chinese Communists, when they face the guns of the enemy, have this same look. Even when asleep I can still see that expression on his face.

Some time later I repeated this conversation at another gathering of people who also belonged to the Chinese ruling classes, and many found nothing wrong with these views. Still later, in speaking to a group of professors in the north, they only confirmed what I had already heard. They were all ready to flee from north China straight to Szechwan, but without stopping in Nanking as the professor of philosophy had planned to do. In justification they said that since Chiang Kai-shek was getting ready to fight the Japanese, their presence in the war zone would be unnecessary. And what evidence is there that Chiang Kai-shek will really fight? Why, he had sent his political secretary to Tientsin. And for what purpose? To fight the Japanese or to make pacts with them? Has not Chiang withdrawn his troops from the north? Has he not carried on secret negotiations with the Japanese Ambassador in Nanking? Has he not sent Dr. C. T. Wang, the former Foreign Minister, to Tokyo to obtain secret loans from the Japanese?

All this, to be sure, was true, admitted the professors. And they added the Chinese Communists would fight, even if Chiang did not. They were already becoming very active in the north. And would they, the professors, help the Communists? No! Why not? Because for such a hard life one had to have a strong constitution. But there were among the Communists professors and intellectuals who were not strong, and half-starved workers. One of the professors looked at me sadly and said: "If I did not have a wife and children I should be a different man."

"What kind?"

"God knows, perhaps a Communist. . . ."

A short time after this I was traveling on the same train with a Chinese school teacher. Her words were full of that hopelessness and despair today so prevalent throughout China: words that spring from the propaganda which for the past four years has emanated from Nanking and from General Chiang Kai-shek's headquarters. "China is too weak to offer resistance," this woman kept repeating.

"Is it weak as Ethiopia?" "No," she added. "As weak as China was from 1925 to 1927?" "No." "As weak as the Manchurian puppet fighters?" "No." "As weak as the Chinese Red Army?" "No."

"If freedom of the press existed in China so that the people could learn the truth; if it were not illegal to organize openly against the Japanese, would China then be too weak?" "No." "Then who are the ones who are weak? And why are they weak?" Only the ruling classes in China are weak, she admitted. They were not the stragglers, not of the Japanese but of the power of the Chinese people. Afraid that they would be no more able than the Japanese to crush the Chinese people, once they were free.

Others (besides this woman) knew this. The school Chinese bankers, merchants, politicians, professors, all the adherents of Chiang Kai-shek, declared over and over again: "We should rather see the Japanese take over all of China than allow our country to be conquered by the Communists." This one fact stands out clearly in China: class against class, all over the land.

"This is one side of the Chinese medal. But there is the other."

A short while ago I stood before a group of students, asking them questions. There are some of them, together with the answers:

Question: What are, in your opinion, the main problems facing China today?

Answer: There are two. Freedom from foreign imperialism, principally Japanese, and freedom from our own oppressors.

Question: What do you mean by "our own oppressors?"

Answer: The ruling classes of China. Under the regime of Nanking, there is no hope, no way out. We are prevented from resisting the Japanese. Their policy is pro-Japanese. The Japanese, as well as the Japanese, are our enemies.

Question: Do any of you disagree with this?

Answer: No! These are the facts of life of the Chinese youth.

Question: Do you believe that China is too weak to resist Japan?

Answer: Of course, China is not strong enough to fight. But there is no reason for capitulating. Look at Ethiopia. It is weak, but it will be very strong at present but it will be stronger. We will develop our strength so that in three years of fighting we shall be able to resist the Japanese. Our strength grows through organization and struggle.

Question: Are you doing anything to help in this fight?

Answer (after some hesitation): The propaganda spies everywhere.

I heard such words from many, many of whom were not Communists. "We are proud of the Chinese Red Army. Most of them said: 'They have no fear of death. They have been fighting for years. Even if all of Chiang Kai-shek's soldiers could march on them, we must stand their program against them. We must fight as they fight, then we shall be free!'"

How many other professors in the North? It was clearly shown by the mass demonstration in Peiping at the beginning of 1935, when they defied the weapons of Chinese soldiers and police sent at the orders of the Nationalist War Minister of the Nationalist government, to attack them and shoot them down. A few days before, a group of Chinese in the pay of Japan had demanded the setting up of an autonomous state,—made in Japan. The Chinese authorities had not only not taken any action against them but had even protected them. But they attacked and wounded the students and, in the bitter cold weather, turned fire hoses on them. Their manifestos, demanding freedom of speech and press, the right to demonstrate and organize, were censored by the Chinese press. One of the manifestos, accused the Nanking regime of having arrested, imprisoned, or murdered more than three hundred thousand young people since it has been in power.

"Murder was not enough, many were buried alive; there were not enough prisons, many were tortured to death. Mankind has been plunged into a living hell!" it stated. The manifesto piled fact on fact, the violation of democratic rights, the burning of books, the burning, drive of scholars.

The manifesto was signed by a number of organizations in Peiping. All demanded the restoration of democratic rights, the freedom of all political prisoners, the arrest of all Chinese traitors who had aided Japan, the withdrawal of the ban on political parties. They demanded the stopping of the war against the Chinese Red Army and the formation of a united front against the Japanese.

Not a week passed without mass arrests of students and workers for "seditionary activity." Special detachments for "tracking down anti-Japanese elements" were formed in Chinese and foreign police stations. In Peiping and in the foreign settlements in Shanghai, Japanese held important positions in these detachments. In Peiping and in Shanghai the government ordered all schools to revise their textbooks. In future, no textbook was to refer to "the lost province," "the foreign danger," or "Japanese imperialism." The Japanese were to be described as a "friendly nation."

The result? On the walls of buildings in Shanghai new posters have been stuck. The picture of a Chinese woman, holding a Japanese child by the hand. Underneath, Chinese characters declare that the woman is Chiang Kai-shek's mother, the child, Chiang himself! General Chiang Kai-shek rides a tiger and is afraid to dismount. The anti-Japanese hall in China is beginning to roll, and if Chiang Kai-shek does not accompany it, he will, in due course, be destroyed together with the Japanese.

A DOCUMENT OF NANKING'S TREACHERY

The Notorious Ho-Umetsu Agreement of June, 1935

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the spring of 1935, Chiang Kai-shek abjectly capitulated to the Japanese demands with respect to north China. Rumors that Nanking's "War Minister," General Ho Ying-ching, had signed a written agreement, pledging fulfillment of these demands, were circulated at the time, but never verified. The text of this agreement, publication of which has been suppressed in China, appears below for the first time. The history of the past few months shows that the Nanking regime has carried out the terms of the agreement to the letter.

Items the execution of which has been promised the Japanese Army by the Chinese:

1. Discharge of Yu Hsueh-chung, Chang Ting, and others from their respective offices.
2. Discharge of Chiang Hsiao-hsien, Ting Chang, Tseng Kuei-chung, and Ho Yü-wei from their respective offices.
3. Withdrawal of the 3rd Regiment of the Gendarmes.
4. Dissolution of the Political Training Department of the Branch Military Council and suppression of the Peiping Military Magazine (a periodical).

5. Suppression and dissolution of the Blue Shirts Organization and Fu Hsing Hui (Revival Organization).
6. Withdrawal of all Kuomintang party headquarters from the province of Hopei and of the Lu She (a club for military service men) from Peiping.
7. Withdrawal of the 51st Army from the Province of Hopei.
8. Withdrawal of the 2nd and 25th Divisions from the province of Hopei and the dissolution of the Student Training Class of the 25th Division.
9. Prohibition of all anti-Japanese and anti-foreign activities in China.
10. Addition of provisions for the execution of the above items:
1. All the items promised must be executed in the specified time. No new introduction of personnel and offices in north China, that will cause a worse turn to Sino-Japanese relations shall be made.

2. When officials for the provincial and city governments are appointed it is expected that Japanese advice will be observed; namely, no personnel that will cause a worse turn to Sino-Japanese relations shall be chosen.
3. Japan has the right to participate in and direct the execution of the proposed project.

DETAILS:

The indices of the California Legislature Senate Fact Finding Committee on Un-American Activities (Tenney Committee) were examined by Special Agent GABRIEL R. MARTINEZ at Fresno, California, on April 28, 1950. There is being set out below the information revealed through this investigation.

The Tenney Committee Files contain a photostat of the record of the First American Writers Congress which took place in New York City in April of 1935. According to these records, SMEDLEY was elected as a member of the National Council of the League of American Writers when it was organized at the conclusion of the First American Writers Congress in 1935. This information is also contained in a memorandum captioned "John Reed Clubs". The original source of this latter memorandum is not known.

The Tenney Committee files contain information concerning subject's affiliation with the League of American Writers as supplied to the committee by HARPER KNOWLES of 660 Market Street, San Francisco.

The League of American Writers has been declared a subversive organization by the Attorney General as coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

The committee files contained an undated news letter marked for release February 9, 1948, of the National Council of American Soviet Friendship of 111 East 32nd Street, New York City, listing a number of persons who had signed a protest to the showing of the 20th Century Fox film, "The Iron Curtain". Among the signers, according to this news release, was the subject AGNES SMEDLEY.

The National Council of American Soviet Friendship of New York has been declared a subversive organization by the Attorney General as coming within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

The Tenney Committee files contain a letter from ALFRED KOHLBERG, an importer of Chinese textiles, together with a photo plate reprint from the "Chicago Tribune" of January 2 and 3, 1948, concerning the RICHARD SORGE espionage case in Japan. According to this article, which is written by WALTER SIMMONS for the Chicago Tribune Press Service, the name of the subject is mentioned as being possibly implicated in the affairs of the Sorge Network in Japan, and the following statement is made concerning her under the subheading of "Two Well Known Authors":

"The names of two well known authors appear prominently in the record of the Sorge groups activities. One was an American, AGNES SMEDLEY, former Colorado school teacher who aided radical movements in Asia for years, and in her books and public utterances became a principal apologist for the Chinese Communists. SORGE credited her greatly with recruitment to his secret cause of Hozuni Ozaki, China correspondent for the Tokyo newspaper 'Asahi' who was executed with SORGE.

"Another was GUNTHER STEIN, author of 'The Challenge of Red China', whose writings frankly follow the Communist line. STEIN's Tokyo home, SORGE said, was for many months the hiding place of a radio transmitter that sent much of the spies information to Moscow. STEIN also is credited with having couriered some of the spies photographic documents to Hong Kong from Tokyo in 1937".

In commenting on these articles, Mr. KOHLBERG points out that SMEDLEY is the author of "China Fights Back" and "Battle Hymn of China", writer for New York weeklies and the New York Press, and at one time was advisor to General EVANS CARLSON and to General JOSEPH STILWELL.

The committee files contain a copy of a news release entitled "News and Views", published by the Church League of America at 53 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois. In this publication for the issue July 9, 1949, under the caption "Irrepressible and Loyal", there is the following comment with respect to Miss SMEDLEY:

"Irrepressible and loyal to 'their cause' are the fellow-travelers who respond when the Communists buzz the signal. On June 15th, 1,000 people gathered in City Center Casino (NY) to hail the victories of the 'People's Liberation Armies' in China and to demand U. S. recognition of the new Chinese Communist dictatorship. This meeting was called by the 'Committee for a Democratic Far Eastern Policy' - a Communist-front outfit. Speakers included AGNES SMEDLEY (with a record of Communist affiliations) who lauded the Communist take-over in China as a 'people's revolution;' JOSEPH ~~KEHOE~~, Secretary of the Communist-dominated CIO-ACA, who demanded that American unemployed and factories be turned to producing for the China that Communists control; HENRY PRATT FAIRCHILD, a New York professor (cited more than 40 times by the House Committee); MAUDE ~~RUSSELL~~ (with Communist-front affiliations); ISRAEL ~~EPSTEIN~~ and ALFRED ~~E. KAHN~~, two devout writers for the Communist press. Greetings were sent by HENRY ~~WALLACE~~, CLIFFORD ~~ODETS~~ (sterling Party-line playwright), the Rev. STEPHEN ~~FRITCHMAN~~, who was recently fired by Right-wing Unitarians as editor but who is now pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles, and others."

The files of the Tenney Committee reflect that the name of the subject is contained in a list of persons who denounced the trial of the New York twelve top United States Communist Party leaders. The source of this information is contained in "Alert" magazine #67 dated March 7, 1949, at Los Angeles. According to the article as published in "Alert", a list of sixty persons signing the protest were taken from the Communist press and, according to this article appearing in this magazine, represent a good cross section of Communists and fellow travelers in the United States.

The files of the Tenney Committee contain information to the effect that the subject is a contributor to "New Masses" and cites as a source an article written by the subject entitled "A Red Village is Occupied", appearing in "New Masses" under date of December 15, 1936. This particular article is not available in the files of the committee.

The files of the Tenney Committee further reflect subject's connection with Hindu revolutionaries in 1918, and the following information is contained in the files with respect to this incident:

"A German woman arrested with a Hindu, Sailandra Nath Ghose, who had collaborated with Taraknath Das, in writing a propaganda work called, 'The Isolation of Japan In World Politic', March 18, 1918, NYC. The two were accused of violating the espionage act by representing themselves to be diplomatic agents of the Indian Nationalists Party and of having sent an appeal for aid in the establishment of democratic federated Republic in India to the Brazilian Embassy in Washington, to LEON TROTSKY in Russia, and to the Governments of Panama, Paraguay, Chile and other neutral nations."

The source of this information is unknown to the committee but may probably be based on an editorial entitled "The Truth and Agnes Smedley", appearing in the April, 1949, edition of "Plain Talk" magazine signed with the initials I.D.L., presumably ISAAC DONNEVINE.

The files of the committee contain a clipping from a New York newspaper, date unknown, which supports the "Citizens United", to abolish the Wood-Rankin Committee and contains the endorsement of the subject.

The files of the committee further reflect that the subject's name appears as a sponsor in an appeal published in the "New Republic Magazine" in behalf of the Committee for Free Political Advocacy" dated March 28, 1949. This appeal is in effect a protest against the indictment of the twelve top Communist leaders in New York and states in part: ". . . .The present indictment in New York City by the Federal Government of twelve Communist leaders for political advocacy of a domestically unpopular doctrine is a most shocking exercise of State power. . .", and continues, "If such advocacy is declared a crime, political change in a democracy may well become impossible".

Included also in the files of this committee are certain newspaper articles obtained from the "Pasadena Star News", Pasadena, California, dated February 10, 1949, which relate to the charge by the army in 1949 that the subject and GUNTHER STEIN are Russian spies and Miss SMEDLEY's denial of these charges.

The files of the Tenney Committee reflect the following information concerning SMEDLEY, the source of which, according to the committee records, will be found in Counterattack magazine. This information is as follows:

"The committee records contain information to the effect that subject signed a directive issued by the Arts, Sciences and Professional Council."

The source for this is given as Counterattack magazine December 5, 1947. According to this committee, the subject for years has been writing with "fervid devotion about the Chinese Communists" and has exhibited her feelings in this respect in a speech at a meeting sponsored by the committee for a Democratic Far Eastern policy. The source for this statement is given as Counterattack magazine #82 dated December 17, 1943, and also Counterattack magazine #104 dated May 20, 1949.

The committee files contained information to the effect that the subject is connected with the "World Congress of Intellectuals"—probably referring to the recent cultural and scientific conference for world peace at which subject spoke in March of 1949. The source of this information as given by the committee is contained in Counterattack magazine, Special Supplement to #95 dated March 18, 1949.

The committee's files also contained information to the effect that

The Tenney Committee did not have the copies of the magazine Counter-attack which they had listed as sources for their various bits of information on SMEDLEY. They are not available to the Los Angeles Office. A teletype was directed to the New York Office, where the magazine Counterattack is published, with the request to determine and interview the original sources of the statements made above as attributed to Counterattack.

San Francisco has been requested by separate teletype dated May 1, 1950, to interview HARPER KNOWLES regarding his knowledge of the subject and her affiliation with the League of American Writers.

The "Los Angeles Times" newspaper for October 30, 1937, reflects that Dr. JOHN R. HAYNES died on that date at the age of 84 years; that he had practiced medicine in Los Angeles for thirty years subsequent to 1887, and had then retired to devote all of his time to his interest in public and civic life; that he was appointed a member of the Board of Water & Power Commission in 1917, and held that post until his death; that from 1923 until his death he was a member of the Board of Regents of the University of California and many other civic groups.

An editorial appearing in the July 6, 1927, issue of the "Los Angeles Times" reflects that Dr. JOHN R. HAYNES and several of his colleagues in the Department of Water & Power of the City of Los Angeles had been ordered by the Supreme Court to repay $12,000 to the department on the grounds that these funds had been illegally expended by this group for the purpose of political campaigning in behalf of Dr. HAYNES' "pet scheme for a gigantic public owned power monopoly in Los Angeles". The editorial continues by stating that the $12,000 is actually only a small fraction of the total amount of public funds spent by this group in political campaigning.

There is being set out below information concerning the officers, trustees, and employees of the Haynes Foundation:

GORDON S. WATKINS -- First Vice President

b7D

GORDON S. WATKINS is a professor of economics and chairman of the Administrative Council of the Los Angeles Campus of the University of California. [In December, 1941, Informant  of known reliability,] advised that he had received a letter dated December 19, 1941, from the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom, 519 West 121st Street, New York City, protesting the Oklahoma Criminal Syndicalism trial. The letter contained printed pages of signatures of persons who allegedly signed the letter for this committee as sponsoring this letter. Among these signatures under a heading "University of California (Berkeley)" appeared the name GORDON S. WATKINS. (S)(u)

b7D

[Informant  of known reliability,] furnished information in August of 1943 that in his observations of Communist Party activities in the intellectual as well as the union field that GORDON S. WATKINS was among those persons at the University of California at Los Angeles who had favored certain Communist-front organizations. (S)(u)

b7D

[Informant  also advised that the League of American Writers held their Fifth Writers Congress from October 1-3, 1943, under the auspices of the Hollywood Writers Mobilization and the University of California at Los Angeles, and that GORDON S. WATKINS was chairman of a seminar held on October 2, 1943, with a program entitled "Post-War Internal Planning", and that JOHN HOWARD LAWSON participated in this seminar. (S)(u)

JOHN HOWARD LAWSON, according to Informant [ ] of known reliability, is a dominant Communist figure in the Hollywood motion picture industry. (U)

The "Los Angeles Examiner" newspaper for September 26, 1943, carried an answer by Dean GORDON S. WATKINS to the charge made by State Senator JACK TENNEY to the effect that the Writers Congress, above mentioned, was "Communist instigated". In the article, WATKINS denounced TENNEY and denied that Congress was Communist inspired.

REGINALD D. JOHNSON - Second Vice President

[According to Informant [ ] a reliable source,] REGINALD D. JOHNSON is an architect who was in business as an architect in the Los Angeles area for many years. His residence in 1949 was 525 South Grand, Pasadena, California. He is presently retired. (U)

'The Light of East Asia'

Observations in England's Colony of Hong Kong

By Agnes Smedley

THERE IS A EUROPEAN DRAMA, written some forty years ago, entitled 'Children of Light.' It applies so aptly to Hongkong that I must explain it in the light of this colony's ever-recurring cholera epidemics—one of which is upon us now. But of course the story has universal application.

It is built around a well-to-do gentry family living in a stately manor house on an estate of old Russia. Above, in the clean, spacious rooms flooded with light, the members of the family discuss books, drama, philosophy, socialism, the soul, religion, and the success of some of their male relatives in the great city. It is an enchanting life and the talk is more than pleasant.

However, there is another side of the medal. The farm laborers—men, women and children—work endlessly on the estate, ignorant, somber, inarticulate, and from their labor rivulets of wealth pour into the family coffers. They live in insanitary huts which the ladies of the family avoid in their pleasant walks. The servants of the family live in small, dark basement rooms of the manor and they also are ignorant, somber, inarticulate. And, of course, the ladies or gentlemen of the family never demean themselves by going amongst them.

All goes well until some strange disease breaks out among the servants and carries off one member after another, and then spreads to the farm hands in the insanitary hovels. And then one member of the family, a frail gentlewoman, contracts the disease and dies within a few days. The children of light find themselves being overcome by the forces of darkness.

This old drama recurs to my mind almost daily, now that I am in Hongkong, in the midst of the cholera epidemic.

Here is one of the greatest ports in Asia, where incalculable wealth has been made by the fortunate of the European and Chinese races. Here are palatial homes flooded with light. Here are modern hospitals, fine hotels where expensive drinks and food are served. Here are lovely gardens, tennis courts, recreation fields for the fortunate, a good water and plumbing system—for the well-to-do but not for the poor Chinese—and here are fine roads, some of the best in the world, over which roll an uninterrupted line of private cars. European and Chinese of the well-to-do, clad in white or colored silks, fill the streets, the lounges, dining rooms, gambling halls. The press carries photographs each day of weddings that cost more money than many 'children of darkness' earn in a lifetime of hard toil.

There are said to be around four hundred Chinese dollar millionaires in the city, very many of them so-called 'refugees' from Shanghai and other harassed cities of China who have fled here to live in ease on their money while their countrymen fight for their lives up in China. These rich refugees pay no income tax at all, and fight every attempt by the Hongkong Government to impose one. Some people even say that if they are taxed they will leave the Colony—as if that would be a loss! How many foreigners of British, American, and other nationality live here I do not know; but they have made their wealth out of the Chinese people—and they pay no income tax. We know that the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation is practically the master of Hongkong and that its dividends before and since the war have been astronomical.

But there is another side to this medal also.

Here in this Colony is a teeming Chinese population, masses of whom are ignorant, somber, inarticulate, laboring eight to fourteen hours a day for a sub-human wage. Unkempt, disheveled women and children, clad in dirty, miserable rags, sometimes venture out into the clean streets to shock the white-clad passers-by. In the crowded Chinese sections of the city they live massed together in buildings, many of which are pitch-black, insanitary, without any water or plumbing system; or many live in small hovels on the city's outskirts. The fortunate Chinese and Europeans would never dream of venturing among them. Added to these unfortunates are over one hundred thousand refugees from Kwangtung Province who have fled here from the Japanese, and for whom the Medical Director of the Hongkong Government, aided by a few of the more advanced men and women of the Colony, has had to fight a step-by-step battle to get appropriations for feeding and housing. The fight, hardest of all, was to get not just soup kitchens where one miserable meal was offered each day, but to get through a budget that would provide the minimum essentials for human health.

Go into the homes of the Chinese who have lived for decades in Hongkong and who are not refugees: there you see the origin of diseases that blossom in poverty, ignorance and dirt. Up narrow, dark stairways you come into pitch-black rooms, filled with so-called beds. People sleep on dirty beds, on the floors under the beds, on tiers of beds, in the cock-loft and on beds suspended by ropes from the beams of the roof. People rent bed-space for a few hours, and then are rooted out to give place to others. Still other people sleep on the streets. Some twenty thousand Chinese are known as 'street sleepers' and other thousands are known as 'roof squatters'—men, women and children who stretch out at night to sleep on the open pavements or merely squat on the roofs as they sleep. You can pass through great areas of Hongkong at night and see the sidewalks dark with bodies of human beings, covered perhaps with some thin dirty cloth. There are too many to put in the sanitary and well-managed refugee camps, and we hear always that, anyway, there is not enough money to feed more. In such Chinese sections of the city you pass haggard coolies carrying buckets of night-soil or garbage. Baths? Who spoke of luxury? Yet on nights when we have blackouts, as we did for three nights in succession recently, even this night-soil and garbage can't be removed because the streets must be deserted.

It was on such nights that this new cholera epidemic began, and it began in these poor sections of the city where there is no plumbing system.

For years the medical workers, under the direction of the Medical Director of the Government, have struggled to get a plumbing and water system throughout the city, for the poor Chinese as well as for the rich. Who opposed them? The men who opposed them were the rich. The rich foreigners opposed it because it would mean more money to be raised by local taxes. The rich Chinese opposed it because some of them have a monopoly of night-soil and garbage removal, and a plumbing system would interfere with their profits. The evil fruits of such a policy are hundreds of cholera victims each spring and summer; sometimes thousands. The cost of such a policy is fearful, for the Medical Department must be mobilized each year to cope with the scourge, to treat cases, to bury the dead, to try and do a little palliative cleaning up here and there.

At times reports are published in the local press which reflect conditions in which the Chinese poor live; the Chinese from whose daily toil countless small rivulets of profit flow into the coffers of the fortunate Chinese and Europeans. You read in the published Medical Report for 1938 that Chinese infant mortality is 343 per thousand, while the mortality of non-Chinese infants is 42 per thousand. You read of poor Chinese sentenced to prison or fined for stealing petty sums; of a Chinese coolie who dumped the body of his child on a garbage heap. It had had beri-beri and died on the way to the hospital. He did not have money enough to bury it. Beri-beri is a disease of semi-starvation. But this is not the only case of this kind; it is a daily occurrence. The International Settlement of Shanghai maintains a death wagon that goes about the streets each day picking up the dead. In no year, even before the war began, were there ever less than 32,000 dead bodies picked up from the Settlement alone—and this leaves out the French Concession and Chinese territory. Of course Hongkong is more enlightened and authority is centralized, but still this is one of the big problems of the city.

There are many fine hospitals in Hongkong: the palatial Queen Mary Hospital, for instance, the Kowloon Hospital, the Tsan Yuk Maternity hospital. These are Government hospitals, perhaps the best equipped in the Far East, and they are fitted with the latest in medical equipment. Fortunately, medicine is partly socialized in Hongkong and the poor can be treated without cost. But what a weird picture: these white palatial hospitals with the finest equipment, staffed by some of the best medical men from the British Colonial Medical Service, trying to combat diseases of human starvation! From 12,000 to 15,000 patients pass through the portals of the Queen Mary alone each year; and of these 40% are poor Chinese who pay nothing at all. They are paid for by the Government in third-class wards which are clean, beautiful, and well-cared for. For each such third-class patient, the Hongkong Government pays HK$3.00* per day. Kowloon Hospital, also a Government institution, also cares for about 40% free patients a year. It sounds like a very good system; until you study the patients themselves. Many of them suffer from beri-beri, pellagra, and tuberculosis, all diseases of semi-starvation. Tuberculosis is not exclusively that, of course, but it is also that, particularly so with the poor Chinese. The infection quite naturally spreads in the insanitary conditions in which the masses of the people live.

So many rich people, or people who find thought a burden, complacently declare that the Chinese have no complaint coming because the Colony provides free medical treatment. Yes, but it is a kind of insanity, even with this. A child, let us say, suffering from a disease of malnutrition, is kept in a hospital for three or four months, at a cost of HK$3 per day, HK$90 per month, or HK$270 for three months—more than its father earns in an entire year, or even two years. It is given a special diet, expert medical care, and after a time is either cured or partially cured. Obviously it cannot be kept permanently in the hospital. It is discharged, cured or on the way to cure. A few whose parents are 'street sleepers' or 'roof squatters,' or who rent a bed space in a pitch-black loft, can be sent to a refugee camp or to a mission establishment—which is no solution of the problem at all, but merely a temporary palliative. The mass of such cases are returned to their dark, insanitary homes where parents earn $10 to $20 per month. And within two or three months the same child or adult is back again in the hospital for another three months or so, at the same cost to the Government; $500 a year may be spent on such a case. On the very face of it, this is insanity. The chief almoner (social worker) in charge of, say, Queen Mary Hospital, may send out assistants to follow up the released child and advise the parents to provide a certain diet for it. The mother can only look dumbly at the social worker. She has no money for a special diet—furthermore, she does not know the meaning of a special diet. Even if a free bottle of milk is delivered to her each day for the child, she often sells it to get a little extra money to help feed the whole family.

In the Maternity Hospital at Tsan Yuk, women must pay for lying-in—if they can afford it. Pregnancy is, after all, not an infectious disease, but is one's own individual responsibility. Those who do not wish children can go to one of the four birth control clinics maintained in the Colony in connection with Government Women's and Children's Welfare Clinics. The cost is nothing. Yet even despite this, the Medical Department of the Government is enlightened enough to admit women to the Maternity Hospital without charge if they cannot pay. A study of the patients in that hospital show that many of them—very many indeed—also suffer from beri-beri, pellagra, and tuberculosis, which complicates their pregnancy.

It is of value, and a study of importance, that the Medical Department of the Government has led the campaign in the Colony not only for socialized medicine, but even for a minimum wage and the eight-hour day. They have done this not only because of their social consciousness, but also because they see the insane waste of life and health, and of money, due to the present profit system.

Profits made by either Chinese or Europeans in this Colony have their origin in the labor of the people, or in trade with the people. The very existence of millionaires or other well-to-do, automatically reveals the huge profits that have been made or are being made out of the labor of the people. High profits means that wages must be very low, for the major part of profits comes from labor.

On dinner tables in Hongkong you often see sugared ginger. Large numbers of Chinese women labor ten hours a day, at a wage of ten cents a day, cleaning this ginger. It is just such conditions as this that give rise to beri-beri, pellagra, tuberculosis, typhoid, and cholera, diseases that kill not only the victims affected, but that spread and infect and kill the more fortunate.

Let us take records of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association of Hongkong, an organization in which so many medical men, social workers, and the more advanced elements of the population take part to combat this disease. If you talk with the members of the Association, you will hear the ever-recurring statement that this disease has its origin in poverty and ignorance. But poverty and ignorance are the result of the profit system, and the profit system beats men, women and children down into the dust in order to reap harvests for the owners. Here are a few concrete records of tubercular patients which I list because many people say that these tubercular patients are refugees and are the responsibility, not of Hongkong, but of China:

A Chinese woman factory worker, 34 years of age, 12 years in the Colony (not a refugee). She works 12 hours a day and earns HK$10 to HK$12 per month. She rents one room for $5 a month. The factory is overcrowded and insanitary. Who can live a decent life free from disease on such a wage?

A Chinese book-keeper, 20 years resident in the Colony. He works 14 hours a day, earns $15 a month, sleeps in the shop where he works.

A Chinese coolie, 29 years in the Colony, working eight hours a day at heavy physical labor, drawing wages of HK$10 a month, and sleeping in a rented bed-space with dozens of others, for $2 a month.

A factory worker who pastes trade marks on electric torches for eight hours a day at a wage of HK$7 per month, and rents a bed-space for 80 cents per month in a dark, insanitary building. He was born in this Colony.

If you study the records of the Anti-Tubercular Association, you will find thousands of other cases of Chinese born in this Colony, or domiciled here for one or two decades, who have given their health that a few fortunate people might live in comfort or luxury. Of course many people will say they themselves are not responsible for this. True. No individual as such is responsible—though I must say that here, where we have a Colony of only a million and a half people, the rich can almost be held individually responsible. They can see the results of the system which they support, right outside their doors, or if they take a run down the streets in their cars. They are the 'Children of Light,' and this is their Colony in the literal sense of that word.

Is it any wonder that infectious diseases and diseases due entirely to poverty, such as beri-beri and pellagra, can take root in this Colony and, within three weeks, carry off over 400 human beings—as has happened here these past weeks? Lowered resistance due to malnutrition furnishes fertile soil in which cholera can take root and spread, and the large number of deaths from cholera were people who did not have the resistance to overcome the disease they had contracted, even when treatment was of the most scientific.

Since the present Sino-Japanese war, the prices of foodstuffs and other life necessities have increased very much, yet wages have not kept pace with the rise in the cost of living. True, a few public-spirited employers, pressed by the Medical Department, have increased wages a little. But if you investigate the extent of their raised wages, you sometimes find that this is not more than $2 per month. One important company raised wages from 30 to 50%, but if you investigate, you find that this was an increase of only $2 to $5 per month; percentages mean almost nothing. These increases meant, at the most, nothing but just enough to keep life in the human body and permit men to continue living at a sub-human level—and breeding more men to take their places, when they themselves die at an early age from labor carried on at a level that is a disgrace to the human race. Is mere living and breeding the life aim of the human being?

Public-spirited employers who do raise wages say that they are exposed to unfair competition by those who lack essential humanitarian principles. Humanitarian principles seldom influence employers in any country. But it seems that cholera alone ought to be a threat to their lives sufficient to make them increase wages merely as a measure of self-protection. To show what such men are made of, I have heard some reply that they can be inoculated against cholera.

'Ah ha!' they exclaim, as if to say, 'We've demolished your argument there.' They are satisfied that they can be immune to diseases while others sink.

Another problem must be mentioned here also: since the present war began, large numbers of Chinese women and girls, refugees, or natives of Hongkong, have had to take to the streets to make a living. Across the Bay in Kowloon, the streets are filled with them at night, waiting before theaters and restaurants or in dark doorways. Some are even very young girls of twelve or thirteen years of age. Policemen, watchmen, and others whose duty is supposed to be the protection of the community, collect a regular percentage from them. There is also still the sale of women and girls into brothels or for transport to other ports for prostitution. These girls come from peasant or working-class families whose wages are too low to maintain them. When I see these girls waiting for men in an attempt to get enough money to pay for a bowl of rice, I think of the Peak homes of the rich Europeans, and of the four hundred Chinese millionaires who, with their useless families, have moved to Hongkong since the war began, leaving the peasant-soldiers of China to fight the war. Brothers and husbands of many of these women walking the streets of the Colony are soldiers in the Chinese armies, fighting for the country's liberation. They are also fighting for the principles of democracy and upon their success depends the fate of Hongkong itself.

There are good men in this Colony, and they struggle against a system which they are called upon to live in. Some of them are liberal and humanitarian in thought, some very decidedly social-minded in knowledge and in action. Recently the Governor, Sir Geoffrey Northcote, with Dr. Ronald Hall, Bishop of Hongkong, reviewed an athletic meet of Chinese children from the public schools—schools, by the way which are not free, but which must be paid for, a system which dooms tens of thousands of Chinese children to illiteracy as well as poverty. The Governor and the Bishop watched the athletic meet and were shocked at the sight, for the bodies of the children competing were thin, scrawny, undernourished. Many of them threw their frail bodies into the athletics, but it was pitiful to see them. None of these children were refugees—all were natives of Hongkong, and British citizens by virtue of that fact, should they care to claim such citizenship.

Englishmen with social vision, in Hongkong and China, try to alter conditions in so far as they can within the framework of the present order—and nothing much beyond this can be done at present. The Colony has had an unusually liberal Governor in Sir Geoffrey Northcote. He has supported every good social measure and, in addition, supported and even led in the relief work for China. Dr. Selwyn-Clarke, Medical Director of the Colony, and the medical-workers under his command, are called upon to cope actively with epidemics like cholera and with sub-nutritional diseases that have their roots in poverty. These medical workers face daily the waste of life and wealth due to the profit system; and it is no wonder that Dr. Selwyn-Clarke and his tireless wife, Hilda Selwyn-Clarke, have led the campaign for a variety of social changes, including the eight-hour day and a minimum wage, with an immediate increase in all wages to keep pace with the rising cost of living.

But since no trade unions are allowed to exist in the Colony, such advanced men can only argue, plead, demand, manipulate, or try to frighten; they have no people's organizations behind them in their struggle. So even the best English leaders are hamstrung in their efforts to make any but slight changes in conditions. The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation is more powerful than they are; it is, in fact, the invisible dictator of the Colony.

Yet, historically viewed, these advanced Englishmen in Hongkong and China prove that progressive forces the world over have strong allies in all kinds of queer places. Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, British Ambassador to China, has won the friendship and respect of all who wish to see China strong, victorious, really democratic. Bishop Hall of Hongkong, a sincere and devout man, has stood with Mrs. Selwyn-Clarke in the forefront of all projects that could strengthen or bring relief to the Chinese people in any way, both in Hongkong and up in China. These two have headed the British Relief Fund to aid China, the Foreign Auxiliary of the Chinese Red Cross to aid the Chinese wounded, the International Committee of the Chinese Industrial Cooperatives, and a variety of other groups —including a cooperative farm in Hongkong and, with the Medical Director of the Government, the project to organize, train and settle Chinese refugees in Hongkong, on cooperative farms. He and the Medical Director were among the chief factors behind the plan for Government purchase of rice, soya beans, and firewood; for the transport of these commodities on Government-chartered boats; for their sale in Hongkong at the lowest possible price to the Chinese population. This was a measure against war profiteering, and, of course, was fought by the vested interests.

Again, it was the growth of sickness and disease amongst the Chinese people that gave rise to this, in part, and literally forced the plan through. It was carried out swiftly and efficiently, and once more it was demonstrated that the profit system is wasteful and destructive and against the interests of all but the very small minority who profit by it.

The few social measures undertaken and carried through by the Hongkong Government, open broad vistas of what really could be done in the Colony. The wealth that exists here, both Chinese and European—if properly administered for the public welfare—could make Hongkong a small democratic paradise, a model for all East Asia. There are even enough advanced lower officials here to achieve such an end. I have met many of these young men, fundamentally influenced by advanced social thought of England, who waste their youth and energies merely marking time within the framework of the present system; they are critical, discontented, forward-looking. Some ministers of religion write constantly in the press exposing social conditions among the Chinese, battling against a system that is out-of-date and destructive even of itself. They realize that even under the present system Hongkong could set a standard of living for its inhabitants that could wipe out epidemics and diseases of malnutrition.

But in reality? Poor men, treated in Queen Mary Hospital for subnutritional diseases for months, throw themselves from its upper balconies rather than go back into the dark depths of poverty from which they were taken to be cured.

How to meet this problem of suicide? Apart from the efforts already mentioned, steel bars are to be bought to place around the balconies of Queen Mary Hospital to prevent people from hurling themselves to death.

Except geographically, Hongkong is not the 'Light of East Asia.' It does not set the example that a few of its most advanced men would like it to set. Instead, it has adopted standards that are at times lower than many modern cities of China of which I have personal knowledge.

Civilization must be measured, not by the wealth of a minority, but by the general welfare of the majority of its people. That welfare includes freedom from the fear of insecurity, of the future, of life. This seems to me a basic truth which constitutes the main issue before the whole world today. I know it would be utopian to believe that Hongkong could break from the world system prevailing. It would be destroyed if it tried. But even within the framework of the present system it could stand in the forefront and try to prove to us that the system has some advantages, and that it can work. I personally do not know if it could prove anything of the kind, but if people continue vociferously to defend the present system, it seems they ought to do something to prove what they are talking about. To point to the fine motor roads, the race courses, the golf links and tennis courts and the cocktail lounges of this city cannot convince 80 percent of the Chinese population, nor the more advanced English population; for these are but conveniences and playgrounds for the well-to-do. And the hospitals are but a breakwater temporarily holding back the dark flood of human destitution.

I know that there are Englishmen in Hongkong who think it bad manners for an American to raise a voice of criticism about a British Colony. The facts in this article have been furnished me by British officials who have, in addition, given me facilities to investigate conditions for myself. We who think along lines of social change, are not bound by national or racial frontiers. We know that conditions similar to these of Hongkong also exist in my own country, America—particularly in the South—and in other countries. Yet that does not mean that we are to wash our hands of Hongkong any more than we are to keep silent about similar conditions elsewhere.

If we use the word democracy, it should have meaning. Otherwise we should find another word to properly describe the realities of the present system.

two branches into one, since the seamen shipped out. Since the recruiting drive, we have recruited thirty and generally stabilized the branch so that it will be independent of Acts of God, earthquakes, strikes or other cataclysmic upheavals.

"We sent several comrades to Spain. Joe Jordan is carrying on his work there, was wounded, recovered and went back to the front lines. We cannot forget Ernie Smith, who was in charge of the Maritime Strike Garage during the strike, and worked day and night keeping the union cars in condition. He developed lung and throat trouble and died in a sanitarium. And finally we're darned proud of Jack Moore, Pedro's contribution to the National Committee of the YCL."

All Los Angeles branches are indebted for at least something to the Tom Paine Branch—the branch that supplies artists, writers, musicians. Members of the Tom Paine branch built a chorus and dramatic groups in other parts of the League. Tom Paine members have prepared the dramatic section of the state convention, the convention play and song. This has all been done by only eight very active members. Tom Paine feels that its history lies largely in the future. But it's only common sense to see that they've done a swell and important job for the League.

So you take leave of Los Angeles. The City Hall tower fades from view as you continue south on El Camino Real. Passing rich agricultural fields—the ocean gets bluer and bluer, the air balmy and balmy—

A DAY PASSES

By Agnes Smedley

The Young Vanguard brought the dawn. Up the valley they came marching, their song resounding from the high cliffs:

Forward marching, the dawn is before us,

Comrades we fight together! Our bayonets and guns open the way!

We march forward courageously, We hoist our banners high! We are the Young Vanguard of workers and peasants!

Inside the temple of the Li clan in Chintang valley where the guard battalion of the General Staff of the Red Army lay sleeping, a young soldier half opened his eyes. He still lay motionless, outstretched on the stone floor, stupefied by exhausting sleep. The words beat into his consciousness:

We are the Young Vanguard of the workers and peasants!

We are the Young Vanguard of the workers and peasants!

The song he knew—yes, he was in his native village; he was marching with the young Vanguard himself, singing. No, he was lying on the hard mud floor of his peasant home. But was he, now? Through his half-opened eyes he saw the richly decorated, heavy beams upholding a green tiled roof above him. Where the roof swept upward in a graceful curve was the heavy branch of a peach tree naked of leaves in soft outline against a gray sky.

The decorated beams, the sweep of the roof, the branch of the peach tree, confused him. He lifted himself on one elbow and gazed outward in the direction from which a flood of soft early morning light was pouring in upon him. Then full memory returned to his sleep-drugged brain and he realized that he was a Red soldier in the headquarter of the Red Army in Chintang, and that he was sleeping on the stage in the temple of the Li clan.

On the stage lay other figures, some on the floor, others on long boards stretched between rough benches. As he looked, one of the figures stretched and yawned, and he saw the black moustache of Chu Teh, commander-in-chief of the Red Army, whom he had followed many thousands of li these past two years.

Beyond, far in the distance, he heard the singing of the Young Vanguard.

Then down one of the corridors came the figure of a man in the blue coarse cotton uniform of a worker, walking with a steady, rhythmic tread, one hand supporting a weapon over his shoulder that most certainly was an automatic machine gun. The man came on, his tread as regular as heart beats. He glanced down and saw the young soldier, blanket about him, with disheveled hair standing straight up in an inviting tuft on the top of the head. Unable to resist, the armed guard reached down, grasped the tuft and pulled the owner directly to his feet. The two men tussled about for a moment, while the song of the Young Vanguard came faintly from the distance.

"They're out and at it—going up to Hung Shin Esai! But you, lazy rascal, sleep on!" the guard said. Then scuffling awoke the sleeppartment and the Communist Party branch, there was a Club in each regiment to direct political, cultural, and recreational activities of all the men in the ranks. There were four committees under the Club's direction—athletics, cultural work, wall newspapers, and evening meetings.

The whole Army was also drawn into the cultural work. The Cultural Committee was waging a strong campaign against illiteracy in the Army and among the people of the region. There were classes of beginners in every company, and men were expected to learn bles was added a special dish of pork or chicken. Or, Red soldiers, rewarded a dollar or two for some special achievement, would use this money to buy a chicken or goose and share it with their squad. On such auspicious occasions they would invite Chu Teh or Mau Tse-tung or some other member of the General Staff as special guests. Generally it was Chu Teh. Of him they would say:

"Poor devil, he can never get a prize for anything because he is the commander-in-chief! Let's invite him!"

But it seemed that always that

After a few minutes over the noon meal, the bugles sounded for another two hours of study. Some men played chess for a time, then turned to their studies in reading and writing, but most turned to the classics in military strategy. When two o'clock came the bugles called again for gun practice and drill, and at four they sounded the finish. From four to five-thirty the men were free to do as they wished. They walked, visited wounded or sick friends in the hospital, swam in the river, read, made calls on peasant families. After supper at five-thirty they had another two and a half hours for meetings, conferences, study classes. At this time new peasant comrades were drawn into discussions and taught to speak in public, to express and defend their ideas.

But even with this, the labor of the Red Army was also not finished. The activities of the Political Department alone were as varied as were the needs of the Chinese masses. This Department organized special groups of men and women for agitation and propaganda. It gave special courses for women only. It helped the peasants and workers to organize. It organized and trained Peasant Partisans, the Young Vanguard, and the Red Guards.

The Young Vanguard were youths from the age of fourteen or fifteen to eighteen or nineteen. An occasional strong girl with shingled hair and frank healthy face smiled from their ranks. They were armed and trained by the Army and almost duplicated the Army's political training. They fought side by side with the Peasant Partisans, and when the Red Army fought in battle they fought with them, holding their own with their elders. They were enthusiastic youth, and in song and with gun proclaimed that they were the vanguards of Communism. Along the mountain paths their songs sounded:

A-hai-hai you!
We—much like the roses,
A-hai-hai yo!
We, the Young Vanguard!

The reveille that awoke them with the dawn awoke the masses with them to common labor and common struggle. With taps at night they all sank to rest, secure in each other's presence. So, when the Kuomintang politicians and the imperialist gazed at one another in the fear of the future and asked their eternal "Why?" the Red Army, with the fierceness of consciousness, alone could answer:

"Because we are the people! We are the awakened masses! We are the army of Communism!"

ing figures on the stage. One of the buglers on the floor sat up and began fumbling about. He awoke his two comrades and they also began fumbling about and talking. Then they grasped their bugles and advanced to the front of the stage. A blast from the three bugles rent the air, resounding from the cliffs beyond.

Up and down the valley echoed reveille from other bugles. It was five-thirty in the morning. The Red Army had started its day.

Inside the Li temple the cooks had already huge copper basins filled with steaming rice gruel into the courtyards. For each squad there was a small vessel of salted vegetables. At six-forty the fourth bugle cal sounded. Chow! The troops up and began dishing out the gruel into their bowls. They ate in squads, dipping their chopsticks into the small common vessel of vegetables.

Breakfast was soon finished. There followed a two-hour period under the guidance of the political department. Under this de-from five to ten characters a day. Sections of the wall-newspapers were prepared by the more advanced students. The advanced classes also became absorbed in the new text books which were being spread through the Soviet regions and in the Army. These had been prepared by the League of Left Social Scientists, organized secretly in Shanghai in the year before, and they were also being used in the new schools in the Soviet regions.

At nine-twenty the bugle sounded again and the troops marched away to lectures in political theory and discussion groups organized by the Cultural Committee.

Often Mau Tse-tung lectured in these classes; sometimes Chu Teh; at other times members of the political department, the Political Commissar of the company, or the secretary of the Party cell in the battalion.

At twelve the dinner bugle sounded and the classes disbanded. Sometimes to the dinner of steam-ing dry rice and simple vegetabefore they had a chance to invite him, he would come meandering along as if drawn by some magic. The men would laugh at him and say:

"Here comes the cook! He can smell a roast goose a hundred li away!"

Chu would protest: "What kind of comrades are you to eat alone!"

They called Chu Teh "the cook," not because he could smell roast goose many miles away, but because he had once been captured by the whites in battle, and had been released because he said he was just a miserable cook, a prisoner of the Reds. As proof he had pointed to the dirty old apron which he had donned from heaven knows where. He had shaved off his moustache and dirtied himself up perfectly. The whites had given him a kick in the pants and let him go for looking so stupid.

But when on duty or leading the army in battle he was "Comrade Chu," the commander-in-chief of the Red Army whom they trusted with their lives.

[SF ] displayed the publication, "Voice of Youth" for December 5, 1935. The banner of this paper indicates that it was the official organ of the Young Communist League (YCL), District 13. Pages 4 and 5 of this paper reflect a story by SMEDLEY entitled "A Day Passes" in which she describes a typical day's activities of the "Young Vanguard". This organization is described by the subject as being composed of youthful Chinese who received practically the same training as did the Chinese Red Army and who were organized along Red Army lines. Two photostatic copies of this story are being enclosed for the Bureau and New York.

[SF ] also displayed the yearbook of the California Young Communist League for 1937 entitled, "New Frontiers". Page 34, column 2 of this publication reflects that the branch of the YCL at San Diego, California, was named after AGNES SMEDLEY, "San Diego Woman Author Who Wrote Such Thrilling Stories of China's Communists". Two photostatic copies of the pertinent portion of this publication are being supplied the Bureau and New York. It will be noted that the Young Communist League has been cited by the Attorney General as an organization within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

b2

[SF ] also maintained a copy of a publication entitled, "The Clipper", for September 1941. Page 2 of this magazine reflects that it was published by the Clipper Press, Inc., a non-profit literary and educational organization located at 1717 North Vine Street, Hollywood, California. Its publication was under the auspices of the Hollywood Chapter of the League of American Writers. Pages 11 to 16 inclusive of this publication reflect an article by SMEDLEY entitled "The Light of East Asia", in which she describes the poverty and misery of lower class Chinese in Hong Kong and in which she argues that their plight is the result of oppression by the ruling classes. Two photostatic copies of this article are enclosed for the Bureau and New York. It will be noted that the League of American Writers has been cited by the Attorney General as an organization within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

[SF ] advised that he had received information concerning the subject from a reliable source whose name and whereabouts he was unable to recall at the time. This source reported to [SF ] on November 20, 1935, that SMEDLEY was a leading Communist who was at that time in China. The same source on May 24, 1937, advised that the subject had been a member of the Communist Party for several years, was looked upon as one of its leaders, and was then Party correspondent in Soviet China. The Communist Party at that time was planning to bring SMEDLEY to the United States and it was the opinion of [SF ] source that this was the reason certain unidentified groups are seeking to promote the withdrawal of SMEDLEY's U.S. citizenship. In an effort to combat these plans the Communist Party, through controlled unions and other groups, had instituted a program through which it sought to deny that SMEDLEY has ever been affiliated with the Communist Party.

The "Daily People's World" newspaper for November 24, 1942, reported that SMEDLEY's name appeared on a petition to Governor OLSON of California, requesting the pardon of one [redacted] who had been convicted of rape and robbery. b7C

San Francisco [redacted] of known reliability, has advised that the "Daily People's World" newspaper at San Francisco is controlled and dominated by the Communist Party. (U) b2 b7D

San Francisco [redacted] of known reliability, advised in December 1942 that the Communist Party had agitated for [redacted] release through the activities of the [redacted] Defense Committee. The basis for such agitation was the belief in Communist circles that [redacted] conviction was due to racial discrimination and "frame-up" charges. (U) b2 b7D b7C

ENCLOSURES: TO NEW YORK AND BUREAU:

Two photostatic copies of article "A Day Passes" by AGNES SMEDLEY, pages 4 and 5, "Voice of Youth", 12/5/35.

Two photostatic copies of article "The Light of East Asia" by AGNES SMEDLEY, pages 11-16 of "The Clipper", September 1941.

Note:

As noted herein the individuals mentioned were arrested with subject Smedley in March 1918, and were then charged with an espionage violation. Also as noted herein Bureau authority was granted New York by teletypes dated April 27, to interview Das because of the fact he had been arrested with Smedley. Based upon the results of this interview it may then become necessary to locate and interview the other individuals who were arrested with Smedley. However, it is being left to the discretion of the New York Office to determine whether such additional investigation is deemed advisable after they have interviewed Das. The results of a search of Bureau files is reflected in the above message. No identifying data was located concerning the individuals with the exception of Das who was interviewed by Bureau agents on September 25, 1944, and denied having been an agent of the Japanese Government. On April 30, 1918, Das was convicted and sentenced in San Francisco on another charge for conspiracy having formed an armed rebellion at India at the investigation to the German Government. He was committed to McNeal Island for 22 months.

He stated that while he was in Moscow in about 1928 in attendance at the International Lenin Institute, he had a conversation with one JENSEN, whom he described as an important official of the OGPU Far East Section at that time. He believed that JENSEN also used the alias of JOHNSON. He stated that during the course of a general conversation, JENSEN questioned him as to the possibility of his (KORNFEDER's) entering the OGPU apparatus operating in the Far East. When KORNFEDER questioned him as to any other Americans who might be members of the OGPU operating in the Far East, JENSEN mentioned AGNES SMEDLEY. KORNFEDER recalled that in about 1929 when he was still in Moscow, EARL BROWDER (presently expelled leader of the Communist Political

KORNFEDER recalled that at one time during a discussion of the Chinese Communist situation BROWDER mentioned that AGNES SMEDLEY was one of the Americans working for the Comintern in China.

KORNFEDER believed that he had heard SMEDLEY's name mentioned on other occasions in Communist circles prior to the time he dropped out of the Communist movement in 1934; however, he stated that he could not recall any facts surrounding such statements.

KORNFEDER advised that possibly FRED UTLEY, a former Communist whom he believed to be presently in New York City, could possibly furnish additional information on Subject.

With reference to the person named as JENSEN, alias JOHNSON, KORNFEDER was unable to furnish any additional identifying data and could not furnish his present whereabouts, stating that most probably he is still in Russia. It was his recollection that JENSEN may have operated in the United States prior to 1928 under the name JOHNSON.

AGNES SMEDLEY, WAS., INTERNAL SECURITY - R REFER TO REPORT OF SA J. T. O-BRIEN DATED MAY TWO SEVEN, NINETEEN FORTY-NINE AT NEW YORK CITY. ON PAGE TWO ONE INFORMATION IS CONTAINED THAT DURING A DISCUSSION AT YADDO ESTATE, SARATOGA CONCERNING SMEDLEY, [REDACTED] BELITTLED THE IDEA THAT SMEDLEY WAS EITHER A COMMUNIST OR ESPIONAGE AGENT. HE STATED THAT IN NINETEEN FORTY WHEN SMEDLEY HAD JUST LEFT CHINA, SHE WROTE HIM AN EIGHT PAGE LETTER FROM LOS ANGELES ABOUT HER TROUBLES STATING THAT THE COMMUNISTS WERE ALL TURNING ON HER AND WERE SEEING TO IT THAT SHE DID NOT GET SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS. HE FURTHER STATED THAT SHE WORKED AS A FARM HAND UNTIL HE RECOMMENDED THAT SHE GO TO YADDO. [REDACTED] QUOTED SMEDLEY AS SAYING THAT SHE HAD BEEN VERY MUCH IN LOVE WITH A CHINESE GENERAL, BUT THAT SHE HAD BEEN "CAUGHT OUT ON A LIMB IN CHINA DUE TO A SWITCH". FILES OF THE NEW YORK OFFICE REFLECT THAT [REDACTED] A WRITER AND FORMER EDITOR OF THE "NEW REPUBLIC", RESIDES AT SHERMAN, CONNECTICUT. HE TESTIFIED AT THE FIRST HISS TRIAL ON BEHALF OF HISS REGARDING A CONVERSATION WITH WHITTAKER CHAMBERS IN NINETEEN FORTY. HIS TESTIMONY TENDED TO PICTURE CHAMBERS AS MENTALLY UNSTABLE. UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION, HE DENIED EVER BEING A COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBER, BUT ADMITTED REGISTERING AS A COMMUNIST AND VOTING COMMUNIST PARTY TICKET IN NINETEEN THIRTY-TWO, THIRTY-FOUR AND THIRTY-SIX. AGNES SMEDLEY, WAS., IS - R. RE REPORT SA J. T. O-BRIEN, DATED APRIL TWENTY EIGHT LAST AT NYC, REFLECTING INFO RECEIVED FROM LOUIS BUDENZ THAT IN APPROXIMATELY NINETEEN TWENTY ONE HE WAS INTRODUCED TO AGNES SMEDLEY BY ROGER BALDWIN, AT WHICH TIME SMEDLEY ACCUSED BUDENZ OF BEING "A GOVERNMENT MAN". FILES IN THIS OFFICE REFLECT THAT ROGER N. BALDWIN IS DIRECTOR OF THE AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION, NY, WHICH ORGANIZATION IS AVOWEDLY NON COMMUNIST, BUT HAS FREQUENTLY ESPOUSED CAUSES SUPPORTED BY THE CP. MOST RECENTLY HAS AGITATED FOR AN INVESTIGATION IN CONNECTION WITH THE RIOTS WHICH OCCURRED LAST SUMMER AT PEEKSKILL, NY, AT A CONCERT GIVEN BY PAUL ROBESON. FILES ALSO REFLECT THAT THERE HAS BEEN CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE DIRECTOR AND BALDWIN. BALDWIN WAS RECIPIENT OF LETTER DATED OCT. TEN FORTY NINE FROM THE DIRECTOR WHICH ACKNOWLEDGED RECEIPT OF A LETTER OF EXPLANATION FROM BALDWIN REGARDING AN ACLU REPORT WHICH MENTIONED THE BUREAU IN DEROGATORY TERMS. THE LETTER CHIDED BALDWIN FOR MAKING STATEMENTS REGARDING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE BUREAU WITHOUT ASCERTAINING THE TRUE FACTS. NYO WILL NOT INTERVIEW BALDWIN UNLESS SPECIFICALLY INSTRUCTED TO DO SO.

INFORMATION FURNISHED BY NEW YORK ~~CONFIDENTIAL~~ INFORMANT

IS-C.

INFORMANT INTERVIEWED THIS AFTERNOON AND EVENING BY NEW YORK AGENTS. AT OUTSET OF INTERVIEW, INFORMANT SHOWED NUMEROUS PIECES OF CORRESPONDENCE, NEWSPAPER CLIPPIN
AND OTHER SUCH ITEMS SHOWING HIS LONG ASSOCIATION IN CP AS WELL AS POSITION OF ESTEEM AND RESPECT HE HAS OCCUPIED IN MOVEMENT [REDACTED] INFORMANT SAID THAT DUCLOS ARTICLE IN SPRING OF FORTYFIVE WAS WELL RECEIVED BY CP MEMBERSHIP
SINCE IT TOOK EARL BROWDER TO TASK FOR HIS NUMEROUS SHORT COMINGS AND TENDENCY TOWARD DICTATORIAL PRACTICES. INFORMANT STATED THAT WILLIAM Z. FOSTER SAVED EUGENE DENNIS FROM MEETING THE SAME FATE AS EARL BROWDER AS IT WAS COMMONLY EXPECTED THAT DENNIS,
AS BROWDER-S CHIEF LIEUTENANT, SHOULD HAVE BEEN EXPELLED. IT WAS INFORMANT-S OPINION THAT FOSTER BUILT UP DENNIS TO OFFSET THE INFLUENCE EXERTED BY JACK STACHEL FOR MANY YEARS AND THAT FOSTER HAS PITTED THESE TWO LEADERS AGAINST EACH OTHER TO MAINTAIN HIMSELF IN POWER. INFORMANT STATED THAT IN HIS OPINION, WHILE FOSTER IS THE "RUBBER STAMP" HEAD OF THE PARTY, HE IS THE FINAL AUTHORITY ON MATTERS OF BASIC PARTY POLICY
AND THAT QUESTIONS OF POLICY CONFRONTED BY DENNIS OR STACHEL MUST BE REFERRED BY THEM
TO FOSTER FOR HIS APPROVAL. WHEN AND IF FOSTER-S APPROVAL ON POLICY IS RENDERED, THEN DENNIS AND STACHEL HAVE THE AUTHORITY TO EXECUTE POLICIES WHICH THEY MAY FAVOR
UNDER THE NAME OF FOSTER SO LONG AS IT ADHERES TO THE LINE APPROVED BY FOSTER.
INFORMANT BELIEVED THAT DENNIS IS ONLY LOGICAL SUCCESSOR TO FOSTER IF AND WHEN FOSTER
RETIRES OR DIES. INFORMANT DECLARED THAT IN HIS OPINION, CP LEADERSHIP WAS ABOUT TO BLOW UP DUE TO A GREAT AMOUNT OF JEALOUSY AND FACTIONALISM AMONGST LEADERS FOR AT LEAST THREE YEARS FOLLOWING DUCLOS ARTICLE AND THAT ARRESTS OF THE TWELVE LEADERS
THESE ARRESTS SERVED AS A RALLYING POINT FOR THE MOBILIZATION OF RANK AND FILE MEMBERS TO COME TO THE SUPPORT OF THE ARRESTED PARTY LEADERSHIP AND IN THE INFORMANT-S OPINION, THE ARREST DID SOMEWHAT UNIFY AND STRENGTHEN THE MEMBERSHIP. WITH REGARD TO UNDER-

GROUND ACTIVITIES OF THE PARTY AT PRESENT, INFORMANT OPINED THAT PARTY IS ALWAYS READY TO GO UNDERGROUND AT A MOMENTS NOTICE BUT THAT TODAY THEY ARE QUASI UNDERGROUND AND OPERATE AS MUCH ABOVE GROUND AS POSSIBLE ESPECIALLY IN CONNECTION WITH SUCH MATTERS AS OPPOSITION TO THE MUNDT BILL AND DEFENSE OF COMMUNIST LEADERS. b7D
INFORMANT INDICATED THAT ALTERNAT [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

UNDOUBTEDLY BE SELECTED FROM AMONGST THE FOLLOWING...ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, WILLIAM SCHNEIDERMAN, ALEXANDER BITTELMAN, ARNOLD JOHNSON, ROY HUDSON, NAT GANLEY, LOUIS WEINSTOCK, BEN GOLD, ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN AND MORRIS CHILDS, IF LATTER IS NOT REALLY ILL. ACCORDING TO INFORMANT, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED], WOULD PROBABLY BE NAMED FROM b7D
AMONG THE FOLLOWING ... BETTY GANNETT, MAX WEISS, SIDNEY STEIN, WILLIAM NORMAN, ABNER W. BERRY, GEORGE BLAKE, CLAUDIA JONES, WILLIAM WEINER AND PERHAPS V. J. JEROME. INFORMANT COMMENTED IN HIS OPINION ALBERT BLUMBERG OF BALTIMORE, FORMERLY NATIONAL CP LEGISLATIVE SECRETARY, WAS AT ONE TIME COORDINATOR OF SECRET GOVERNMENT GROUP OF COMMUNISTS WHOSE IDENTITIES ARE UNKNOWN TO THE INFORMANT. IN THIS CONNECTION, HE SAID THAT BLUMBERG USED TO REPORT WEEKLY TO EUGENE DENNIS IN NEW YORK CITY UP UNTIL FORTYSIX. THE INFORMANT MENTIONED THE NAMES OF [REDACTED] WHO HE HAD REASON TO b7C BELIEVE WERE ENGAGED IN SECRET PARTY APPARATUS WORK IN THE US AND THAT [REDACTED] ESPECIALLY HAD A LONG BACKGROUND OF INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE. IN INFORMANT-S OPINION, [REDACTED] WOULD BE THE FIRST PERSON HE WOULD SUSPECT OF HEADING THE SECRET COMMUNIST APPARATUS IN NORTH AMERICA AT THE PRESENT TIME, WORKING UNDER ORDERS DIRECT FROM MOSCOW. INFORMANT WAS UNABLE TO FURNISH ANY INFORMATION CONCERNING COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP ON PART OF AGNES SMEDLEY SINCE HE SAID HE KNEW HER ONLY AS A LECTURER AND WRITER. INFORMANT STATED THAT SMEDLEY SPENT MANY YEARS WITH THE CHINESE RED ARMY AND THAT HER WRITING AND SPEECHES WERE FAVORABLE TO THE CHINESE COMMUNISTS. INFORMANT REPEATEDLY MENTIONED THAT HE IS LOOKING FORWARD TO THE DAY THAT HE CAN QUIETLY REMOVE HIMSELF FROM THE PARTY ORBIT AND RESUME HIS EXPECTED PLACE IN AMERICAN LABOR MOVEMENT IN SOME RESPONSIBLE POSITION AS (U)

WELL AS RETURN TO A NORMAL WAY OF LIFE. THE INFORMANT INDICATED THAT HIS WIFE IS QUITE CONCERNED WITH HIS HEALTH AND PEACE OF MIND AS WELL AS HER OWN AND IS ANXIOUS TO SEE HIM SEVER ALL CONNECTIONS WITH THE PARTY. INFORMANT STATED THAT HE HAS DISCUSSED WITH HIS WIFE HIS CONTACT WITH THIS BUREAU AND THAT HIS WIFE HAS RAISED SEVERAL QUESTIONS CONCERNING POSSIBLE REPERCUSSIONS OR RAMIFICATIONS WHICH MIGHT RESULT FROM THIS CONTACT. INFORMANT STATED THAT HIS WIFE IS ANITCOMMUNIST AND DETESTS PARTY LEADERS AND IS SOMEWHAT HAPPY OVER THE FACT THAT HE HAS MADE CONTACT WITH THE BUREAU BUT IS ALSO CONCERNED ABOUT HIS WELFARE. DETAILS FOLLOW IN LETTER. ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE TO RECONTACT INFORMANT WEDNESDAY, AFTERNOON, APRIL TWENTY SIX, FOR A FEW HOURS. (U)

Mr. Hennrich in the Espionage Section advised the writer that information has been obtained that Major General Willoughby, G-2, of the Far East Command, has stated that he has enough information on [redacted] to "hang him." Mr. Hennrich also indicated that the Far East Command allegedly has a book which includes a photograph of Agnes Smedley in a Russian uniform. b7C

He requested that G-2 contact the Far East Command and request all information on Agnes Smedley, in addition to all information on the following individuals:

b7C

the Amerasia Magazine.

It was also requested that the Far East Command furnish either a photographic or photostatic copy of the picture of Agnes Smedley which appeared in the book in the possession of General Willoughby.

A request was made of Major Carlan of the Intelligence Division. Major Carlan has advised that he has received a cable from the Far East Command which indicates that "the photograph of Smedley appears on the page facing page 42 in the book, 'China Fights Back' published by Vanguard Press, New York, in 1938." The Far East Command has indicated, according to Major Carlan that Smedley does not appear in a Soviet uniform but the uniform is probably the Chinese Communist Eighth Route Army. u Per Army LTR 3.30.43 ny 6.20.23

Major Carlan indicated that the Far East Command has referred him to numerous communications which they previously have submitted regarding the other individuals concerning whom information was requested. Major Carlan stated that he was checking all of these references to make certain that they had been submitted to the Bureau. u Per Army LTR 3/30/43 ny 6.20.23

This matter will be followed closely with Major Carlan and all information received will be immediately furnished to the Espionage Section.

AGNES SMEDLEY sent greetings to the Mother BLOOR Banquet - Source - Program of the banquet, January 24, 1936, pages 7 and 9.

Files of HCUA reflect that on January 24, 1936, there was held in the Hotel Lismore, New York City, a banquet in honor of ELLA REEVE BLOOR. According to the HCUA, ELLA BLOOR has been one of the most notorious leaders of the Communist Party in the United States for many years, she is unquestionably the best known woman member of the Party.

Files of HCUA also reflected that the name of AGNES SMEDLEY had been added to the FESTUS COLEMAN Pardon Petition.

The California Committee on Un-American Activities in its report of 1948, page 172, cited the FESTUS COLEMAN Committee as a Communist front.

Files of HCUA reflected that the name of AGNES SMEDLEY appeared on the photostatic copy of International Literature as one of the permanent contributors to International Literature.

The photostatic copy of International Literature in the possession of HCUA reflects that this publication calls itself the organ of the International Union of Revolutionary Writers, and it is printed in the Union of the Soviet Socialist Republics.

Concerning the International Literature, the Massachusetts House Committee on Un-American Activities in its report of 1938, page 444, stated that this publication is an organ of the Soviet International Union of Revolutionary Writers, or the International Bureau of Revolutionary Literature.

The files of HCUA reflected the following information concerning AGNES SMEDLEY, which was contained in the testimony of WALTER S. STEELE of the National Republic, and Chairman of the American Coalition Committee on National Security representing various organizations.

On Tuesday, August 16, 1938, before the Special Committee to Investigate Un-American Activities, he testified that "Universum Publishers and Distributors" with offices at 38 Union Square, New York City, where ABRAHAM KERTESZ was Manager, are publishers and distributors of some 11 or more Communist newspapers printed in the German language and hundreds of Communist books and pamphlets, all printed in German for distribution among the German-speaking people in the United States. Among the authors of some of the widely circulated publications, the name of AGNES SMEDLEY appeared.

STEELE also testified that in the "Guide to Readings on Communism", issued by the Workers Bookshop in New York City, 136 different special titles were listed in the "suggested reading" column. Among these titles, according to WALTER STEELE, appeared "Chinese Destinies" by AGNES SMEDLEY.

On August 17, 1938, WALTER STEELE continued his testimony before the Special Committee to Investigate Un-American Activities, and he stated that in 1933 (April 26-27) there was proposed a national convention of American Revolutionary Writers. He advised that the Congress of American Revolutionary Writers was held on April 26, 1935, at Mecca Temple, New York City. According to STEELE, the League of American Writers was born there.

He further testified that messages and greetings to this Congress were received from several persons in foreign lands and AGNES SMEDLEY's name appeared among those who sent such greetings. STEELE also testified that AGNES SMEDLEY was one of those elected to the National Council of the League of American Writers.

Concerning the League of American Writers, it is noted that this is one of the organizations which has been declared by the United States Attorney General as being within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

WALTER STEELE, in testifying on August 17, 1938, before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities, furnished the names of the contributing editors of the Negro Liberator. Among these names of contributing editors appeared the name of AGNES SMEDLEY.

Files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities reflect that The Liberator is a "Communist magazine".

Files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities also reflect that one STUART LILLICO, on November 22, 1938, testified before the Subcommittee to Investigate Un-American Activities. In a public hearing he testified he had attended the University of Washington in Seattle for two years and left there in 1930, and subsequently, went to the Orient to do newspaper work. He stated that while in the Orient he worked for the Shanghai Evening Post and the China Journal. He testified that the Chinese Communists withdrew to Northwest China subsequent to 1934 and were visited there by a number of American correspondents and known Communist sympathizers. LILLICO (testifying in 1938) stated that since that time (1934) a number of these correspondents have been active in presenting the Communist case to the world. Among these correspondents, according to LILLICO, was AGNES SMEDLEY, "who has acted as a spokesman for the Chinese Communists for nearly a decade".

Appendix 9 of the files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, on Page 591, reflects the name of AGNES SMEDLEY as one of the contributors to the book advertised by The Book Union, Inc., by the name of ~~"Proletarian Literature in the United States"~~.

Files of the House Committee on Un-American Activities reflect that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party and the head of the International Publishers, official Communist publishing house, speaking before the First Congress of the League of American Writers, characterized The Book Union as an important part of the "publishing and distributing apparatus at our command". Information concerning the League of American Writers has been set forth previously in this report.

Page 968 of Appendix 9 of the files of HCUA, reflect that the name of AGNES SMEDLEY appeared on a list of names of persons who have contributed to the magazine International Literature, which is described by the HCUA as an organ of the International Union of Revolutionary Writers.

Page 1391 of Appendix 9 of the files of HCUA, reflect that AGNES SMEDLEY was one of the individuals who wrote for the Partisan Review during the period of its domination by the Communist Party.

The Partisan Review, according to HCUA files, made its first appearance with its issue of February-March 1934. It carried on the masthead the following description:

A bi-monthly of revolutionary literature published by the JOHN REED Club of New York.

According to HCUA, the Partisan Review was taken over by a group of self-styled revolutionists who had broken away from the Communist Party, but who still adhered to their Marxian revolutionary theories.

Files of HCUA reflect that JOHN REED Clubs were out-and-out Communist Party clubs, which were named after one of the original American Communists, JOHN REED, who died in Moscow and who was buried in the Kremlin.

The HCUA, in a pamphlet entitled Review of the Scientific and Cultural Conference for World Peace, pamphlet being dated, April 19, 1949, set forth a list of names of persons who sponsored the American League for Peace and Democracy and who also sponsored the Scientific and Cultural Conference for World Peace. Among this list of names appeared the name of AGNES SMEDLEY.

The American League for Peace and Democracy is one of the organizations which has been declared by the United States Attorney General as being within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

This same pamphlet stated that a tabulation of the numerous Communist front affiliations of the sponsors of the Scientific and Cultural Conference for World Peace showed that 270 of the sponsors have been affiliated with from one to ten Communist front organizations. Among the names of these 270 appeared the name of AGNES SMEDLEY.

This pamphlet further reflected that AGNES SMEDLEY was affiliated with the Committee for Democratic Far Eastern Policy which had been cited as subversive by the California Committee on Un-American Activities.

This pamphlet also set forth the name of AGNES SMEDLEY as being affiliated with the Civil Rights Congress, the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee, and stated she was a supporter of Communist bookshops.

This pamphlet also indicated that AGNES SMEDLEY was one of the signers of statements defending the Communist Party on April 16, 1947, and April 20, 1947, and the pamphlet also reflected that AGNES SMEDLEY was a supporter of the Mother BLOOR Banquet, January 24, 1936.

This pamphlet also stated that AGNES SMEDLEY was affiliated with the Daily Worker and New Masses magazine. Further, that she was a sponsor of the World Peace Conference, and was listed as a speaker also before the World Peace Conference.

Confidential Informant  of unknown reliability, b2 was formerly an official in the United States Government, advised he has b7D known subject slightly for approximately 25 years, having known her as a "friend" of the family. This informant advised he had only seen her approximately three or four times in the past ten years, and that during the past ten years subject had stayed at his home on one occasion. He advised that from what he had seen of her and from what he had heard about her from persons who knew her quite well, he did not consider her to be an espionage agent, or a member of the Communist Party. He stated it was his opinion she is such a "screwball" he does not think she would be susceptible to the discipline required of Communist Party members. He also stated she is extremely emotional and he would call her a "rebel", meaning by this that she is the emotional type who is on the unpopular side of any question.

The informant advised there were probably many persons who think the subject is a Communist, having probably based their belief upon her writings. He stated although he had not read all of her books he felt it was necessary for anyone reading her books to bear in mind the period of time in world history during which these books were written. By this, he explained, that several of her books were written at the time when the Chinese Communists were waging war against the Japanese aggressors, and by so doing were pursuing a course which was popular to a great many Americans. Informant advised he did not mean to indicate that subject believed in the Chinese Communists because of their fight against the Japanese, but he stated he wished to show this was a possibility.

Informant stated that although he did not consider the subject to be a Communist, or a Russian espionage agent, he definitely believed her to be a Russian apologist. He stated his reason for so believing her to be a Russian apologist is based upon conversations with her during which time he made a statement condemning the Russians for their part in dismantling the factories of Manchuria. He advised AGNES SMEDLEY, upon hearing him condemn the Russians, literally "exploded". She immediately came to the defense of the Russians and tried to offer some defense for their actions, which was not based upon any kind of reasoning, according to the informant.

Informant advised he had last seen the subject approximately one year ago, and therefore, did not know whether she was still an apologist for the Russians. He also did not know whether she was pro-Communist. This informant further advised he felt quite certain she was not a member of the Communist Party, or an espionage agent.

spoke at a banquet arranged by L.S.N.R.
for BEN DAVIS - Source - Daily Worker,
June 21, 1934.

The identity of "L.S.N.R." did not appear in the files of the HCUA. It is believed that the BEN DAVIS referred to is a Communist Party functionary, and the "L.S.N.R." is the League of Struggle for Negro Rights which has been cited by HCUA as a Communist front.

b2
b7D Confidential Informant [ ] referred to in the investigative section of this report, further advised concerning AGNES SMEDLEY that AGNES SMEDLEY has been a friend of his mother for approximately 25 years.
He advised his mother, at the present time, is 72 years of age and lives in Rockland County, New York. This informant stated he did not think it would be a good idea to interview his mother inasmuch as his mother has reached that point in her life where she is very easily upset, and unable to talk coherently and intelligently.

The informant further stated concerning AGNES SMEDLEY that she calls herself a "Jeffersonian Democrat". Informant also advised that the only persons he knew who might know AGNES SMEDLEY quite well would be anyone connected with the Committee for Democratic Far Eastern Policy.
Informant stated he knew the names of none of these individuals, but felt that anyone in that organization would know AGNES SMEDLEY quite well.

DIRECTOR URGENT

AGNES SMEDLEY, WAS., IS-R. REBUTEL MAY SIX LAST. THE REPORT OF SA JAMES T. O-BRIEN DATED APRIL TWENTY EIGHT LAST AT NY DID NOT SET FORTH ALL LEADS FOR NYO SINCE SCOPE OF INVESTIGATION HAS BEEN GREATLY EXPANDED, AND INVESTIGATION WAS BEING EXPEDITED BY SEVERAL AGENTS, WITH NEW LEADS CONSTANTLY ARISING FROM EACH INTERVIEW. LEAD PAGE WOULD THEREFORE BE NECESSARILY INCOMPLETE IN VIEW OF EARLY DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION OF REPORT, AND IT WAS DEEMED ADVISABLE TO INDICATE THIS BY SETTING FORTH A GENERAL LEAD. WITH REFERENCE TO LEADS FOR OTHER OFFICES, ALL SUCH LEADS WERE FURNISHED BY TELETYPE TO THE BUREAU AS WELL AS TO THE COVERING OFFICE, SO THAT THE BUREAU IS PRESENTLY IN POSSESSION OF ALL OUTSTANDING LEADS OF THIS TYPE. THIS A. M. RADIO NEWS BROADCASTS MENTIONED SMEDLEYS DEATH IN ENGLAND. THE NEW YORK TIMES INFORMATION DESK TODAY VERIFIED THE REPORT OF SMEDLEY-S DEATH IN ENGLAND ON MAY SIX LAST. IN VIEW OF THIS, OUTSTANDING LEADS FOR THIS OFFICE WILL BE RE-EVALUTED TO ASCERTAIN WHAT REMAINING INVESTIGATION SHOULD BE CONDUCTED AND SUBMISSION OF LEAD SHEET WILL BE HELD IN ABEYANCE. BUREAU OBSERVATIONS REQUESTED WITH RESPECT TO WHAT SPECIFIC LEADS OR TYPE OF LEADS SHOULD STILL BE COVERED. IN VIEW OF SMEDLEYS DEATH.

URGENT

RECORDED - 114 64-6584-284
AGNES SADDLEY, WAS, IS-R. RE NEW YORK TEL MAY EIGHT LAST. IN VIEW OF SUBJECT-S DEATH ON MAY SIX LAST, AT OXFORD, ENGLAND, AS VERIFIED BY LEGAL ATTACHE, LONDON, YOU ARE INSTRUCTED AS OFFICE OF ORIGIN TO RECONSIDER AND RE-EVALUATE ALL LEADS PRESENTLY OUTSTANDING. ALL OFFICES
WITH LEADS PRESENTLY OUTSTANDING SHOULD BE ADVISED BY TELETYPE TO CON-TINUE THEIR INVESTIGATION, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THOSE OFFICES HAVING LEADS THAT THE NEW YORK OFFICE FEELS SHOULD BE COVERED. THE EVALUATION OF ALL LEADS SHOULD BE MADE IMMEDIATELY AND THE BUREAU ADVISED BY TELETYPE
OF ALL LEADS REMAINING IN THIS CASE. THE BUREAU INITIATED THE ESPIONAGE
INVESTIGATION ON SADDLEY ON NOVEMBER FIVE, FORTYSEVEN, FOR THE PURPOSE OF DETERMINING WHETHER SADDLEY WAS ENGAGED IN ESPIONAGE ACTIVITIES ON BEHALF OF A FOREIGN GOVERNMENT FROM NINETEEN FORTYONE, THE DATE OF HER RETURN TO THE UNITED STATES. IT IS THE BUREAU-S OBSERVATION THAT FUTURE INVESTIGATION IN THIS CASE SHOULD BE DIRECTED TO COVERING LEADS FOR THE PURPOSE OF DEVELOPING INTELLIGENCE INFORMATION. IT IS ALSO THE BUREAU-S OBSERVATION THAT MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY AND PERSONS CLOSELY ALLIED TO THE COMMUNIST PARTY AND COMMUNIST FRONTS SHOULD NOT BE CONTACTED FOR INFORMATION
UNLESS YOUR OFFICE HAS SPECIFIC INFORMATION THAT THEY POSSESS INTELLIGENCE
INFORMATION AS A RESULT OF THEIR ASSOCIATION WITH SADDLEY. IN SUCH CASES, BUREAU AUTHORITY SHOULD BE REQUESTED TO COVER SUCH INFORMATION.
